Researchers Work To Better Determine Contributers Of Nutrients

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The future of nutrient management in Pennsylvania appears that it will actually be a statewide, all-activities management plan and not just a focus on agriculture and already regulated industry.

The state developed the nation's first mandatory nutrient management planning laws in an effort to stem the uncontrolled flow of nutrients into the state's surface and groundwaters.

While regulations were already in place to deal with specifically known sources (point sources) of nutrients — such as wastewater treatment plants — there was undeniable evidence that other sources of nutrients were contaminating groundwater and threatening public health.

These other sources could not be pin-pointed, though some activities such as agriculture and malfunctioning residential on-lot septic systems were suspect. These sources have been catagorized as "non-point" sources.

Necessary Work

This work into determining nutrient sources is necessary for many reasons.

Starling Named Interim Dean Of Penn State Agricultural Sciences

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.)—Dr. James L. Starling, senior associate dean and professor of agronomy in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, has been named interim dean of the college, effective Jan. 1.

Starling succeeds Dr. Lamartine F. Hood, who announced last July that he would step down from the post, which he has held since March 1986.

Starling has been responsible for fiscal and personnel matters, strategic planning and physical facility development for the college. He was named associate dean for administration in 1985 and senior associate dean in 1993.

His tenure as senior associate dean has been marked by many improvements in college facilities, including extensive renovations to the Armsby, Buckhout and Tyson buildings, new poultry, dairy and greenhouse facilities, the construction of the Agricultural Sciences and Industries Building, and the expansion of the college's land holdings.

Starling has provided administrative direction to the college's farm operations and auxiliary enterprises such as the Dairy Herd Improvement Association and the Agricultural Analytical Services Laboratory. He also has coordinated academic unit reviews.

Starling was head of Penn State's Department of Agronomy from 1969 to 1985.

Prior to his appointment as deparment head, Starling was a research project leader in forage crop breeding and genetics. His primary responsibility was with perennial grass breeding and genetics. He also taught at the graduate level, drawing students from throughout the university to his Fifty years ago, Clara and Ralph Rimmey came to farm these 100 acres along Route 322 east of State College known as Tussey Ridge. Today their son and daughter-in-law, Doug and Belinda, and grandchildren Nathan, 17, and Brandi, 13, carry the family's love of farming into the future.

MUN Test Provides Basis For Dramatic Milk Production Increase

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

TUSSEYVILLE (Centre County)—Doug Rimmey thought he was getting about maximum production from his 70 Holstein cows. But last Tuesday, sitting around the farm shop table eating fried eggs and potatoes in the farm equipment and repair shed with his dad Ralph, Doug explained how the use of the new Milk Urea Nitrogen (MUN) test, offered by Pennsylvania DHIA, increased milk production by three pounds per day per cow in less than two weeks.

"As tight as it is in the dairy business, I thought that with a herd our size, it would not take too much to recover the price of the MUN test," Doug said. "I didn't think it would be wise for us not to try it. We were getting out of our cows about all we could, but by just adding a pound of protein per cow per day — my, what a difference."

Ralph and Clara Rimmey rented the 100 acre Tussey Ridge homestead that borders Route 322, east of State College in 1956 after Ralph got out of the U.S.Navy. They started with one month's rent paid in advance and $150 in pocket. In addition to their shoe-string start, Ralph claims he didn't even know how to run the milking machine.

"You can't start out small today and make it," the elder Rimmey said. "It's a shame."

In 1959 the farm owner gave the Rimmeys nine months to round up the money to buy the farm, which they did. And since that time, they have been making a living at farming and building equity in their farm.

About 17 years ago, father and son went into partnership. Doug took over the cows, and Ralph manages the fields. In addition to the home farm, they rent 130 acres. But the highway that puts development pressure on the farm also makes it rough to get to productive land away from the farm.

NE Chicken Pts 1&2

DECEMBER 13, 1995

Trucklot buying interest was mixed and irregular, but was slowing somewhat. Bone-in breasts increased in overall availability; however, buyers were less aggressive and often took a wait and see position. Boneless skinless breasts were adequate and in generally good balance. Leg quarters were fully adequate to occasionally ample. Drumsticks were ample. Wings were in uneven distribution, but at least adequate.

PRICES PAID PER POUND, ICE PACKED AND CO2 PACKED BROILER/FRYER PARTS, DELIVERED TO FIRST RECEIVERS IN POOL TRUCKLOT AND TRUCKLOT QUANTITIES. National Egg Market

DECEMBER 13, 1995

Prices were unchanged to higher for brown eggs in New England, and unchanged on the balance. The market tone was steady for white eggs, and steady to firm for brown eggs. Demand was fair to very good, mostly moderate to good. Supplies of brown eggs were short of full needs, and white egg supplies were generally adequate or available. Breaking stock supplies were adequate to instances fully adequate, and the undertone was barely steady to weak. Spent hen offerings were tight to adequate for the fair demand, and the undertone was steady.

NY Phil Frozen Eggs

DECEMBER 12, 1995

Prices were unchanged. The market tone was steady. Demand continued to center on less-than-trucklot volumes for immediate delivery. Floor stocks of frozen products were generally no more than adequate. Shell egg supplies were adequate to instances fully adequate, and some plants offered extra eggs into grading channels.

Delmarva Broiler

DECEMBER 13, 1995

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was slowing. Offerings were at least adequate. Live supplies were mostly moderate; weights were in a full range and were generally desirable. Processing schedules were very heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 52 to 63 cents. Trade sentiment was steady. In the parts complex, breast items were adequate to closely cleared. Other items, particularly drums and occasionally leg quarters were at least adequate for the selective buying interest.

MARKET COMMENT: PRICES PAID TO PRODUCERS FOR BROWN EXTRA-LARGE THROUGH MEDIUMS WERE HIGHER, AND THE BALANCE OF PRICES WERE UNCHANGED. THE MARKET TONE WAS STEADY TO FIRM FOR BROWN EGGS, AND STEADY FOR WHITE EGGS. DEMAND WAS FAIR TO VERY GOOD, OCCASIONALLY NOT AS BRISK AS HOPED FOR THE UPCOMING HOLIDAYS. SUPPLIES OF WHITE EGGS WERE ADEQUATE OR AVAILABLE, AND BROWN EGG SUPPLIES REMAINED TIGHT. BREAKING STOCK SUPPLIES WERE AT LEAST ADEQUATE, AND THE TRADE SENTIMENT WAS BARELY STEADY AS RECENT TRADING WAS NOTED AT LOWER PRICES. PHILADELPHIA: PRICES TO RETAILERS, SALES TO VOLUME BUYERS, USDA GRADE A AND GRADE A, WHITE EGGS IN CARTONS, DELIVERED TO STORE DOOR, CENTS WERE DOZEN. EXTRA LARGE .95-.97, LARGE .93-.95, MEDIUM .78-.79.

National Grain Market

ST. JOSEPH, MO
DECEMBER 13, 1995

Lots of stamina in grain and soybean bids, not even pausing for a breather after a seven day steep uphill climb. Stronger bids ran right over profit taking and farmer selling. Exports supplying much of the oxygen. How much further to the top of the hill? Wheat to 1 cent lower to 1 cent higher. Corn steady to 1 cent higher. Sorghum 1 to 3 cents higher. Soybeans 6 to 7 cents higher. No export sales reported today. Price quotes beginning to look high to foreign buyers. Further Government incentives are in jeopardy as farm deal still not exactly finalized.

Some farmer selling, but this not the season of the year for tax purposes and other reasons. Rent is already paid out of early Fall receipts and... why sell when prices keep going up? Cold weather increased domestic livestock feed consumption. However, when producers get their next feed bill, they are going to wring the rooster's neck and send the old cow and sow to market. Calf prices are headed south and will not pay to keep the cow another year. Hog prices struggling to hold 45.00. Poultry producers are not getting rich a current feed/price ratios. Not a very bright picture for meat lovers. We may find out how important grains and soybeans are in out cost of living index. No more set asides and a record crop next year would put a smile on everyone's face.

OK City Feeder Cattle

OKLAHOMA CITY, OK
DECEMBER 13, 1995

Compared to Monday of last week: Feeder cattle and calves steady to 1.00 lower. Demand moderate and uneven. Quality plain to average. Calves continue to decline in flesh with many in thin to medium condition. Weigh-ups average to full. Last weekends cold front provided practically no moisture for Oklahoma's wheat country. Another dry week is in progress. Slaughter cows 2.00-3.00 higher, bulls firm. Demand excellent from packers. Winter weather up north and expected shorter numbers within next three weeks prompted higher market. Total of 675 cows and bulls sold with 75 percent to packers. Receipts this week 11,200; last week 14,188; last year 7,875. Supply consisted of 61 percent yearlings and numerous calves over 600 lbs; 33 percent calves under 600 lbs; 6 percent cows and bulls. Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis. Feeder Steers: Medium and Large 1 300-400 lbs (350 lbs) 69.00-72.00 (71.07); 400-500 lbs (450 lbs) 65.75-70.75, few thin 75.50 (67.79); 500-600 lbs (550 lbs) 62.00-68.00 (65.61); 600-700 lb calves (650 lbs) 60.75-67.50 (63.79); 600-700 lb yearlings (650 lbs) 65.25-69.25 (68.03); 700-800 lbs (750 lbs) 66.00-70.75 (68.36); 700-800 lb calves (750 lbs) 64.75-66.50 (65.91); 800-900 lbs (850 lbs) 65.00-70.50 (66.63); 900-925 lbs (918 lbs) 65.75-66.75 (66.09). The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

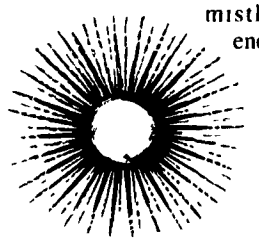
DECEMBER 18-24, 1995

WINTER SOLSTICE, DEC. 22.

"SUN STANDS STILL"

The term Solstice comes from the Latin for "sun stands still." In winter it is the shortest day and longest night, when the sun appears to be at its lowest point in the sky. Traditional Winter Solstice celebrations include the lighting of bonfires, candles, and Yule logs, the gathering of evergreens and holly, and the hanging of mistletoe. Druids considered mistletoe a symbol of friendship and peace, because it grew on the great oak without doing it harm. In northern Europe, mistletoe was reputed to turn enemies into friends.



"Santa Claus has the right idea; visit people once a year."

— Victor Borge

TIP OF THE WEEK

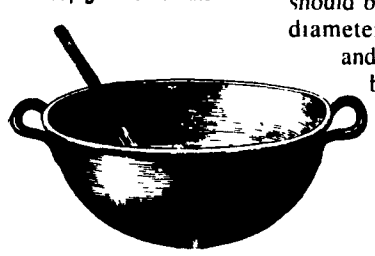
☞ To make a Yule log burn longer, soak it in water first and keep it well back in the fireplace.

SWEDISH COCOA BALLS

1/2 cup butter, softened
2/3 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cocoa
1 tablespoon strong coffee
1 scant teaspoon vanilla
1-3/4 cups quick oats
1/4 cup ground walnuts

Cream butter, sugar, and cocoa Add coffee, vanilla, and oats Chill until cold, then roll into small balls, pressing together firmly. Balls should be about 1 inch in diameter. Roll in sugar, and store in a tin. No baking required!

Makes about 2 dozen.



The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

If the New Moon enters its phase between 8 and 10 P.M., (as on Dec. 21), then the weather will be fair and frosty, if the wind is northerly or westerly.

Frost on the shortest day indicates a severe winter.

If the wind follows the Sun's course, expect fair weather.

SPECIAL PRICING UNTIL JANUARY 30TH

"Bald Ridge 611" A Totally new type of corn hybrid developed strictly for the livestock Farmer. A high protein corn that will produce from 50-80% more protein in the grain or silage than regular corn. Our research indicates that one bag of 611 planted on 3 ac. will produce 1,000-1,500 lb. of extra protein over regular yellow dent corn hybrid. This means that each bag of 611 has an added value to the livestock farmer in extra protein production of $250-400 per bag.

OPINION

Progress On Youth Livestock Ethics

Some progress has been made on the youth livestock ethics problem. Approximately 250 representatives of animal agriculture from 40 states across North America recently attended the National Youth Livestock Program Ethics Symposium and formulated an Action Plan to eliminate unethical and illegal activity in youth livestock programs.

The Livestock Conservation Institute facilitated the symposium in an effort to provide a forum for building consensus to interested individuals and organizations concerned about the growing number of unethical and illegal incidences related to youth livestock events. LCI was joined in this effort by the American Farm Bureau Federation, American Veterinary Medical Association, Animal Industry Foundation, National FFA Organization, and Cooperative Extension Service (4-H).

Following two days of presentations and discussions relating to the symposium's four areas of emphasis — self examination, unified effort, education and enforcement — the participants developed an action plan containing 78 "action items" and 38 "desired outcomes."

The establishment of a National Code of Ethics received top priority from each of the "working groups" from the four areas of emphasis as they developed a framework for progress. An evaluation of the existing livestock program rewards systems was also the consensus of most participants. Some of the other key issues outlined by the four groups in the Action Plan are as follows:

• Self-examination

Articulating and disseminating a system of professional ethics accepted as a consensus in youth livestock programs. Selecting, conducting and regulating youth livestock events such that the fundamental goals of both public and youth education and development are supported.

• Unified Effort

Local, state and national training programs to increase awareness of youth ethics by incorporating the unified effort of all those interested in improvement. Assimilating and distributing information from all groups involved in the showing of livestock on a local, state and national level. The adoption of award systems and standards that emphasize complete knowledge of industry and development of life skills.

• Education

External communication and education to address political entities, the media, fairboards, supporters and commodity groups. Internal communication with organizations attempting to implement successful animal science programs for youth. Educational programs to eliminate unethical behavior in the Junior Livestock Program. Revision of high dollar reward systems that encourage unethical acts, with recognition evaluated on effort and accomplishments both in and outside the showring.

• Enforcement

Advancing uniform rules and procedures for competitive livestock events to benefit the development of youth and to maintain a strong future for animal agriculture in America. Promoting ethics educational efforts for all youth involved in livestock showing. While the enthusiasm and unified sense of urgency of the group will carry this effort forward, the real point of proper conduct comes at the family and local youth level. Parents need to set examples for their children. Youth leaders also need to eliminate unethical and illegal activity in their youth livestock programs. Penalties of law and conscience when needed at a young age impair a lifetime of potential good works.

To Jump-Start Vehicles Safely

If you need to jump-start a vehicle that has a weak or discharged battery, be sure to follow these safety tips.

First, connect the positive cable marked with a "+" or red clamps to the positive terminal of the weak battery. Then clamp the other end of the positive cable to the positive post of the charged battery.

Next, connect the negative cable to the negative post of the good battery. Finally, make the last connection of the negative cable to the engine block or frame of the non-starting vehicle.

The engine block or frame acts like a negative terminal. By keeping the clamps of the weakened battery separated, one reduces the possibility of unwanted stray sparks causing an explosion or fire.

Once the vehicle is started, remove the cables in reverse order. Be careful not to allow the cables to contact each other when removing them. Store the jumper cables in a clean and dry location.

To Practice Safe Sledding

According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, more than 50,000 people receive emergency room treatment annually for injuries related to sleds, snow discs and toboggans.

There are a number of causes for these accidents. Old sleds may splinter or break or the steering mechanism may fail. A new snowfall may hide rocks, stumps, ditches, or a low fence wire. Injuries occur when sleds collide with other sleds, stationary objects, or moving cars.

Parents and children should keep safety in mind when heading to the snowy hillsides. Examine the hillside carefully for hidden obstructions. Children should learn how to roll off their sleds to avoid collisions.

Children must stay out of streets and traffic intersections when playing in the snow. Do not allow sleds to be towed by cars.

To Control Mice In Home

Dr. Tim Elkner, extension horticultural agent, reminds us this is the time of year when mice seek warm shelter and a guaranteed food supply.

Agile climbers, they can scale vertical surfaces such as trees and brick walls. They can cross power lines and pipes and squeeze through holes as small as a fourth of an inch in diameter.

Dark, grain size droppings in cabinets and drawers are a sign that mice are in the house. Hoarded food piles and nests of shredded paper or cloth are further evidence.

Prevention is the best form of mice control. Permanently seal all entries into the house. Steel wool stuffed firmly into a small opening makes a good temporary barrier against mice.

Store pet food and bird seed in sealed containers and clean up spills immediately. If mice are already in your house, set traps in areas where they are active — along walls and on ledges. Bait the traps with peanut butter. Check the traps daily to dispose of the catch and to renew the bait.

Be sure to prevent children and pets from being injured from the traps. Poison based baits are not recommended for homes. They are dangerous to children and dead mice may end up behind walls or under floors.

LIGHT FOR A DARK NIGHT
December 17, 1995

Background Scripture:
Isaiah 9:1-7
Devotional Reading:
Luke 1:46-55

Last March my wife and I landed in Bangkok, Thailand to board a cruise ship bound for Vietnam and Hong Kong. We knew that the ship was docked outside the city and engaged a taxi to take us there. We thought we'd be there in at least 30 minutes, but two hours later and our taxi was still hurtling south from Bangkok and night had fallen swiftly.

When, at last, we reached the port where our ship was docked, it was too dark to read the street signs and our taxi driver drove in circles for another 30 or more minutes. Finally, just when we were beginning to think we could not find our ship, we saw it gleaming like a Christmas tree in the darkness. Eventually, following its light, our driver delivered us to the ship in safety.

That experience, we later acknowledged to each other, is symbolic of life itself. How often we grope our way through life in darkness — unaware of where we are and not able to see where we're going. How often I have had to make choices without a clue as to what the outcome might be. I'm sure you have too. Then there have been some "dark nights of the soul" as St. John of the Cross described them, when, no matter what I did, my spirituality seemed to have dried up. So, I can personally identify with Isaiah's description of "The people who walked in darkness . . . those who dwelt in a land of deep darkness" (9:2).

LIGHT RETURNS

Although we do not know what time of the year Jesus was actually born, Christians have traditionally celebrated his birth at the time of the winter solstice, the time of the year when the days become longer once again and light begins its slow but sure return to earth.

When you've stumbled around in the darkness, nothing is so welcome as light. You don't have to see everything by that light, just enough to find your way. So Isaiah's prophecy, given to the people of Israel at a time of grave national and personal darkness is something that brings hope to anyone in darkness: "The people who walked in darkness have seen a great light."

It would appear that this "light" Isaiah saw was a king to rule Israel — whether already arrived or to come, we can't tell. When a person became king of Israel, he was anointed with oil in a religious ceremony. The term "Messiah," means "the anointed one." Isaiah gives a glowing description of this ideal king whom God has anointed to rule over them. "For to us a child is born, to us a son is given; and the government will be upon his shoulder, and his name will be called Wonderful Counselor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace."

THE ANOINTED ONE

It is not difficult to understand why early Christians saw this prophecy fulfilled in the birth of Jesus. All that Isaiah prophesied concerning the "anointed one" is applicable to Jesus. Note, that while Isaiah's contemporaries may have looked for a mighty ruler to lead a victorious army, extend Israel's borders and restore its secular power, the prophet sees the "anointed one" as accomplishing something quite different: "Of the increase of his government and of peace there will be no end . . . and to uphold it with justice and with righteousness from this time forth and forevermore" (9:7).

Peace, justice and righteousness were to be the hallmarks of the ideal king, the very role that Jesus fulfilled and still fulfills today. To put it in symbolic terms, Jesus came to bring divine light into the darkness of human existence. Christ was born almost two thousand years ago, but every year at this time we acknowledge that Christ is reborn among us wherever and whenever people walk in darkness.

- New top-of-line bias-ply tractor rear, featuring our long bar/long bar design for tread stability, and heavy bar bracing to extend tread life.
- Long wearing and smooth riding, due to the more uniform, flatter contour of the long bar/long bar design.
- Proven 23° bar angle for traction and open center for self-cleaning.
- Bead and rim protector shields the rim to help keep stubble and soil from getting between the bead and rim flange.

Right on top of higher yields.

There's never been a better time to plant Pioneer® brand soybean varieties. Our new and proven varieties offer you higher yield potential, strong agronomic traits, and improved disease and pest resistance. So get on top of higher yields. Ask your Pioneer sales representative about the varieties that are right for you. Bulk seed options are also available.

PIONEER® BRAND SOYBEAN SEED

That's what you'd expect from a soybean leader.

"A strong, prudent board of directors challenges management and staff to seek the greatest return on our investment in ADC, creating the highest net return to its members back on the farm."
—Richard & Janet Kriebel
Benton, PA

ADC Is the Place To Be

A high net return and a strong board of directors – the outstanding benefits that Richard and Janet Kriebel refer to – are among the strengths of the premier dairy cooperative in the region.

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative has a 78-year history of excellent service to its members. Financially strong, ADC guarantees a market for all member milk and excels in maximizing returns. ADC is a leader in providing equity payments, quality bonuses and over-order premiums to members.

Nearly 4,000 dairy farmers agree that "ADC is the Place to Be."

"It's great to be part of the team at ADC that produces a quality product and stands by its farmers."
—Levi & LuAnn Ransom
Nicholson, PA

ADC Is the Place To Be

Quality milk and support of its members – the outstanding benefits that Levi and LuAnn Ransom refer to – are among the strengths of the premier dairy cooperative in the region.

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative has a 78-year history of excellent service to its members. Financially strong, ADC guarantees a market for all member milk and excels in maximizing returns. ADC is a leader in providing equity payments, quality bonuses and over-order premiums to members.

Nearly 4,000 dairy farmers agree that "ADC is the Place to Be."

RECEIVING DATES FOR 12/20 & 12/22 SALES
12/19 - 7 to 4 12/20 - 7 to 10 12/21 - 7 to 4 12/22 - 7-10

Please stay with the auction system. We are still working as hard as we can for you. As of today (12/14/95) the market price is $1.35 and we're hoping to get more.

Remember, there is only 100% of the tobacco offered. What will the buyer do to get more tobacco?
1 - raise the price at auction, or
2 - buy on the farm

If the buyer buys on the farm he will tell the farmer that there's no commission to warehouse and that his price will be the same as at the auction. But, what will the on-farm buyer pay for low grade? If the buyer docks you on a 800 lb. skid - it could pay the commission for your whole crop selling at auction.

We like all buyers to buy at auction - we need your tobacco.
Please color grade

Farm And Agribusiness Leaders Present Views On Dean Search

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.)—About 50 people representing the agriculture and agribusiness community, along with members of the Dean Search Committee appointed by the Provost, gathered on campus on November 16. Some came to make formal presentations about the issues they see facing the next Dean, and to offer support from their industry groups to address those issues. Some came just to listen to the comments, silently expressing their interest in the future leadership of the College. Those on the Search Committee and those on the advisory committee to the search process came to hear the concerns of the College's constituents, hopefully to translate those comments into criteria they might use when considering applicants for the position.

There were 16 formal presentations, plus nine others who had submitted comments but were unable to attend. Comments covered a wide variety of issues, from those encouraging more College attention to smaller commodity interests to requests for more extension support in production agriculture and family farm concerns. Many concentrated the College's past support and stressed the importance of continuing and increasing support in the future. There were a number of comments that underscored the importance of the College as an advocate for Pennsylvania agriculture and agribusiness, stressing the vital leadership that is needed in the Dean and the College. The need for the external community to be involved in the College's planning was clear, as was the hope for more partnerships between the College and industry to help improve profitability in agriculture.

The meeting was sponsored by the Penn State Agricultural Council at the suggestion of Ag Trustee Dave Morrow to provide that group's Board of Directors with collective input to submit to the University President, the Provost, the Search Committee, and the Advisory Committee. Along with Dr. Morrow, other Ag Trustees Boyd Wolff, Sen. Roger Madigan, Guy Donaldson and Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brosius were at the meeting.

PENN STATE AGRICULTURAL COUNCIL

"Looking Toward the Future—an Agricultural and Agribusiness View"

On Thursday, November 16, 1995, the Penn State Agricultural Council convened a meeting at the Penn State Scanticon for the purpose of soliciting input from agricultural and agribusiness leaders about the issues and challenges that will face the next Dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences.

The Council's Board of Directors received prepared comments from those who responded to an open invitation to participate, and also from those unable to attend who submitted written comments. A list of presenters is attached to this document.

Following is the Board's summary of the major themes from the meeting, as well as more specific issues and observations made by the participants.

The participants, and therefore the comments, did not reflect the thoughts and opinions of the entire food system community. However, there were several broad issues that might be seen as relevant to the large agricultural and agribusiness clientele impacted by this College. The following are points from the meeting, as well as the Board's impressions of the challenges facing the next Dean:

- The future of Penn State Cooperative Extension is of major concern There are hopes to give more emphasis to extension, to have more trainers in this group who can train the clientele, to have more direct contact with production agriculture at the farm, to be more production-agriculture oriented, and to reinforce the value of extension to the entire farming family.
- There is wide support to continue the three thrusts of the College—research, education and extension.
- There is a hope to focus more of the College's attention on the needs of production agriculture.
- As the challenge of producing and processing agricultural products becomes more competitive, there will be a need to bring together all the segments of the "food system" in production and processing to meet these challenges for everyone's benefits.
- There are those in the agribusiness community who want to produce commodities in the traditional way, and those who are interested in opportunities to produce different products or value-added products, based on what the market wants. These two groups are sometimes in conflict.
- Outreach efforts of the College need to be expanded to all segments of the agricultural and related interests served by the College
- The public is not well-informed about agriculture, and more attention from the agricultural community, as well as the College, is needed to improve their understanding.
- Profitability in all areas of agribusiness is a primary focus and needs full College support
- Because of continually declining resources, the College may need to narrow its focus and establish priorities based on cost-benefit analysis.
- There is a need for the public to recognize that "agriculture" is a cultural part of society—with a certain lifestyle, value system, etc.—that makes important contributions to rural America.
- It will be vital to the agribusiness community that the College be able to integrate its programs and interact effectively with producers, processors, etc , as they are faced with the changes in the way they do business.
- The agricultural and related community is looking for leadership and advocacy They want more visibility in the University, as well as in the external policy arena (State legislature, etc.). While this may not be the College's role, there may be a need to actively facilitate the agricultural community in developing its own leadership and ability to advocate for itself.
- The history and tradition of the past must be preserved, but we must also look to the present and the future. This is an industry in transition There will be a need to bridge from the past standards to more progressive approaches to production and processing
- The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has a highly diverse agriculture The number of agricultural commodities produced here present more complex challenges to this College and its Dean than states with fewer commodity interests
- All groups in the agricultural and related community want a dialogue with the College, and they want involvement in how the College determines its programs and priorities.
- There is a major challenge in helping agriculture preserve the environment, as well as helping everyone preserve natural resources and still maintain profitability
- The stature this College commands in the land-grant university community must be maintained to provide the opportunities for leadership in policy roles
- Supporting external advocacy groups—alumni, industry, etc —is a good investment. These external supporters are really a part of this College's community.
- Because Pennsylvania's agricultural community tends to be segmented and not unified in its interests, there are complex expectations for this College in being responsive to the diverse requests for assistance and support
- Diversity in the breadth of the food and fiber system in Pennsylvania is both a strength and a challenge.

PERSONAL LEADERSHIP CHARACTERISTICS

In addition to the major issues identified in the meeting, there were several points relating to the specific characteristics of the Dean's position that are useful to list

- The Dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences, because of the vast, diverse, external clientele base, has much more complex responsibilities than the Deans of other colleges in the University system.
- All people served by the College need an understanding of the major political responsibilities of the Dean, both within the University and in the legislative communities at all levels.
- The Dean will have to commit to an ambitious agenda, visiting and understanding every region of the state, as well as understanding the unique needs and diverse agricultural production challenges of Pennsylvania
- The Dean needs to be aware of the large number of supportive constituencies available to this College and enlist their help as partners with Penn State
- The Dean will need to help bring about changes affecting capital improvements to the College's facilities.
- Our Dean will need compassion, understanding, a very strong vision of agriculture, and the very clear determination and common sense to lead us into the future
- The Dean must be skilled in articulating the mission of the College, both internally and to the agricultural and non-agricultural public He needs to be a visible symbol —building on the strengths of the past while providing the vision for the 21st century.
- The Dean must be willing to drive change

"We're proud to be part of a financially sound cooperative. Atlantic does its best to get the greatest return from the marketplace."
—Jeff Moore
Centreville, MD

ADC Is the Place To Be

Financial stability and the greatest return from the marketplace – the outstanding benefits that Jeff Moore refers to – are among the strengths of the premier dairy cooperative in the region.

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative has a 78-year history of excellent service to its members. Financially strong, ADC guarantees a market for all member milk and excels in maximizing returns. ADC is a leader in providing equity payments, quality bonuses and over-order premiums to members.

Nearly 4,000 dairy farmers agree that "ADC is the Place to Be."

- The Dean must realize the importance and necessity of communicating openly and frequently with the faculty, agricultural organizations, and legislative groups, and the Dean must be effective in these communications

SPECIFIC ISSUES AND OBSERVATIONS

The following list represents the main points presented by the representatives at the meeting and those who submitted written comments They are more specific to the industry groups they represent.

- Challenge of farming without adversely affecting the environment and still remaining economically viable.
- Responding to market changes resulting from NAFTA and GATT More competition and also more opportunities, especially for value-added products. Need to help farmers adopt products for exporting Also have strong domestic opportunities in PA.
- Consumer perceptions about food safety, animal agriculture, use of chemicals—need to minimize misunderstandings and create more understanding about agriculture for the public and policy decision-makers.
- Adopting new technology and deciding what to use to develop a more competitive edge.
- Penn State and the total ag community must be advocates for agriculture and for support of the College—forming partnerships
- PA has great diversity—ranks among the top ten states in having more than 50 commodities
- College must balance requests for service with available resources. Must balance needs of all citizens Must help all service areas
- Transfer of farms to new owners is the ag issue of the 90s Would happen more easily if farming were more profitable
- Need to support both basic research and applied research Need long-term research to achieve environmental goals and enhance competitiveness. Need applied research to maintain competitiveness in the near future to assure they will be in business to benefit from the long-term research.
- Rapidly expanding technology and agricultural knowledge base will demand intensified extension involvement if farmers are to continue to enhance their production techniques.
- Breed groups feel that they must have a presence at Penn State for educational purposes, and they want to be involved in decisions about purebred herds, preserving the visible diversity of livestock at Penn State
- To preserve the agricultural viability of agriculture in Pennsylvania, Penn State must continue to be a leader in the development of a stronger food system by being the leader in ag research on behalf of the ag community; must strengthen the abilities of the Cooperative Extension to reach the agricultural community, and also the urban and rural communities with basic agricultural education
- Penn State must continue aggressive research into practical solutions to environmental challenges to lessen the impact of over-regulation on the farming and agribusiness.
- Need to enhance the College's animal science program to increase the understanding of animal agriculture's contribution to the economy of PA and the health and welfare of the general population.
- In implementing the land-grant mission to provide education and assistance to rural, suburban and urban families, the College cannot allow diversification to weaken and fragment its commitment to production agriculture.
- The county extension system is the University's most effective recruiting and lobbying group because of its high-profile presence in PA.
- Interdepartmental collaborative projects and long-range, intercollege, interdisciplinary collaborative projects are needed to most efficiently utilize the resources the University has available.
- There is a need to increase involvement of students with external audiences, seeking ways to bring students in more contact with experiential learning opportunities.
- Basic research is the foundation of the success of agriculture in this country and its economic stability and cannot be diminished. We need to look at forming more partnerships with industry and other external supporters to fund research, but not at the expense of basic research.
- Need to continue to promote the strengths of Cooperative Extension and support its ability to fulfill its outreach function.
- How will future cutbacks in funding be handled? Can we sustain more continued reductions in funding?
- The College, the alumni and those in agriculture must take more of a role in making consumers more aware of agriculture and in promoting more ag education in the primary grades. Alumni are everywhere in PA and could play a large role in that educational effort
- There is a gap between the College and the forest industry and the public that needs to be bridged, especially in research and extension. There are also environmental impact issues regarding the management of state and private forest land that need to be addressed.
- The need for improved physical facilities at the College supporting the School of Forest Resources allows other schools to attract students and furnish more qualified graduates to the forest industry.
- Hope to continue the strong relationship between the College and Pennsylvania's cooperatives, especially because this model could be useful in addressing the needs for rural leadership and rural development.
- The Cooperative Extension needs to refocus on production agriculture, with increased emphasis on scientific research and marketing research focused on serving production agriculture.
- The College's seemingly overly broad view needs to be narrowly focused to be within reasonable budget goals and management control.
- Priorities should be set that create, support or extend programs that will result in increased profitability for the small and medium farm operation in PA.
- Agricultural educators need more preservice training that provides a broad range of experiential courses using interdisciplinary and intercollege programs.
- Tobacco growers, emu farmers, commercial sheep producers, equine interests, and the floriculture industry are among many smaller commodity groups which hope to benefit from enhanced attention by the College's research, education, and extension programming, supporting the ability of small minority enterprises to use natural resources and provide income and a way of life common to agriculture.
- The ag community must come together to decide its future The College, along with the PA Department of Agriculture, can provide leadership to help the industry prepare for its future.

Farm Bureau Disappointed With PMMB Decision

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — Pennsylvania Farm Bureau is extremely disappointed with the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board's (PMMB) decision not to increase the Class I over-order price for Pennsylvania dairymen facing higher feed costs because of this year's drought.

The PMMB voted 2 - 1 against a temporary 25 cents per hundredweight over-order price increase which had been requested by Farm Bureau at a hearing on Nov. 27.

"We presented a pretty sound case at that hearing to show that Pennsylvania dairy farmers are in a bad economic condition," said John Bell, Farm Bureau's governmental affairs counsel. "The drought will impose substantial additional costs on dairy farmers in the coming months."

At the November hearing, Farm Bureau testified that dairy farmers will need at least an additional 37 cents per hundredweight for fluid milk to offset increased costs for purchased feed during the winter months. Farm Bureau had limited its request to a 25 cents price hike for the time period from January through May 1996 in deference to concerns by milk dealers and dairy cooperatives over market inroads by out-of-state milk dealers. Farm Bureau's request was based on a survey of dairy farmers conducted by its Farm Management Services.

The over-order price is a statewide addition to the fluid milk price established for producers in the six regional milk marketing areas of the state by the PMMB.

The PMMB's decision means the over-order price, which had been at 80 cents per hundredweight up until August of this year, will decrease from 60 cents per hundredweight to 50 cents on Jan. 1, 1996. A hundredweight equals 11.6 gallons of milk.

Farm And Agribusiness

- The agribusiness community needs to look at itself as a complete food and fiber system, rather than just independent components, and be mutually supportive.
- Maintaining national leadership in Pennsylvania in mushroom production and science depends on a strong partnership between Penn State and the mushroom industry, so that the key issues that threaten the industry in the future can be addressed through research and education.
- The nursery and landscape industry support a continued relationship with the Cooperative Extension and would like a strengthened educational program.
- The forest industries see a need for more professionals in the wood products area, as secondary manufacturing expands to add value to the primary timber product.
- Recognizing that land-grant universities can no longer afford to offer state-of-the-art teaching, research, and extension programs in every area of agriculture, as may have been done in the past, there should be coordination with other nearby land-grant universities so that no area of agriculture is without teaching, research and extension support in the Northeast.
- The organization and objectives of the faculty in the College must change dramatically to remain viable and move into the 21st century.
- Because of its dominance in the national market, Pennsylvania's mushroom industry should be a priority in upgrading research facilities and recruiting research faculty to support a strong research program in mushroom production and processing.
- While maintaining a balance in basic and applied research, as well as teaching and extension responsibilities, there is a need to adequately fund various departments whose programs are such that higher operating costs are required.
- Biotechnology research programs should be balanced with programs that respond to both present and future needs of agriculture.

MUN Test Provides

"The traffic doesn't like us out there, and we don't like to be on the road with farm equipment either," Doug said.

Since 1988 they have farmed very little grain, using the land to produce forage and pasture for the cows. Both tie stall and a free stall barns are used to house the cows. A TMR mix is used. The ration includes corn silage, oat silage, dry shelled corn, soybean meal, and high moisture corn. Additional feed is top dressed for cows milking over 60 pounds.

Milk production herd averages have been over 20,000 pounds for a number of years, but production seemed to have reached the top level.

"When the first MUN test results came back, I knew very little about the numbers," Doug said. But I saw we were in the recommended range. So, I thought, "Oh, good! At least we know where we stand."

But their feed consultant, Jeff Bogus from the Center Hall Farm Store, had other ideas. The initial MUN test showed the herd was not wasting feed. But at 12.1 points they were at the low end, and Bogus suggested an increase in protein to see if it made a difference in the tank. It did.

Within two weeks, production increased by three pounds per cow per day. And while the next MUN test came in at 16 points, they were still within the safe range, and the Rimmeys had a nice return on their investment in both the MUN test and the extra pound per cow per day of protein they fed the cows. Adjustments are still being made to see if they can fine tune the feeding program even more.

"Hopefully, I will know more in a few months or a year," Doug said. "But what we see is very interesting. We were forage testing and feeding in line with the results of these tests. But with MUN testing you can zero in closer to see where you are overfeeding or underfeeding."

As Doug and his wife Belinda, and their children, Nathan, 17, and Brandi, 13, become the succeeding generations on the Tussey Ridge farm, technology and new ways of doing things make a business of farming unheard 50 years ago. But it's farming as a business that allows the Rimmey family's love of the land and the farmers' way of life to be realized into the future. Put the old loves and the new ways together and you get the true meaning of what it really means to have a "family farm."

Bedford DHIA Awards Presented

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

EVERETT (Bedford Co.) — Outstanding producers of the DHIA were honored in Bedford County at a banquet held at the Everett Area High School recently.

Highest Junior awards all went to the Snider families of Imler and New Enterprise.

Greta Snider, 13, a member of the Southern Cove 4-H Club, took home honors for the production of her two-year-old cow, "Singing Brook Tribune Audey," a Holstein. Milk production for 305 days was 22,020 and fat production was 861 pounds. Greta lives at Singing Brook Farm, Imler RD 1.

The Three-Year-Old Cow award went to Jan Snider, 15, a Northern Bedford County FFA member. His Guernsey, Snider's Smokey Breck-Twin, had a record of 20,253 milk production with 643 pounds fat.

Kendy Gable's Jerseys continue to achieve. Her four-year-old cow, Snider's Sooners Sweetie, had a milk production of 17,427 and fat production of 840 pounds.

Aaron Gable, 15, took honors for his aged Guernsey cow, Snider's Fayettes Onyx, with 15,914 in milk production and 597 fat production.

Jan, Kendy, and Aaron are all a part of the New Enterprise Snider Homestead Farm.

Steve and Jeri Ritchey of Martinsburg again took the herd management award with a total of +98 points.

Top senior awards were as follows:

First place, milk production: Snider Homestead, Guernsey; Meadow Creek Farm, Holstein; Ralaine Jerseys, Jersey; Horizon Farm, Milking Shorthorn; Roger R. Brumbaugh, Mixed Breed.

First place, protein: Snider Homestead, Guernsey; Meadow Creek Farm, Holstein; Ralaine Jerseys, Jersey; Horizon Farm, Milking Shorthorn; and Roger R. Brumbaugh, Mixed Breed.

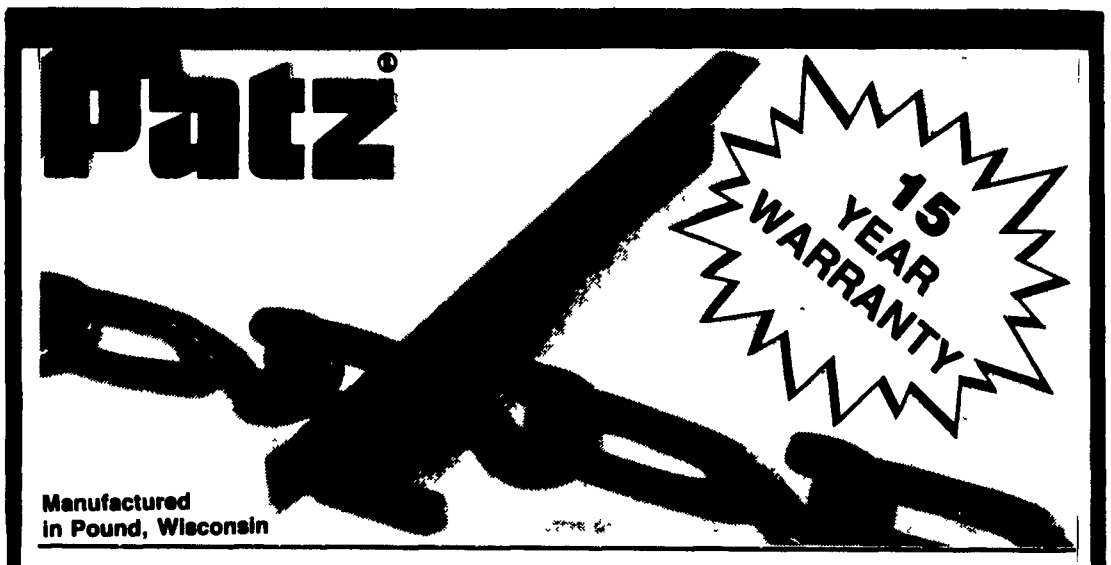
Patz®



Manufactured in Pound, Wisconsin

Here is something often overlooked...

Only Patz gives you 45 years of experience with hook-and-eye chain, resulting in a chain so good that others are attempting to copy it.

Many Patz Gutter Cleaner chains are still working well after more than 30 years of use.

After the Patz patent on hook-and-eye chain expired, some other companies have attempted to copy the Patz chain. Some promote 10- and 12-year warranties on chain—but they have not yet had 10 or 12 years of experience with hook-and-eye chain.

Patz has continued to improve its chain for 45 years with special-formula steel, special forging techniques and special steel hardening processes.

Rely on the proven, long-life chain. Patz provides a 15-year chain warranty because so many chains are working well long after 15 years of use.

Better yet, your Patz chain warranty is backed up by a solid, reliable company that has been serving farmers for 45 years with the same family ownership.

Insist on Patz chain!

What thousands of dairyman know: Patz chain is your best buy!

Warren DHIA, Holstein Groups Honor Members

YOUNGSVILLE (Warren Co.)—The Warren County Dairy Herd Improvement Association and Holstein Club recently held their joint annual meeting at the Lander Fire Hall, in Russell.

Several outstanding herds were recognized for their production the past year.

There was a tie for the high herd in protein production.

The highest producing cow for milk and protein was owned by Jared Lindell of Lander. This 7-year-old Holstein cow produced 33,745 pounds of milk and 989 pounds of protein. Lindell received trophies sponsored by Corry Agway and David Brown.

The high cow for butterfat production was a Twin States Farm Inc. 3-year-old Holstein that produced 1,214 pounds of butterfat. They received a trophy sponsored by Youngsville Agway.

Other herds were recognized for their butterfat and protein production. Those herds producing over 700 pounds of butterfat included: Floyd Beardsley 822, Twin States Farm Inc. 808, Richard Harrington 788, Bruce and Suzie Lindell 679, Ronald Hunter 653, Pine Ton Farms 652, Mark Lawson 624, Jared Lindell 615, and Gla Don Farms 605.

The Warren County Holstein Club presented awards to its junior members and 4-Hers. Jessica Gruber of Sugar Grove won the Distinguished Junior Award. Other junior members who were recognized included Rebeca Gruber, Kelsi Wilcox, and Peter Vanco.

Dairy bowl team and judging team members were recognized. The dairy bowl team included Chris Vanco, captain, Jessica Gruber, Peter Vanco, Rebecca Gruber, and alternates Kelsi Wilcox, Jody Blair, and Crystal Gruber.

(Turn to Page A43)

Richard Harrington of Spring Creek and Foggy Meadows Farm of Lander each averaged 686 pounds of protein. Harrington received a plaque sponsored by Northwest Savings Bank, and Willard Hitchock, owner of Foggy Meadows Farm, received a plaque sponsored by the Russell Veterinary Hospital.

The high herd in milk production was Twin States Farm Inc. of Lander. The Hans Block family, who operates the Twin States Farm, produced an average of 21,972 pounds of milk. They received a plaque sponsored by Integra Bank.

Floyd Beardsley of Pittsfield had the high herd in butterfat production. His herd averaged 822 pounds of butterfat and earned him a plaque sponsored by PNC Bank.

The most improved herd in milk and protein production was Sugar Lott Farm of Lottsville. The herd owned by George Savko had a 2,367 pounds of milk increase and 56 pounds of protein increase. They received plaques sponsored by PennWest Farm Credit and D&L Enos Milling.

The most improved herd in butterfat production was owned by Lee Curtis of Columbus. Curtis' Jersey herd had an increase of 54 pounds of butterfat. He received a plaque sponsored by Mosher Mobile Milling and Nutrena Feeds.

Doug and Diane Hastings of Scandia won the herd management award with a total of 92 points. They received a plaque sponsored by PennWest Farm Credit.

The herd with the lowest somatic cell count was Twin States Farm Inc. They received an average of 124,000 somatic cells throughout 1995, and received a plaque sponsored by Conneaut Lake Veterinary Clinic.

HODGEPODGE

This month's column is a collection of notes pertaining to fruit and/or vegetable production. There was not an easy way to tie them all together, so I'll just present them separately.

In the last few weeks I've been involved in planning the winter meetings for both the fruit and vegetable growers in Lancaster County. You should be receiving information from your county extension office soon regarding the winter meeting schedule throughout the region.

I would like to take this opportunity to encourage you to attend these meetings. Not only do you earn credits for your pesticide applicator license but you also have the opportunity to hear about the latest developments in crop production. There is also a great deal to be learned by talking with other producers of the same commodity.

Amvac, the manufacturer of Phosdrin (common name mevinphos) has announced a recall of all unopened and opened containers of this product. Phosdrin could be sold and used only through November 30, 1995. Since there are no longer any labeled uses of this chemical, it is important that you return any Phosdrin that may be in your spray stock.

Phosdrin was a widely labeled broad-spectrum insecticide in fruit and other crops. Phosdrin is a Toxicity Category I product, meaning it is very hazardous to humans and other mammals. Distributors and dealers should be receiving information soon about the details of the recall program. You should contact the dealer that sold you the product about returning the product.

A Phosdrin Recall Hotline has been established to assist with any questions. Call (800) 205-5330.

Fruit loss from Tufted Apple Bud Moth (TABM) was probably the highest ever in Adams County this year. It is believed that part of this problem was increased resistance to most organophosphate insecticides by TABM.

Damaged fruit cannot be sold downgraded to utility, causing a reduction in price and subsequent returns to the grower. One well-managed orchard sustained such a high level of damage from TABM that their entire crop (8,000 bushels) had to be sold as juice.

The environmental conditions of the past growing season could also have contributed to this problem. High temperatures during the second brood hatch of TABM may have increased the rate of insecticide breakdown. In addition, some growers may have stretched the spray interval too much, particularly those spraying alternate row middles.

However, the possibility of resistance to the sprays applied for control is of great concern. Researchers at the Fruit Research Lab at Biglerville are conducting bioassays on 12 populations of TABM collected from throughout Adams County to determine if resistance to methomyl is present. I would be interested in hearing from any Lancaster county growers who had problems with TABM control this year.

The term Integrated Pest Management or IPM has been in the news frequently in recent times. IPM involves using chemical, biological, and cultural practices to provide effective, environmentally sound control of weeds and pests. If you are not already using some kind of IPM practices I would encourage you to investigate the possibility of adding one or more to your operation next year.

Unfortunately, I believe that many farmers do not fully understand the ideas behind and the actual workings of an IPM program. The main premise of an IPM program is reduced inputs such as sprays and fertilizers. This reduction in inputs can result in substantial savings to you, the farmer, as well as the reducing the environmental impact of your operation.

IPM practices are not the same as organic production methods although there are many similarities. Chemical sprays are still components of some IPM control programs. However, using IPM means first waiting until the target pest population builds up to a damaging level before applying the spray.

Selecting a spray that will control the target pest while preserving some of its natural predators is also an IPM technique. Something as easy a selecting a disease- or insect-resistant variety is also a form of IPM since production of that crop will require reduced chemical inputs in the form of sprays.

Crop rotations are another form of IPM since they can be used to break the cycle of many diseases and insects on crop plants.

I suspect that many of you are already practicing some form of IPM without actually being aware of it. You probably started that practice to save money on sprays which is a benefit of IPM.

There are several things that you need to keep in mind when setting up or evaluating an IPM program. First — an effective IPM program suppresses excessive pests rather than eradicating the entire pest population. This enables you to use a variety of methods to limit weed, insect, and disease pests to negligible levels.

An effective IPM program also takes a site's ecological and environmental components into account. This includes the location of wells and natural water features like streams and ponds.

And finally, an effective IPM program takes time to develop and extra care to plan, implement, and monitor. One of the difficulties I see with IPM is that there usually isn't always a set solution to a problem. What works on one farm may not work on another nearby operation. However, there are many success stories with IPM methods and I hope you will investigate the possibility of using IPM on your farm in the next growing season.

Excellent Opportunity For Steady Income In Swine Production

Hostetter Management Company is a swine production management group with finishing contracts available within 100 miles of Harrisburg through Wenger Feeds. We are looking for farmers interested in exploring the option of constructing and operating 2100 head finishing facilities to grow feeder pigs for market. The feeder pigs are readily available through our existing 1400 head sow units.

Why consider a swine operation??
- Steady cash flow
- 5 year renewable contracts
- Opportunity for long term growth
- Nutrient management for manure control

Hostetter Management can provide information for construction of the facility and coordinate financing. We will instruct you in the management of the barn and offer steady cash flow throughout the 4 month growing period to run the operation. No need for you to finance the growing!

If you are a farmer interested in supplementing your income, we urge you to contact us as soon as possible. Let us put our 40 years combined experience to work getting you started in this expanding market.

Will Cows Eat Anything?

GEORGE F. W. HAENLEIN
Extension Dairy Specialist
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. — Cows will eat anything, at least that's what we've always been told.

Take the many deadly cases of cows that have ingested hardware. Cows will graze big mouthfuls, regardless of whether the grass contains a few odds things like nails, barbed wire, or pieces of tin. She will swallow it without blinking an eyelash and eventually get deathly ill.

Why don't cows sort what they eat? Are they just plain dumb?

Everybody says so. Today's dairy cows are very high milk producers. Is this because they eat anything put before them?

Sheep or goats, on the other hand, are choosier. Even in textbooks these ruminants are called "selective eaters." Some people claim goats aren't selective at all. They, too, have been known to eat anything — tin cans, some say, or a paycheck snatched out of a person's pocket. Yet nobody calls goats dumb.

Goats are just inquisitive, sometimes to their own detriment.

But dairy goats are also high milk producers though sheep are not. Is the common denominator to high milk production dumbness, eating everything and a lot of it, or both?

One of the most difficult things in nutrition research has been predicting how much dairy cows will eat.

Cattle breeders generally agree that characteristics — like a broad mouth muzzle, a deep heart girth, a broad chest floor, and wide, deep ribs — are indications that a cow has the physical makeup to eat a lot and digest a lot for greater milk production.

Cattle breeders select for cows that look like they are always hungry and can eat a large volume of feed daily.

So it is feed intake, sometimes called "voluntary" feed intake, that interests milk producers although feed composition tables never include this.

They report contents of major and minor nutrients, and many equations have been devised to try to predict what a cow will do with a certain feed. Actually this leads to the great unknown parameter — palatability.

Nutritionists who worry about voluntary feed intake of cows say indirectly that a cow isn't that dumb; she won't eat anything and everything before her, contrary to common belief.

The truth is that many cows have "hollow belly" disease.

The stomach system, primarily the rumen, has a maximum capacity of 40 or 60 gallons, more or less, depending on the size of the cow. Yet many cows fill up this capacity to two-thirds or three-quarters or only one-half volume. Why?

Something intuitively or metabolically tells the cow to either not eat certain things or not so much or to stop completely because she may have had enough.

So maybe our dairy cows aren't so dumb after all. Because of this tendency and a less-full stomach, some cows produce less milk than they could were they dumber and ate more.

True, say the nutritionists, who work on the question of voluntary intake. Make the cow eat more, they say, and she will produce more milk; nutrient composition is really secondary to the question of voluntary intake.

At the University of Delaware we have dealt with this question in many studies. We have identified factors that the cows recognize in their choice of high or less high voluntary feed intake.

One such factor is fiber content, which goes along with progressive maturity of grass or hay. A cow needs fiber desperately every day, but only up to a certain level. Then she says enough is enough and she eats less.

Clever people have used predigested fibrous feeds that fooled cows into eating more.

Other factors we found that decrease consumption are mold and staleness of feeds, especially of concentrate supplements.

When we buy a one-year contract of concentrates for our university dairy herd, we always require that the feed first be eaten by our cows for at least a week prior to the final sale.

No laboratory test can substitute for the palatability test only our cows can give.

And there have been occasions when we refused shipment and renegotiated a contract because of that critical cow taste test.

So dumb cows eat anything? It ain't so!

Today there are essentially two concepts for the feeding of cows: one is the TMR, or total mixed ration; the other is individualized feeding, usually using a computer control system.

In either case, cows are still given their feed free choice and "ad libitum" — that is, buffet-style and all you can eat.

For the TMR feed offering, roughage and grain are mixed in a certain proportion, but the cows still have free choice ad libitum. For the computer feeding, hay and silage are given free choice ad libitum; only the concentrate is offered in controlled amounts.

We say to cows: Eat as much as you can, please! Our milk production from you depends on it.

Back to the question of palatability. How do we make all these free choices palatable? Or, how do we keep our cows dumb, so that they eat anything and more of it?

In our university herd and in many other herds in recent years, it is the concept of "freshness" of feed, the practice of feeding more than once a day and into a cleaned-out feed trough.

Actually, what the farmer is doing is introducing fresh feed regularly to the nose and taste buds of the cows.

Despite what textbooks say to the contrary, the farmer knows that cows do have taste buds and that catering to them is an advantage in milk production. I know a very successful dairy farmer who maintains a high-producing herd, mostly because he turns his cows into a new pasture every day. He understands the importance of catering to his cows' taste buds.

Recently, some fine ruminant research has come out of Utah State University that proves this.

Plain straw was fed first, and then spices and/or grain supplements were added.

Not only did the animals eat more straw when spices were added, but they preferred those spices, which had been paired with the grain supplement. Free choice intake was increased significantly.

The conclusion was that "traditionally palatability was defined as a combination of taste, odor and texture that is pleasing to the taste; but the new research shows that palatability depends on a biochemical link between the stomach and the taste buds, which depends on a feed's nutrient content and the animal's need for that nutrient in the feed."

Therefore, the practice of offering the same feed to our cows day after day needs rethinking. Even when we formulate the contents correctly according to composition, we don't always get maximum free choice intake.

The Utah research points out that "variety is the spice of life" even for our dairy cows.

Simply by changing the flavor of feeds, researchers found as much as a 20-percent additional feed intake.

Cows are not that dumb after all, and by paying more attention to the flavor, odor and taste of feeds, dairy farmers can boost their milk production.

Farmers Prone To Stress

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — The stress in the life of the dairy farmer can be overwhelming. The current low milk price and increased farm expenses may leave you with more expenses than the milk check will cover. This can lead to high levels of negative stress in your lives. Unwanted stress can be a friendly signal if you pay attention to it, like a warning light that flashes on the dashboard of your car. Symptoms of stress let you know there is a problem that needs correcting.

Some common signals of negative stress include: • Tension in neck, shoulder or stomach muscles • Frustration, nervousness, depression, and worry • Shallow breathing, rapid heartbeat • Fatigue, insomnia, nail biting, stomach problems • Headaches, backaches • Craving for alcohol, cigarettes or food • Cold, sweaty hands or feet • Resentment, anger, short temper.

Learning to recognize the symptoms of unwanted stress is the first step in dealing with them. Making a conscious effort everyday to try to relax — even if just a little — may result in an increased feeling of well being and a more optimistic attitude. Here are some suggestions to aid you in dealing with the symptoms:

• Take a hot bath instead of a quick shower. • Play with and pet your dog or cat. • Help somebody else - a neighboring farmer or and elderly shut-in • Accept what cannot be changed • Talk positively to a good friend or your spouse • Eat a healthy diet • Get enough sleep • Try to improve your time management • Watch a comedy and laugh • Listen to music while you're working • Watch birds at a bird feeder or set up an aquarium and watch the fish.

Challenges are part of our lives. How we respond to them plays a major role in determining our well being. When we handle our difficulties with humor we feel better. If we allow the pressures of life to get the best of us, we become stressed out, edgy and less sensitive to those around us. It becomes all too easy to strike out verbally or physically.

Fortunately, this cycle of stress build up can be broken. You can learn to catch the negative stress early and lessen it before it becomes destructive to your health and relationships.

Joe Graybeal, President

Lancaster DHIA's Board of Directors met November 21, 1995 at the lab in Manheim. The first priority was to review and approve our first annual budget as a new service affiliate. Finance committee chairman Dave Garber presented many factors which may influence the upcoming fiscal year. Despite all the changes Lancaster DHIA was experienced in just one fiscal year, the committee confidently projects another positive balance.

The By-Laws Committee reported the new By-Laws are complete and will be presented to the membership for approval at the annual meeting on December 5. The Board expressed appreciation for the many hours of work by the committee members.

Rodney Denlinger, chairman of the Lab Committee, reviewed lab operations. A Bentley equipment representative recently upgraded programming of the lab computers which increases our line capacity to 500 samples per hour. This increases our efficiency while maintaining excellent accuracy.

The Lab Committee recommended and the Board approved pricing for MUN at $.15 per cow if the whole herd is tested; individual samples will be $.65. A Summary report is now available from DRPC @ Raleigh at no cost to the dairyman. Lancaster DHIA will continue to work with Northeast DHIA while we study the demand for MUN testing. We urge dairymen to consult their nutritionist to help evaluate MUN results.

Lancaster DHIA Technicians are receiving a positive response from dairymen as Jay Mylin reported a continued increase in herds on test. We continue to target herds not on test. Lancaster DHIA, with support from DRPC @ Raleigh, is able to bring valuable management data to these herds at a very reasonable cost.

Lancaster DHIA serves Lancaster and surrounding counties. For information call the office at (717) 665-5960.

Cattle Breeding Cooperatives Reach Agreement

SHAWANO, Wis.—The Board presidents and senior management of Federated Genetics and Cooperative Resources International have agreed to recommend to their respective Boards of Directors approval of a memorandum of intent that would further combine product development, marketing, and the internal operations of the cattle breeding group.

Cooperatives represented in the study include Eastern AI, Ithaca, New York; Atlantic Breeders, Lancaster, Pennsylvania; Louisiana Animal Breeders, Baton Rouge, Louisiana; and the subsidiaries of Cooperative Resources International...Noba, Tiffin, Ohio and 21st Century Genetics, Shawano, Wisconsin.

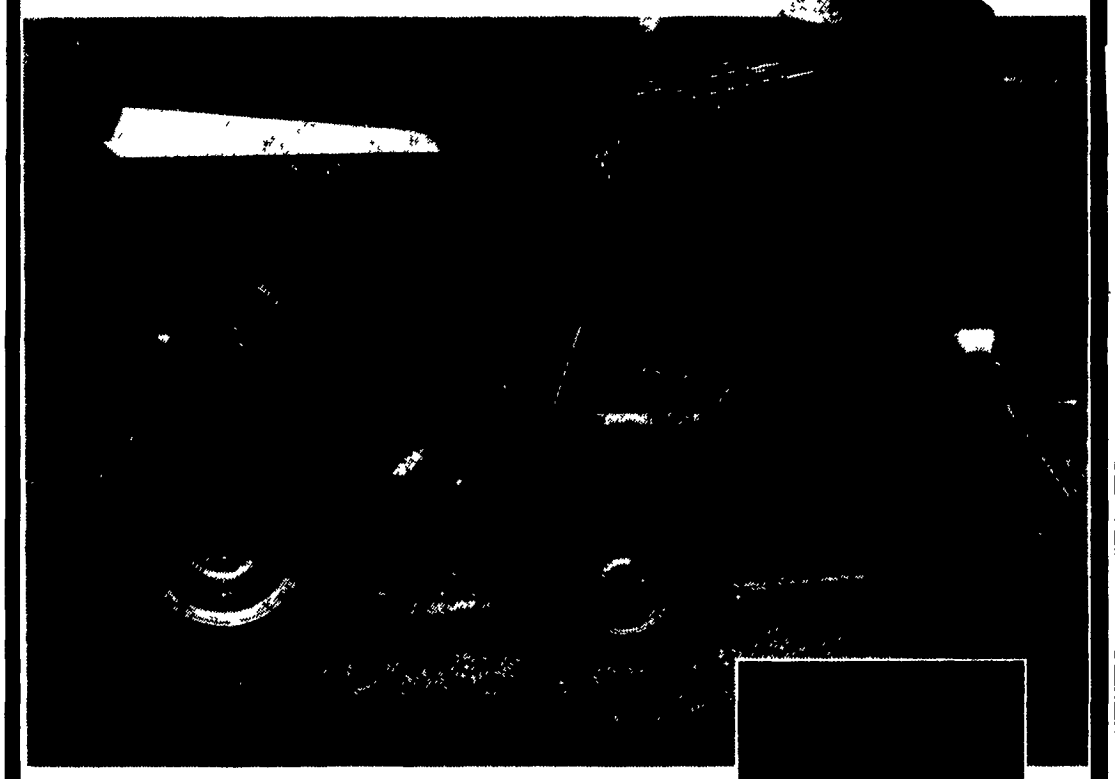
Federated's Long-Range Planning Committee points out this study is being carried out concurrently with the completion of their own merger plan which is developing between Atlantic, Eastern and Louisiana.

In authorizing the study, leaders of the cooperatives established two primary objectives: 1. Any change in relationships must maintain a governance structure that allows the principles of cooperative enterprise...farmer ownership and control, member representation and equity distribution...to function; 2. The review will examine current operations and determine if efficiencies and product quality can be enhanced through a closer working relationship.

Based on the most recent audit of each, the five cooperatives have $47 million in assets, $73 million in sales and net worth at 76% of the total assets. Last year they served nearly 45,000 active members. Together they own more than 2,000 sires, housed at nine locations.

These cooperatives currently have a product supply agreement that provides for a complete exchange of each other's genetic material throughout the United States. Beef and colored dairy breed genetic development programs are already fully integrated.

Raising Expectations



Forget everything you've heard about compact tractors.

MF 1200 Series Tractors and implements perform way beyond their size and price. Precise lawn mowing. Heavy duty weed and brush cleaning. Serious gardening. Landscaping. Materials handling. Trenching. Even light field work. These tractors excel at jobs that used to require big, expensive, fuel-thirsty tractors and implements.

Standard features include water-cooled, 3-cylinder, diesel engines, 3-point hitch and high-capacity auxiliary hydraulics; and rear PTO. (Mid-PTO is also standard on the 1210, 1220 and 1230.) Chose two or four-wheel drive ag or turf tires, hydrostatic or synchro-shuttle transmission.

Program Allows Environmental Education Coordinator To Reach Out To Schools

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Charlotte "Chotty" Sprenkle has had to answer some real "doozies" in her previous position as senior information representative for Muddy Run Park.

Questions included, "What kind of bird do I have in my feeder?" And "I've got this snake in my basement. Can you tell me what it is?"

Answering those kinds of questions has prepared her for her newly accepted position as environmental education coordinator for the Lancater County Conservation District.

She still recalls the "dooziest" question:

"Whatever happened to the deer in the jar?"

The what?

It's true. Years ago, the Park recovered a pregnant deer that was hit by a car. The fawns were preserved in separate glass jars and encased in an educational display. After 10 years and a $1 million redesign of the exhibit area, the deer were finally disposed of.

But after the redesign, Sprenkle remembers the first question she fielded from a visitor was, "Where are the deer in the jar? Where did you put them?"

Sprenkle admitted that although there are challenges for her position, her new post will allow her to remain in touch with all the schools in the county who will depend on her to help coordinate environmental and agricultural programs through the district.

Sprenkle began with the district last week. As environmental education coordinator, she will travel with school groups to various sites in the county, including parks and demonstration farms, to help students from kindergarten through grade 12 learn about naturalization and conservation.

In 15 years of work with Muddy Run, Sprenkle said she "probably dealt with more than 1,000 educators in Lancaster County alone." She also dealt with schools in adjoining counties, including Maryland.

"There are a lot of environmental programs going on at the county park system," she said. "I want to complement what they're doing."

A Solanco High School graduate, Sprenkle was graduated from Penn State in 1980 with a bachelor's degree in recreation and parks with an environmental interpretation. She said she always wanted to work in a park system.

She interned with the National Audubon Society at the Aullwood Audubon Center and Farm in Dayton, Ohio. After graduation, she was employed with Philadelphia Electric (now PECO Energy Company) at Muddy Run Recreation Park as park naturalist.

During her 15 years of service with the 700-acre (including 1,000-acre reservoir) Muddy Run, she was responsible for creating and instructing environmental education programs for school groups and conducting community recreation programs. Those included Envirothon competitions — which test youths' knowledge and understanding of the environment — in York, Chester, and Delaware counties.

While at Muddy Run, Sprenkle was involved in shad restoration education, eagle awareness programs, and an 80-box, several-mile-long bluebird nesting box workshop, trails, and programs. "We came into contact with more than 40,000 people per year at Muddy Run," she said. Sprenkle was responsible for implementing the white-tail deer management plan for the Muddy Run Project.

For a variety of efforts, in the program's first year, the Park was recognized with the "Take Pride In Pennsylvania" and "Take Pride in America" national awards in 1986. The awards, presented by the then-U.S. Vice President George Bush, were the result of a culmination of work for the project team.

"That was the highlight," she said.

Also, her final project at Muddy Run involved the redesign and development of the Muddy Run Information Center, which included the construction of four additional classrooms, a 130-seat auditorium, office, and meeting space.

Sprenkle said that the conservation district already has a lot of educational programs through the Envirothon and conservation school. However, the one aspect that has been missing, until now, is

(Turn to Page A31)

Charlotte "Chotty" Sprenkle will help administer educational programs through the Lancaster County Conservation District. One of those will include use of a special "bat box," which she holds, to show nesting habits of common bats.

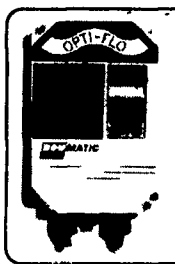
BOUMATIC
First In Product Innovation

Opti-Flo (Milk transfer System)



This control allows the milk pump to deliver a steady, gentle flow of milk to the plate cooler to achieve more efficient cooling. Since milk goes through the plate cooler at a slower pace, the water has a better chance to take the heat out of the milk, and increase the quality of the milk

Agri-Comp Computer

The Agri-comp 2045 Herd Management Computer and software are state-of-the-art innovation at its finest. The totally integrated package with direct link-ups to detachers with milk meters and to feed stations updates cow data instantly in three vital areas: 1) milk production; 2) feeding and 3) breeding

Air-Star Vacuum Pump

Save Money – The Air-Star vacuum pump does not consume oil like a conventional oil vane vacuum pump, saving the cost of pump oil.

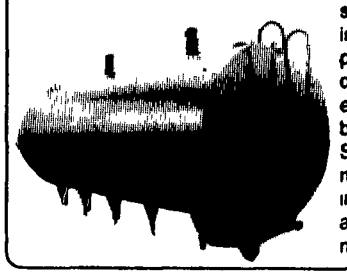
High Performance – The Air-Star vacuum pump creates stable vacuum with low power consumption. Air-Star vacuum pumps are available in sizes from 5 HP to 25 HP.

Flo-Star Claws

Its unique design helps maintain healthy udders by protecting against cross-contamination while promoting faster, gentler milking and improved milk quality.

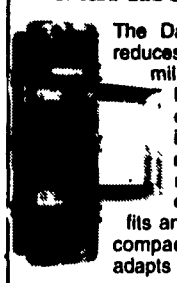
No other milking claw can match the outstanding performance of Flo-Star.

Dari-Kool Milk Cooler



Dari-Kool milk coolers, larger than 800 gallons, are constructed with two or more independent, full-flow cooling plates. this fail-safe design distributes the cooling load efficiency and equally between compressors. Should one compressor fail, milk will be cooled by the other independent system, thereby avoiding the loss of a tank of milk.

Dari-Kool Plate Cooler



The Dari-Kool Plate Cooler reduces risk of downgraded milk and income loss, because quick cooling ensures you ship quality milk. It cuts bulk milk cooler run time, reducing wear and tear on the compressor It fits any existing system it's compact, economical, and adapts to your needs.

Goldman Addresses Garden State Milk Council

TRENTON, N.J.—Marc Goldman was the guest speaker before The Garden State Milk Council meeting last month in Trenton. Marc Goldman, President of Farmland Dairies, Wallington, New Jersey was a prime mover in the establishmen of what has come to be known as the Milk Processor Promotion Program.

Goldman reported that the Fluid Milk Education program began with a $0.20 per hundredweight assessment that ran from February 1994 thru July 1994. The program required that all persons who processed and marketed more than 500,000 pounds on fluid milk per month were required to pay 20 cents per cwt on packaged milk marketed. A Board comprising fluid milk processors throughout the nation was established to manage the $50-$60 million that were collected over the six month period.

Goldman reported on the activities of the Processor Board but admitted that the funding is inadequate to meet the challenges of beverage market competitors such as Pepsi and Coca Cola. According to Goldman "The Got Milk Campaign is possible the best television advertisement for fluid milk today." He feels that processors are more qualified to promotoe dairy products. Goldman concluded that "instead of spending farmers money on advertising for dairy products, the $0.15 promotion assessment should be reduced to $0.05 which would be used for research. The processor assessment should be increased and used for long term milk promotion."

Chris Cavallero reported on the activities of the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council. Ms. Cavallero showed a video tape featuring the new fluid milk advertisements, followed by a discussion on school milk sales and milk handling proactices.

Dennis Schad of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative reported that milk production is expected to increase next year with a decrease in farm milk prices. Cheese for pizza is now the driving force behind commercial milk disappearance. Dennis stated that the Freedom to Milk Act proposes an end to the Milk Support Program on January 1, 1996 and an end to Federal Milk Marketing Orders on July 1, 1996.

August Knispel announced that the 1996 dairy Interest luncheon will be held on January 25, 1996 at Club Dix, Fort Dix New Jersey. According to August, this years featured speakers will be Senator John Scoot discussing Property Rights in New Jersey, a political perspective. Mr. Peter Furey of NJ Farm Bureau will be discussing an agricultural perspective to Property rights. Still unconfirmed, Mr. Tom Cosgrove will discuss dairy perspective, Inside Washington.

Richard Schumm, assistant secretary of the GSMC noted that the invitation letters to attend the Dairy Interest Luncheon will be sent out by the first of the year.

Dr. Dhun Patel stated that a proposal was sent to the Department of Health to consider adoption of California Milk Standards of Identity. California requires higher solids-not-fat for fortification of packaged milk. The increased solids add body and a better taste to low fat and skim milks.

This was a very likely and informative meeting according to August Knispel and asked everyone to attend the Dairy Interest Luncheon.

with +Z seedling resistance

The +Z advantage

New +Z alfalfa varieties have high levels of genetic seedling resistance to Phytophthora and Aphanomyces.

For alfalfa growers, this means thick and healthy stands, better winterhardiness, longer stand life and higher yield potential.

Introducing Innovator +Z

For high stem protein, high digestibility

- NIRS selected for high stem protein, total protein
- Outyielded 80 other varieties in university trials
- High digestibility for more milk and beef
- High resistance to four major alfalfa diseases
- Excellent winter survival
- Fall dormancy rating 3.0

"someone to deal directly with the schools."

She said that, as coordinator, students can still go to a site such as the Conestoga River and do stream sampling and aquatic investigation — all geared to a "hands-on" approach. Aquatic studies can include "collecting insects, touching reptiles, snakes and turtles," and other things.

"Our big emphasis so far is to partner with different agencies such as Lancaster County Parks so that we can be a support function to them as well as provide a program of our own," said Sprenkle.

In the meantime, Sprenkle is building up a database of contacts. She will be mailing a "menu" of programs to county educators in late January or early February.

She emphasizes that, through the district, some of the environmental programs — including work on demonstration farm sites — will be free and some will require a fee.

"Where I came from, all our programs were free," she said. "But what we think we're going to have is a bank of programs that will be fee-based and a bank that will be free."

As coordinator, Sprenkle recognizes how rapidly urbanized the county is becoming — and how education is more important than ever.

"Agriculture is the root of Lancaster County," she said. "Whether people recognize it or not, there is an urban ingredient to the county. So it's important for those people who maybe just moved in or who live in the city to understand the reliance of the county on agriculture."

Researchers Work To Better Determine Contributors Of Nutrients

essential element for all life, too much causes excessive growth of lower life forms, such as bacteria, fungus and algae. These life forms constitute the foundation of a food chain, but when their populations become too great their demands on the oxygen in the water, along with many other effects, creates a situation intolerable to higher life forms, such as more complex aquatic plants and fish.

Also, a high nitrogen concentration in water has been reported as being linked to some human health problems.

To deal with the non-point sources, the state's Nutrient Management Act requires owners of high-density livestock operations to develop and follow nutrient management plans with the goal of preventing excessive nutrient flow (from manure) into the state's waters.

Educated guesswork has been used to estimate the proportion of nutrients in a stream that is attributed to agricultural practices in the watershed.

Using such data as nutrient average-values for the manure of livestock species, the number of livestock, soil type, slope, and crop uptake, some researchers have derived estimates that suggest agriculture could be possible for certain percentages of nutrients in a stream.

But since reality can't be predicted through such simple assumptions, the need for a better and more scientifically sound method of determining the source of nutrients was realized by those who framed the Act.

The lack of a strong handle on non-point sources of nutrients was known when creating the Nutrient Management Act. However, there were several things considered by those in agriculture which lead to the industry taking the lead in managing its own nutrient use.

Due to improved livestock housing and production technology and the resulting denser populations being required by farmers to stay in business (given the federal government's cheap food policy and the resultant low on-farm commodity prices), public attention and opinion (right or wrong) has been directed toward agriculture as a major contributor of nutrient pollution to the state's waters.

Further, because of activities ongoing with the Chesapeake Bay Program, and the fact that Pennsylvania has been bound to uphold former Gov. Robert Casey's promise that the state would reduce nutrient levels in the Susquehanna River going to the Bay by 40 percent by 2000, it was considered that those Bay-protecting practices included in a farm-specific nutrient management plan could be expanded statewide to other farms, and help prevent any group or individual from accusing the state's agricultural industry of not doing its share.

Also, given the fact that local governments were beginning to create ordinances regulating nutrient use on farms, it was generally considered by the agricultural community that it should be proactive and gain protection from local ordinances.

The Nutrient Management Act was created through years of work, and (though tested at times) eventually in a bipartisan manner with the input and agreement of the agricultural and environmental protection organizations concerned.

Together, the many authors of the Nutrient Management Act included the requirement that the state Department of Environmental Protection conduct research into five potential non-point sources of excessive nutrients, determine the level of priority concern and develop recommendations for legislative and financial actions which could possibly correct a problem.

These five potential sources of nutrient pollution are malfunctioning on-lot septic systems, urban storm water runoff, atmospheric deposition, improper water-well construction, and the use of chemical fertilizers and other plant nutrients for non-agricultural use.

The vision of nutrient management is to have such an accurate picture of nutrient flow that, within a watershed basin, it can be known to a reasonable degree of accuracy who or what is contributing nutrients into the waters and at about what percentage.

In order to assess the reality of nutrient flow, the DEP assigned the job of carrying out the research to its Bureau of Land and Water Nutrient Management Section.

Limited in ability to carry out such detailed research, the Nutrient Management Section contracted with the Penn State University Environmental Resources Research Institute (ERRI) to carry out the research.

Donald Fiesta, a hydrogeologist with the DEP Nutrient Management Section, is the project leader for the research. He said that while the actual data collection and compiliation is to be done by ERRI, the interpretation and recommendations are still to be made by DEP.

Fiesta said the research requested of ERRI will be unique in that, for the first time, Pennsylvania will have a statewide map of nutrient flows.

Researchers Work To Better Determine Contributors Of Nutrients

Data Integrity

"The integrity of the data is there, and objectivity is there, number one because Penn State will be working with real data — no models, no assumptions.

"The other thing of interest is, to the best of my knowledge, nothing like this has ever been done on this large a scale," Fiestsa said.

According to Barry Evans, a senior research assistant at ERRI more closely in charge of this research project, raw data from a variety of actual research projects from a variety of disciplines will be gathered, and along with mapping through the use of Geographic Information System (GIS) technology and computers, it will be the first time that the state will get a "spacial" look at nutrient flows in the state.

What he means by "spacial" is that, on the face of it, lists of raw data are two dimensional at best. A spacial view is multi-dimensional and takes into account the overall picture of the different aspects of what is being studied and the relative relationships and interactions.

Comparing lists of data without considering how those pieces fit into the overall dynamics of an actual watershed can and has created much controversy and argument about responsibility.

The only way scientifically acceptable to determine sources of nutrients in a watershed is to monitor and collect data about what is really happening overall and what actual level of nutrient release is occuring.

To this end, the research has been proceeding by dividing the state into a number of smaller parts, according to watershed subbasins.

These subbasins were selected because the state can be divided that way, and because DEP through its Bureau of Water Quality field work has been conducting regular tests at established sites along flows of water within these subasins.

Evans also said that testing at the sites selected has been done on a monthly basis for about 10 years, providing a solid base of real field data.

From the collected data, the total concentration of nitrogen in the water at the test sites is gained.

The process of narrowing down and assigning levels of nutrient contibution to the total is to be done through a process of elimination — subtracting known levels from the total.

Ultimately, the mapping is an excercise in environmental accounting

Because no scientifically sound assessing or testing process is 100 percent accurate, it must be assumed there will be a level of error to take into account, but for the first time, there will be a solid base of data from which to continue to fine tune, and the expected level of error should be well within reason.

The first thing to be subtracted from the total nitrogen level will be an amount attributed to known point sources.

From that level, researchers are to subtract the levels of nitrogen assigned to the next best-known source of nitrogen, such as that derived from certain agricultural operations.

Ultimately, the percentages of nitrogen assigned to each source must add to 100 percent, which is the total nitrogen concentration collected from the test site.

DEP — PSU Contract

The DEP has entered an open-ended contract with Penn State to conduct research. Each new research request is assigned a task number.

Work to fulfill the research requirement of the Nutrient Management Act has been assigned as Task 9 and incorporates the complete assessment of all five suspected non-point sources of nutrients.

ERRI is a multi-disciplinary effort calling upon shared research data from existing or ongoing studies within the university and outside.

The state Department of Agriculture, as an example, is to provide data on the sales of commcerial fertilizer.

From this data, researchers expect to be able to assume a certain portion of sales of small bags of lawn fertilizer, for example, can be attributed to local residential use.

Other groups within Penn State are working on testing and tracking of airborne nutrients. From that data, researchers expect to make an accounting of the fallout of nitrogen onto a particular watershed.

Data from actual research on forest nutrient dynamics are to be used to determine expected flows from those areas.

Data, such as the fact that each person contributes about 13 pounds of nitrogen per year to the environment, is also to be used in conjunction with results of research from engineering disciplines, etc. to arrive at the total nutrient picutre for Pennsylvania.

"We have to look at everything," Evans said. "We're going to have to know the agricultural non-point source as well.

"One of the best estimates (of the amount of nutrient loss) is agricultural runoff. If we subtract that, we can get at the remaining five catagories."

Evans said that although there are to be many people within ERRI contributing to this project, there are about 15 people working on it directly, counting grad students and part-time help.

ERRI has been in operation for some time and has been using GIS technology for some time. "It's used all over the world," Evans said. "We've been using it for 10 or 15 years for many different types of environmental applications. It's quite preferable as a type of computer mapping technology."

However, "Of all the tasks we have done, it's one of the bigger ones we've done for DEP," Evans said.

He said that he expects the research, begun in September to be completed to the point of providing a report to DEP by late spring or early summer.

"Given what we have to do, and the time frame, it's one of the (ERRI's) biggest projects," Evans said.

After the report is submitted, DEP, in consultation with the researchers, is to determine the magnitude of the problem and possible solutions.

Tobacco Price Steady From Last Week

PARADISE (Lancaster Co.) — Tobacco prices in the county remained basically unchanged on Monday and Wednesday during the second week of the auction season at the Paradise Tobacco Auction.

Top price was $1.25, for a $1.19 average on Monday. Only 13,000 pounds were sold. Top price paid at the beginning of the auction last week was $1.25.

Farmers are "holding strong," according to an auction spokesperson, and remain reluctant to sell until the price improves.

At the start of the sale Wednesday, 500,000 pounds still remained on the floor. Top price from buyers remained at $1.25 per pound. The warehouse bought some for $1.27 and $1.30 per pound. A total of 52,000 pounds were sold Wednesday.

❖ FARM FORUM ❖

Editor:

The meeting recently on "Farmer Preservation" obviously solved nothing. There appears to have been much dialog, no concrete solutions.

As is usually the case, the foremost consideration of all individuals is, "How will it affect my personal financial situation?" The farmer is concerned about his equity, the developer is concerned about changes because he is established in the area and his business would be affected. The lender could lose a potential source of business. The township supervisor is concerned because it would mean a curtailment of the expansion of the tax base, and on and on. As long as the price of food is cheap and our bellies are full, why should we worry about the disappearance of farmland?

If we are truly concerned about the preservation of the agricultural base we must abandon an age-old paradigm. In its place we must substitute a paradigm of regional planning rather than local planning. There are areas in each county which are not very well suited to modern agriculture. One such in Lancaster County is located in the eastern portion along Route 10 near Compass. While there are more, I'm using this as a case in point. As is the case in nearly all undeveloped areas, the transportation facilities are very poor or nearly nonexistent. As a result industry will not locate there and developers will not build as the area is undesirable.

This could easily be remedied by spending highway construction dollars to improve roadways or construct new roadways to make these areas more accessible and more desirable, while withholding constructon of highways which will only encourage further development in areas desired for agricultural use.

A case in point. Thirty years ago I was employed as an excavating foreman on the Route 30 bypass at Centerville. This highway bisected a valley of the most beautiful agricultural soil I have ever seen, absolutely the finest. Today that land adjacent has been nearly fully developed, what a shame! Lack of planning. Locating that roadway just a quarter mile or so north, in places it would have traversed a rocky ridge and preserved the fertile valley.

Yes, the old paradigm must be abandoned. This nation developed around the farmland. Towns sprang up to support agriculture. As the population grew, so did the towns, along came industry and towns became cities, but it all evolved around agriculture and like the comic "Topsy" of my youth, it wasn't born (planned) it just "growed."

No longer can we afford the luxury of just letting it grow. The time has come for some serious central planning. There is more than sufficient land area whereby we can have both development and agriculture and make wise use of the land. If you doubt me, hop on a plane and fly over this vast land of ours. There is absolutely no reason to concentrate the population on our coasts. Modern transportation can service all areas of our country.

Come now, what are we most concerned about, our personal financial situation or preserving something of much higher value for posterity?

Public Hearings

meeting of the Ag Issues Forum Thursday morning.

Ms. Langer said the program includes regulatory, educational, compliance assistance, and alternate use aspects. DEP looks at nutrient management as putting the nutrients in manure back into production rather than in the ground water or streams.

The regulatory aspect applies to high density concentrated animal operations (cao's), with more than 2,000 pounds of livestock per acre to spread manure. This doesn't affect nearly all the farms in Pennsylvania. Langer estimated that about six (6) percent of the farms will be will come under the regulations, but many of these farms will be in Lancaster County.

On a question from the floor, Langer said the six percent estimate came from the National Conservation Service that hired the National Center For Research Implementation to do a study of clients from statical analysis of census figures. In addition to the farms under the regulatory program, the act also encourages voluntary compliance.

In Lancaster County, because many local municipalities have regulations, nutrient management plans are now being written and have been written for seven or eight years as part of the requirements to farm. The regulations developed by the state nutrient management advisory board set up by the act, has set goals to have the plan be something workable for farmers and still meet the conditions set up by the act.

Three groups of certified nutrient management specialists are authorized in the program: commercial; public (such as conservation district personnel who will also review the individual farm plans), and individuals. Farmers have the option to become certified to do their own plans to minimize their costs.

The new law will mean more than determining your field's nutrient needs and matching these needs with the application of manure. This is included, but you will also need to have conservation practices that keep your manure from running off the fields and barnyards into streams.

As funds are available, there may be financial assistance from grants or low cost loans. Training will be provided for those who want to become certified or who just want to know what they need do to comply with the law. The commission is also looking at alternative manure uses to help farmers, such as composting, bio gas digestion, and feeding programs to keep nutrients out of the manure.

Information meetings and public hearings have not been set to date, but notices should be coming shortly. A 90-day period for the commission to take public comment is required. It is expected that these hearings will start shortly after the beginning of the new year and last through the end of March. Call your county agent or conservation district director for information about these hearings or the informational meetings. Or watch the local farm press for times and dates as they are released.

Junior Speaking Contest At Pork Expo

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — The Pennsylvania Pork Producer's Council is sponsoring a junior public speaking contest at the Keystone Pork Expo here at the Lebanon Valley Expo Center on Feb. 14 at 9:30 a.m.

Participation is open to youth ages 8 to 19. Three age categories — 8-11 years, 12-15 years, and 16-19 years — will be competing.

The subject of each three to five minute speech will be one of the following:

- "Protecting Pork Producer's Rights"
- "Humor In the Pig Pen"
- "Pigs and the Environment"
- "The Other White Meat"
- "Animal Rights: An Industry Problem".

The speech may be humorous or serious, include statistics, cooking, and nutrition. Humor is encouraged. Typewritten manuscripts, in triplicate, with a cover including the contestant's name, age, address, county, and speech title are required. Bring them along to the contest.

Rules will be sent upon receipt of entry. Cash prizes of $50, $40, $30, $20, and $10 will be awarded to the top five contestants in each category.

Entries will be accepted from now until Feb. 1. Please send the name, address, and county to Jr. Public Speaking Contest, c/o Bruce Lemmon, 855 Alexander Spring Road, Carlisle, PA 17013.

Producer's Council Sponsors Pork Bowl

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — The Pennsylvania Pork Producer's Council will again be sponsoring the "Pennsylvania Pork Bowl" at the Keystone Pork Expo, scheduled Wednesday, Feb. 14, at the Lebanon Valley Exposition Center.

Each county is invited to enter a team of four 4-H'ers and/or four FFA members. Please send your entries to Tim Beck, York County Extension Office, 112 Pleasant Acres Road, York, PA 17402-9041.

An entry fee of $25 is required per team. Please enclose your check payable to Pennsylvania Pork Producer's with your entry. This will be refunded if your team participates.

Entries will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis, so please be certain you will have a team before you enter. Only 12 teams will be accepted for competition.

If your entry is accepted, a copy of the rules and questions will be sent to you after the Jan. 15 deadline.

Awards will be presented to the top teams.

If you have any questions, please contact Tim Beck at (717) 840-7408 or contest chairperson Linda Spahr at (717) 292-1472.

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The board and the employees of Pa. DHIA would like to extend the best to you, our members and to all involved in the dairy industry this Christmas season.

As we manage our farms and cooperatives in these times, we must not forget the Christmas spirit and Christian message of December 25th. The birth of the Christ child marked a new beginning for mankind in his relationship with God.

You might have heard the question, "Can modern agriculture operate on the principles set down by the life's work of the Christ child?" To explore this question, let's look at just a few principles of his teachings, and relate them to farm and cooperative management.

Brother's keeper — This principle is very important in the agricultural community. You see it in full force when a barn burns down, when there is a death in a family, or when many other different tragedies hit a family. The love and concern that you see at these times truly represent the spirit of the Christian message.

Can this principle go the next step in modern dairy farming? The cooperative principle is based on brothers and sisters working together to accomplish what they cannot do alone. Should we explore new ideas of this principle when it comes to farm and cooperative management, and farm and cooperative structures?

Forgive — We are told we must forgive others or we will not be forgiven. As this modern world moves forward, it seems that people forgive less. It is so easy to see the faults in others and not be able to see them in ourselves. Business management as well as all of life is more fun when you operate in a forgiving spirit.

Love others more than yourself — This principle can literally get out of control. When someone knows you care about them more than you do yourself, they return the favor. The higher position that you hold, and the more responsibility that you have, the more of a servant you are. Without love you have nothing! When necessary, ask for forgiveness.

Truth — Boy, does our world need truth! We need to concentrate on truth, and sometimes truth hurts.

The times that we now live in are challenging, and changing fast in the dairy industry. Does the message of the Christ child apply today? I believe more than ever. Let's dare to be different and make Christmas last all year.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Holstein Announces Convention Plans

WILLIAMSPORT (Lycoming Co.) — During the Pa. Holstein Convention, the Ladies Committee has planned a special event for ladies on Friday, February 23.

The ladies will travel from Williamsport, the site of the 1996 convention, to Lewisburg to visit and tour the Country Cupboard Restaurant and Gift Shop. A popular tourist site for the Central Susquehanna Valley, the County Cupboard features a dining area, greenhouse, and a variety of shops with crafts and craft supplies.

Tour participants will have to opportunity to wat demonstrations by artisans on making cornhusk dolls, basket weaving, jewelry care, herb arrangements and oteh crafts.

A buffet luncheon will be included in the day's activities with free time for shopping.

Pennsylvania Streams and Lakes

Stream Maps Make Great Gifts

Why every fisherman needs this map

It is estimated that 10% of all the fishermen catch 90% of the fish. Regardless of which group you fall into... there's a sure way to up your odds... simply try new fishing waters. Fish where few fishermen ever fish.

Pennsylvania is loaded with great fishing waters...many of them overlooked. From the Lake Erie tributaries to the Delaware River....thousands of miles of streams, lakes and rivers are now easy-to-locate on one map.

Professor Higbee's Stream Map of Pennsylvania is the first and only highly detailed map of its kind. This 3 foot by 5 foot color map shows virtually all of the 45,000 miles of Pennsylvania streams & lakes.

LOST STREAM MAP FOUND AND RESTORED

THE STREAM MAP OF PENNSYLVANIA was completed in 1965 after a thrifty-year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor.

The map is also known as the LOST STREAM MAP to some anglers.

Professor Higbee succeeded in creating a map of the highest detail possible...a map that shows every stream and lake. He painstakingly plotted by hand, the location of 45,000 miles of streams onto a 3 x 5 foot map.

The map sold extremely well -- until it was lost several years later. Incredibly, the printer entrusted with the original drawing and printing plates, declared bankruptcy, then carelessly hauled Higbee's 30 years of work to the landfill.

The few remaining dog-eared copies became a prized fisherman's possession. Professor Higbee was offered $400 for one of his last maps. And state agencies were forced to keep their copies under lock and key.

The experts had always told Professor Higbee that reprints were impossible, because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue.

Then, in 1991, at the age of 91, Howard Higbee's dream came true. Computers made it possible to reprint the map. Holding an updated map, Howard said, "I never though I'd live to see this day."

RAVE REVIEWS

"It an anglers dream, a masterpiece, a map that contains streams you won't find on other maps. The possibilities for exploring new waters are endless."
--George Smith
THE TIMES LEADER-Wilkes-Barre

"If you're looking for the most definitive maps ever created depicting every single creek, river, stream, pond and lake....then "Professor Higbee's Stream Maps" are without question the finest."
--Howard Brent
THE NEWARK STAR-LEDGER

"It is in showing where to find out-of-the-way trout streams that makes the map such a treasure to the fisherman." --Joe Gordon, TRIBUNE-DEMOCRAT- Johnstown, PA past special.

It can be assumed that, as they have in the past, owners of dog kennels and other breeding operations have been working and planning to meet this demand for puppies.

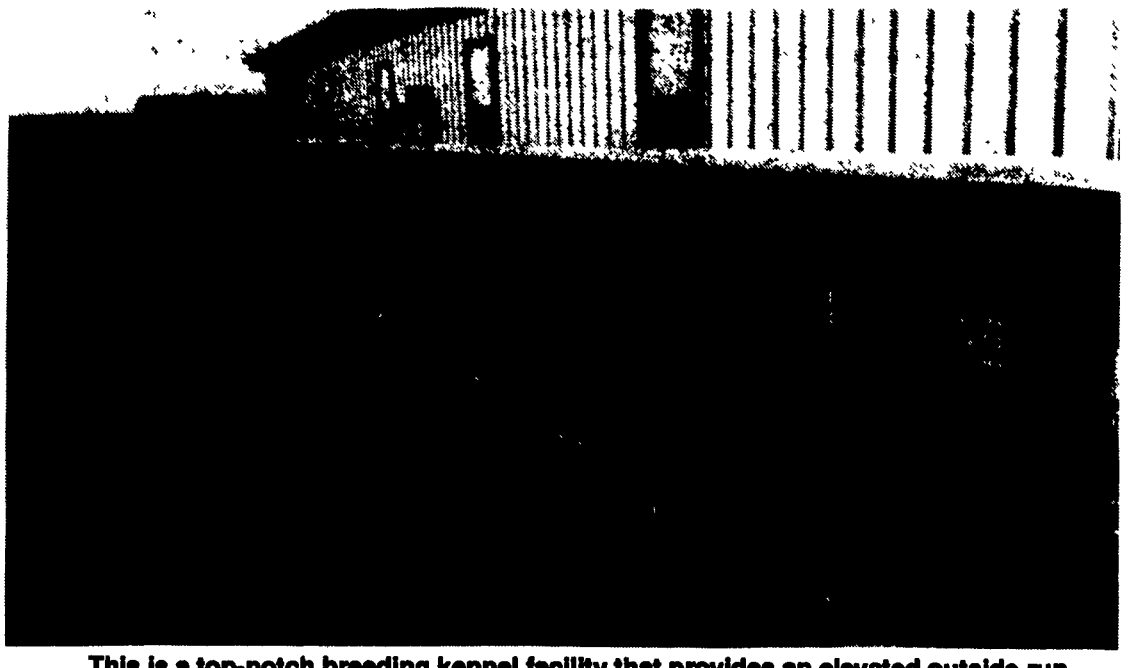
While opponents and critics of those who give animals as gifts are vocal and noisesome, they aren't as numerous as those buying puppies.

And, according to Richard Hess, director of the state Department of Agriculture Bureau of Dog Law, while there are few actual cases behind the claims of those purporting to fight "puppy mills" (a term used to describe neglected, unsuitable breeding operations), there are breeders whose practices can not be defended.

What serious dog breeders can do to establish a respected and legally protected operation is to register their operation as a kennel.

Those who sell from one to 25 dogs per year are not required to be licensed as a kennel by the state.

A good dog kennel operation can incorporate different designs and materials, but animal safety and comfort, as well as cleaning and maintenance efficiency are key. In order to know whether or not a facility complies with existing or about to be implemented laws, call the state Department of Agriculture Bureau of Dog Law. Even if this facility didn't meet the minimum requirements for registering as a kennel, the benefits to doing so voluntarily are strong economically and business-wise.



This is a top-notch breeding kennel facility that provides an elevated outside run, inside warmth, a constant source of clean water, and an effective maintenance/ cleaning schedule, good records, and well maitained veterinary supplies. To help kennel owners comply with changes in the law, the state Department of Agriculture is offering provide a compliance inspection with the promise of issuing no fines on a first visit.

Only those with sales of 26 or more are required.

However, Hess said that those who aren't required to license their kennel should probably consider it, for the benefits — economic, social and legal — that such registration can provide.

Hess said that in carrying out its duties and responsibilities, the Bureau of Dog Law does not want to put anyone out of business nor bother a hobbyist, but it does want compliance with suitable dog-raising practices.

A set of new dog law regulations are going to go into effect soon which would require some restructuring, redesigning or rebuilding in order to comply.

As a sort of gift in itself to licensed kennel owners and others who may seek to register as a licensed kennel, the state will help achieve compliance with the laws.

Hess said that what the Buruea is offering dog breeders is the opportunity to have a department official come to the operation to do a compliance check.

This visit by officials would review the requirements of the law and those not needing any changes will have the protection of the department against false claims of neglect.

No matter what conditions, Hess said the first visit to a facility will be a compliance check and not result in a fine.

If corrections are required and not made to a facility to make it come into compliance, the department will act accordingly.

While the majority of those supplying puppies run clean, healthy and safe operations, there are those on the fringe of the Pennsylvania dog industry whose operations are not up to snuff.

ATTENTION

609 TOBACCO FARMERS

There have been a lot of rumors going around Lancaster Co. about this year's 609 tobacco crop. We would like to address the rumors pertaining to Oldham Tobacco.

Oldham Tobacco has been accused of trying to hold the price of tobacco down. This is completely untrue. We have in the past, are now and will continue to work to get higher prices for Lancaster Co. farmers. We have passed the farmers message on to the companies we buy for. These tobacco prices are not what the 609 farmers expected and they are upset! What the companies will do we do not know nor do we control.

It is true we made the choice to stop participating in the auction at Paradise. We do not feel the auction is fair in the way they distribute tobacco to buyers. We asked the auction management to explain their distribution policy and were told one company deserved half of the tobacco sold at auction and if we didn't like it we could leave. That is what we chose to do!

Oldham tobacco has supported the auction and raised the price in the past. We can not continue to participate as long as we receive that type of treatment.

We have been accused of trying to destroy the auction. This is not true! We closed our field buying stations down when the auction began. We asked our customers to support the auction as well. We support & believe in the auction system, but only one that is fair to all buyers.

We will continue to buy 609 tobacco at our location in Quarryville. We are located behind Ross' Feed & Grain on Church St. If you would like to have a buyer come by, have your tobacco picked up or discuss tobacco prices, please call Bobby, H.M., Ron or Joey at 786-6135.

One thing you'll appreciate about Case skid steers is how well they maneuver. Thanks to their responsive steering and overall compact size, they have the agility and the power to get the job done. Especially in limited space. Even more impressive is how many jobs they can master. Every Case skid steer is designed to power a long list of profit-producing attachments. So whether the task involves lifting, digging, spreading or cutting, Case machines get it done. And our quick-change coupling systems let you switch attachments fast. Plus, all Case skid steers, from our rugged 18 horsepower gas model to our 56 horsepower diesel, provide the ultimate in power, durability and reliability. In fact, we offer more horsepower than the competition in almost every class. And every model is backed by the best parts, service and financing in the industry. Because our feeling is that dealer support should be every bit as strong and versatile as the machines themselves. So visit your Case dealer and find out more about our full line of skid steers. You'll like them for what they are. And especially for what they become.

Dog Law Bureau Chief: We Will Help You

Hess said the kennel license cost would be made up easily in not having to have a rabies vaccine administered by a veterinarian for each dog on the premises.

Those selling fewer than 26 dogs per year must have rabies vaccinations for each dog, and the shots must be administered by a veterinarian.

The savings in veterinary costs alone should more than cover the cost of registering as a kennel.

Another benefit to being licensed is that it is an established use and a state-licensed operation that should be protected through normal grandfather clauses included in most zoning ordinances.

Further, those with registered kennels receive information about pending changes or issues directly through the Bureau, as well as receiving help with maintaining standards.

There are basically two types of breeding operations in the state. The elite breeders are those concerned with developing top lines of certain breeds which bring higher prices, but have a limited market.

Bulk breeders are those concerned with providing healthy, well-bred dogs for the average market.

The dog market in Pennsylvania is fairly large. Hess said out of Lancaster alone, there are an estimated 20,000 dogs exported every year.

While the dog industry has its breed organizations and policy development organizations, people are people and just as some car dealers, doctors, lawyers, elected officials, etc., practice unethically.

Within the dog industry, there is no longer any room for tolerating substandard operations, Hess said.

"There is a tremendouse amount of public attention focused on the dog breeding industry," Hess said. Opponents to animal use have "only a few kennels they're able to hold up as being substandard."

However, he said he expects that those few will continue to receive public scrutiny until they accept and use better management practices.

"If you're not registered, register quickly and get the benefits," Hess said.

According to the law the fines are up to $300 for a lack of a dog license required at six months, or the lack of a rabies vaccination by three months.

Recently, state Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brosius announced the changes to the state Dog Law and changes in operation.

In addition to announcing that licensed veterinarians from the PDA Bureau of Animal Industry were to begin assisting in inspections of licensed kennels. According to the news release, "The two bureaus will work together in developing a best-management practice guide to raise the standards of practice in licensed kennels.

And the south central region of Pennsylvania is being targeted for extra manpower.

"Staff resources will be shifted to give higher priority to kennel inspections, and one additional dog law enforcement officer will be hired to assist in monitoring kennel activities in south central Pennsylvania," Brosius said.

For other areas of the state, several part-time officers are to be hired.

Meanwhile, the state Legislature is currently working on proposed laws, including proposals from the PDA that would allow veterinarians to issue dog licenses and reduced the age for when a dog is required to be licensed from six months to three months.

Other interests also have been lobbying for change, telling stories, some documented, of poor practices in caring and breeding of dogs. According to Hess, the industry needs to be involved in policing itself.

For the individuals who are borderline, Hess advised, "If you have dogs in back of the barn in pens and you want to save yourself the trouble of paying fines and all that goes along with it," register and the Bureau will help.

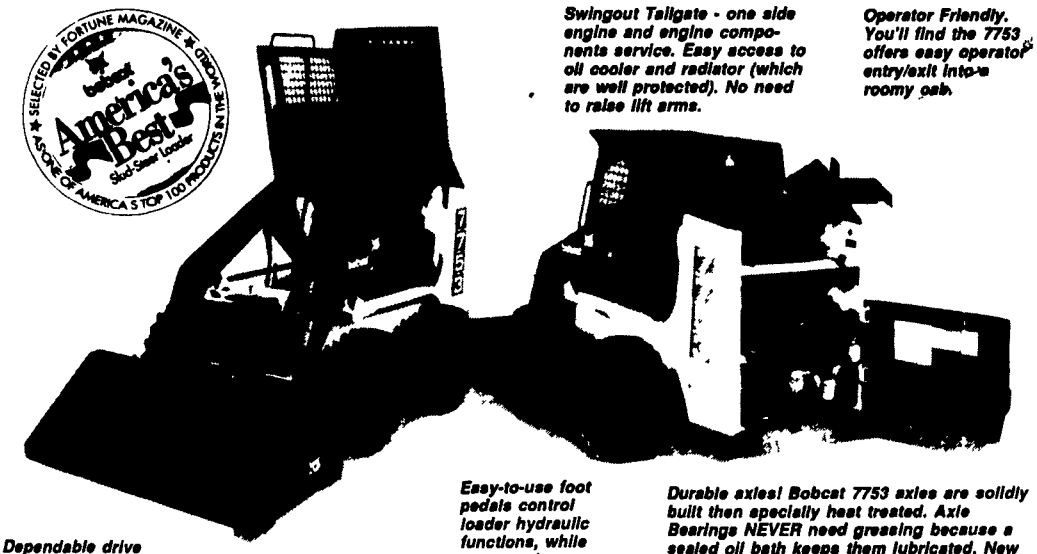
Bobcat 7753 Long-Wheelbase Skid-Steer Loader

It's What's Inside That Counts!



Swingout Tailgate - one side engine and engine components service. Easy access to oil cooler and radiator (which are well protected). No need to raise lift arms.

Operator Friendly. You'll find the 7753 offers easy operator entry/exit into a roomy cab.

Dependable drive chains that NEVER need adjusting. The "bow tie" design uses prestressed, heavy-duty drive chains in two short continuous loops per side. That means long-life in the most rugged use and NO periodic, time-consuming drive chain adjustments.

Easy-to-use foot pedals control loader hydraulic functions, while two steering levers allow precise maneuverability.

Durable axles! Bobcat 7753 axles are solidly built then specially heat treated. Axle Bearings NEVER need greasing because a sealed oil bath keeps them lubricated. New axle hub design protects axle seal from damage from wire or twine. Hub is easily removed if service is required.

Experience America's Best.
Melroe company has over 30 years of skid-steer loader experience – longer than anyone else. That's one of the reasons Fortune Magazine has twice recognized the Bobcat loader as one of the 100 products "America Builds Best "

Reliable Components.
Other than a few daily checks and fills, you can rely on the PERFORMANCE of the 7753 Bobcat. It has been designed and built with durability and low maintenance in mind.

Great Serviceability!
The Bobcat 7753 has been designed to be serviced quickly. For example, there's single-side access to the transversely-mounted engine, a lift-out oil cooler for easy cleaning and a tip-up cab to expose hydraulic and hydrostatic compon- entry. For repairs, the exclusive BOSS® System can help quickly diagnose system problems. These features, along with a factory-trained service technicians and "top-shelf" parts availability, mean your loader can be back on the job in no time.

TOTAL HAND CONTROL!
Dealer-Installed Option!
- Easy Wrist-Action Control.
- Push-Button Auxiliary Hydraulics For Total Hand Control. (Available only on 50 Series loaders. 40 Series loaders utilize foot pedal to activate auxiliary hydraulics.)
- Easy-Grip Handle.

Plateau Farm: A Concerted Family Effort

LORETTA GOLDEN
Cambria Co. Correspondent

EBENSBURG (Cambria Co.) — Janet Branas of RD Ebensburg can be compared to the conductor of a small orchestra. This busy mother and grandmother has quite a few different interests and talents which appear to be fairly unrelated, but when all are put together with a certain harmony, it makes for a pleasant life at their farm.

Janet and her husband Carl celebrated their silver anniversary this past summer. They have lived on their 111-acre "Plateau Farm" for all of these 25 years. Janet explains that the unusual name for the farm does not represent any topograpical features but means "A Step in Life." When choosing a name for the farm, Carl felt that "plateau" aptly describes this step in their lives.

"Plateau Farm" is adjacent to land previously owned and farmed by Carl's parents, Nellie and the late Adolph Branas. Janet, the daughter of Grace, and the late Clement Smith, was also raised in the country. She has always had the experience of having animals and is glad that her children have this opportunity too.

The Branas family includes five daughters, a son-in-law, and one grandson. Oldest daughter Laurie, husband Brian Lazration of Dunlo, and son Corey currently reside in the State College area. Both Laurie and Brian are students at Penn State where Laurie is a senior majoring in management information systems. Brian is leaning toward a major in the physician assistant program.

Olivia is a junior at PSU with a major in recreation and park management. The three younger daughters attend the Central Cambria School District where Lisa is a junior, Amanda, a freshman, and Beth is in 4th grade. As most students their age, the girls are involved in many school-sponsored activities. The carpooling duties alone have kept Janet busy over the years.

All of the girls have been involved in various local 4-H programs for a number of years. Each has participated in Lamb Club and has done well in local 4-H competition.

During the recent Cambria County Fair, the lamb shown by nine-year-old Beth took the blue ribbon in its class. Beth garnered a fourth place in the "fitting" category in this, her first year of competition. She remarked that it was exciting for her to be able to train the lamb to trust her enough so that she could "lead" it in the competition.

The Branas family has been raising sheep for approximately 10 years. Their present flock numbers between 20-30 sheep and Janet is quite proud of the fact that last year they averaged two lambs per ewe. She credits this "higher than state average" to the fact that theirs is not a large flock. This makes it much easier to closely monitor the sheep.

Originally, the family began their sheep operation as a way to keep their pasture in good shape. A childhood injury to Carl's back became progressively worse over the years and cows proved to be too difficult for him to maintain. Sheep seemed to be a viable alternative.

Janet has learned to thoroughly enjoy the sheep. The family has one pleasure horse, "Gwenivere," which they sometimes use to herd the flock. They don't use any sheep dogs and at this point have never lost a sheep to a predator.

The sheep operation is a family affair — the feeding and grooming is handled by all. Carl plants and harvests the small grains which are used as feed for the animals. The entire family is busy during haymaking season. Because Carl's job with the New Enterprise Stone and Lime Company requires long hours there are times when the others must pick up the slack. Janet also worked outside the home for a few years but gave up th job to stay at home with her family.

Brian, Corey, and Laurie Lazration choose a Christmas tree from the 10,000 trees planted on Plateau Farm.

In describing a memorable experience with the sheep, Janet recalls an incident when Carl delivered a set of lamb twins and went off to work. Upon returning from her job an hour later, she found that a triplet had been born in the interim. It was laying down, cold, and very stiff. She quickly took it into the house, gave it a hot bath and dried it with a hair drier. It was very rewarding to see that because of her efforts, the lamb was not lost but was up on its feet and nursing from its mother within an hour.

Another rewarding experience which Janet had with sheep was when she was home alone and a ewe went into labor. Approximately three hours passed and nothing seemed to be happening. She knew that this was quite unusual and had to turn around a breach.

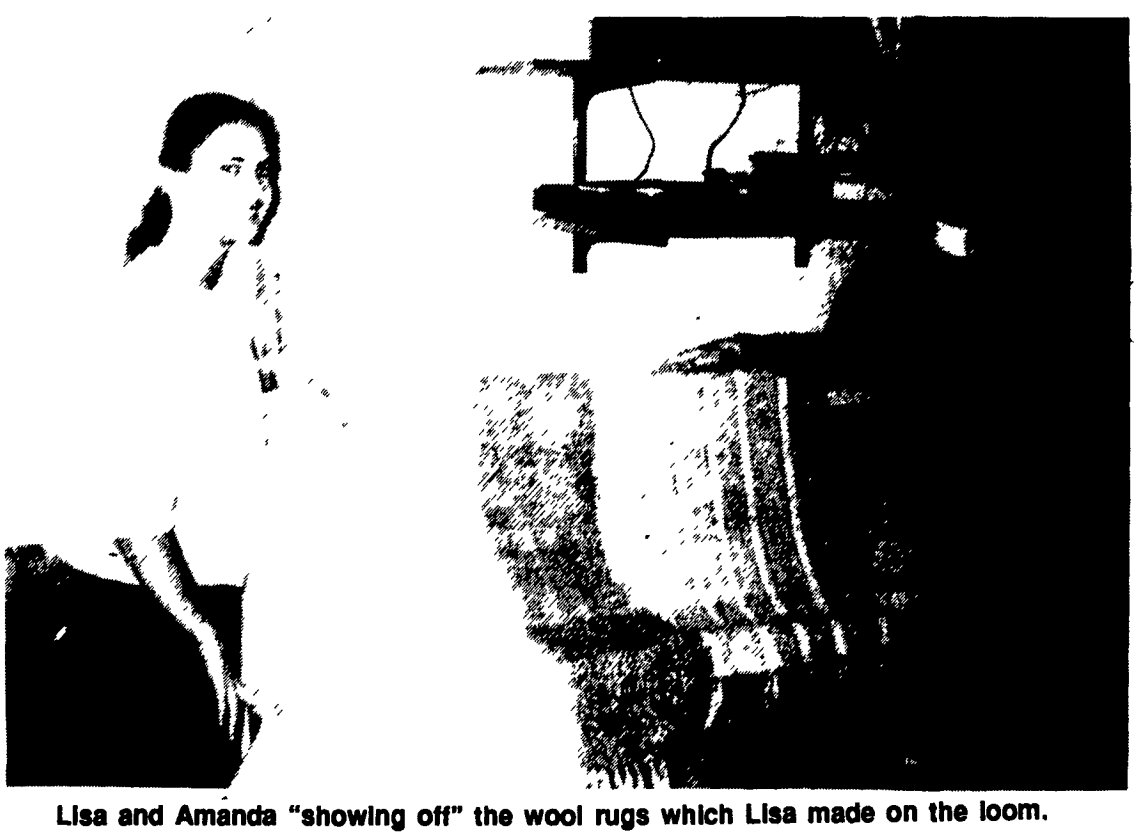
HOMESTEAD NOTES



Lisa and Amanda "showing off" the wool rugs which Lisa made on the loom.

Within a short time, triplets were born.

Marketing the sheep themselves is usually done through local livestock auctions. Excess fleece is sold to the "Indiana Wool Pool." Janet herself usually has time to work with one or two fleeces per year. This is a time-consuming operation since washing, carding, and spinning is involved.

Spinning the wool is totally relaxing and almost therapeutic for Janet. When washing the wool, she has found through trial and error, that it spins much better if a small amount of lanolin is left. Self-taught on the spinning wheel, she usually does this activity during the winter months. She has also dyed the wool and keeps an attractive basket of colorful yarn and knitting needles near her spinning wheel. She is teaching her daughters to spin, but at this point they seem to have more interest in working the loom.

The loom sits off to the side in her kitchen and Janet has made throw rugs for use in her home. Janet admits that she does not enjoy knitting but does really like to work on the loom. She explained that when preparing for a project, threading the loom takes up the better part of her day.

Another area in which Janet has quite a bit of interest is her Christmas trees — all 10,000 of them. A number of years ago, when trying to decide what to do with some of their marginal land, Carl and Janet decided to try tree-farming. Janet's family had been involved in the lumber business and her interest in trees was quite natural. Initially she planted 5,000 trees and has added 1,000-2,000 trees each succeeding year.

Because the trees are not yet tall enough, none are ready to market. Janet expects that next Christmas season will be her initial plunge into this venture. She is presently studying different market sites and trying to determine the best location for her retail sales.

Intensive effort over a few months period of time is necessary when growing Christmas trees. This includes mowing between

Time to deck the halls, etc., etc.

Headed for church a few weeks ago, I knew it was time to start thinking holiday decorating. A couple of pickup trucks passed me, headed the other way, pine trees bouncing along on the backs.

'Tis the season...

Not that I wasn't aware. Why, just the day before, I'd lopped off a few snippets of Norway spruce and hemlock, tucked them into a pre-used floral arrangement holder and poked a single red candle down through the middle of the damp oasis base. Viola! Instant holiday centerpiece for the kitchen table. Inexpensive, too, since the candle was also slightly used.

But seeing the Christmas trees flying by on the pickups was a reality check. I returned home filled with purpose and determination - and the realization that we only had two more weeks to get our children's Sunday School Christmas program pulled togheter... that I hadn't done any shopping.. or written a single card... or.. Phew!

Behind schedule already.

After lunch, I put in a request to use the pickup - which meant The Farmer had to juggle his plans since he also had need for the truck. Much as I love my little compact car, it lacks 4-wheel capability. And between home and my destination was a muddy field road. No need to go "mud bogging;" the pickup was dirty enough already.

With a sturdy "limb-lopper" pruning tool, a smaller pruning shears and several plastic bags in my pockets, I trudged off in search of some holiday decorating inspiration.

Winds which had rattled our neigborhood a few weeks before had not missed the tall, old pines. Small limbs lay tossed about the ground, their needles still green but slightly limp. While I wanted an armload of the boughs of soft, fragrant needles, they needed to be fresh-cut, not storm-downed and already wilted. Trimming from a few low branches, it took but a few minutes to gather a large bouquet.

More bounty was scattered across the ground. Fat pine cones, their edges iced with whitish sticky sap were plentiful. The plastic bags filled quickly as I crawled through the soft carpeting of old needles and dry leaves. A chilly December wind sang in the high limbs overhead and stirred the scent of fresh pine. Heaven must smell like a pine forest.

The quiet peacefulness of the woods and the fragrance of the evergreens were exactly what I needed. It wasn't necessarily the boughs of pine or the sweet, sticky cones, but that sense of peace away from the rush that prepares some of us to celebrate Christmas. And there it was, not in the stores, or the malls, or the lines - but in the woods.

The pine cones are piled, along with some shiny red balls, in baskets around the house. (And after seeing them priced at twenty-cents-apiece at a store recently, I'd found the mother lode, pine cone wise.) A bouquet of pine fills an old nail barrel on the front porch, with more of my pine cone wealth. The old grapevine wreath has a new wrapping of cherry paper - twist ribbon. Candles glow in the living room at night - when I remember to light them.

We're getting there. For us, holiday decorations are done in few simple, seasonal, natural things.

If you're still looking for Christmas, steal a few moments away from the glitz and the gauche, the tinsel and the tinny, the high prices and the long lines.

Go to the woods. Go for a walk.

It's a good way to get back in touch with the peaceful spirit of the season.

Holiday Plants Have Hidden Dangers

WESTMINSTER, Md. — Those decorative plants that adorn your home for the holiday season are colorful and festive, but they also pose a hidden danger to small children and pets because their leaves, berries, seeds, or roots may be poisonous. Although poisonings from plants in Maryland are rare and deaths from plant poisonings are even more rare, many plants have poisonous properties. Poinsettias, mistletoe, holly an Christmas-rose are a few of the poisonous plants identified in the Cooperative Extension Service's easy-to-read bulletin, "100 Poisonous Plants of Maryland." This 55-page booklet is a handy reference tool that can help you idenfity quickly and easily the most common poisonous plants found in Maryland.

This fully illustrated booklet lists the poisonous plant alphabetically by common name with a complete description. Where they are commonly found; why they are poisonous; and what symptoms they cause are explained in a nontechnical and concise manner.

You can request your copy from the Carroll Extension Office, 700 Agriculture Center, Westminster, MD 21157.

"100 Poisonous Plants of Maryland" costs $3.75 for Maryland residents. For nonresidents, there is an additoinal charge for shipping. Please make your checks payable to the Carroll County EAC and send to the above address.

the trees, pruning and shaping. Janet does most of this work herself but utilizes the help from the rest of the family when necessary. She adds that her daughters have yet to develop the "trained eye" necessary to do proper "shaping."

The area's first major snowstorm came a bit early this year — Janet had only finished all of the work with the trees two weeks prior to the big storm.

All of the operations at the farm are a concerted family effort in some way or another. According to Janet, "the girls are learning basic skills when they have to take over more of the daily household responsibilities that enable me to do the necessary outdoor work." Being outdoors is an added bonus for this energetic family. Janet feels that this accounts for the lack of stress in their lives.

Try A New Holiday Plant

While the poinsettia is the traditional plant of the Christmas season, other beautiful foliage and flowering plants are available. Buy a new plant to add to your collection or use it as a gift. Here's a few new ideas.

Look for new Christmas cacti varieties, schlumbergera species, with shades of red, pink, purple, white, orange and even yellow flowers. Look for larger flowers, prolonged flowering and more compact types this season. The Christmas cactus is easy to grow and very long lived.

Holiday cacti perfer bright, indirect light, temperatures of 60 to 70f and an evenly moist soil during flowering. Exposure to cold temperatures (carefully wrap plants when transporting them outdoors in winter), moving plants from one location to another, drafts and excessive watering can cause the buds to drop from the plants before blooming.

New amaryllis, hippeastrum species, are typically red blooming types for this time of year. Brilliant red, deep red, solid white, light pink, orange-red and other color varieties are available. Their trumpet-shaped flowers often are 3-4 inches long and 2 to 3 inches in diameter.

A good foliage plant choice for the holidays is the dwarf "peach lily," spathiphyllum cultivar "petite." It flowers freely (a small white/spath-type flower) and makes a useful gift choice for friends lacking window space. Or try flamingo flower, anthurium species, with their exotic red waxy "palettes" with a colored "tail" at its center. Anthuriums look exotic with 9-inch long heart-shaped leaves. Blooms on anthuriums last for several weeks.

Miniature plants, terrarium or plants for a bottle garden are space-saving holiday plants. 10 or 12 individual miniatures can grow on the same windowsill or shelf space as 3 to 4 standard varieties.

The Gesneriad family is lush with blooming species and cultivars. Pocket size gesneriads thrive at even lower light levels than their larger relatives. Some other possibilities are gloxinias, sinningia cultivars like White Sprite, Star Eyes, Bright Eyes or Snowflake.

Dwarf or miniature African violets such as Mini-fantasy and Small Change enjoy a warm, humid situation such as that provided in a terrarium or bottle garden. Place in a moderately sunny window or under fluorescent lights. Other plants to consider for the same environment would be smaller flowering begonias or foliage begonias.

Other miniatures suited for hanging baskets in humid, moderately to well-lit areas are: miniature forms of Peperomia, Pilea, and Selaginella (creeping moss).

For the cool, well-lit windowsill some likely candidates would be: miniature ivy cultivars; diminutive geranium cultivars like Arcturus, Dopey and Volcano.

A holiday favorite is the cyclamen. It has dark green heart-shaped leaves with silver markings. The flowers are produced on long stems held above the foliage. Look for white, pink or red flowers.

Select healthy, dark green plants that have just begun to flower. A check beneath the leaf canopy will reveal the number of unopened buds. The cyclamen should be placed in sunny, cool location. A temperature of 50 to 65°F is ideal. Keep the soil moist, but avoid getting water in the crown of the plant as it may promote rotting. Fertilize the plant every two weeks while in bloom. When given proper care, individual flowers may last three to four weeks and plants may bloom continuously for several months.

Train And Trolley Time In Hershey

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — The Chocolate Town Special will be chugging through the Hershey Museum from now through February 4, 1996. Designed and built by John Cassel and Dave Laughery of Scale Model Railroads, this holiday train layout depicts Hershey as it appeared in the 1920s. Surrounding the town is an imaginery version of the rolling Pennsylvania countryside dotted with the farms and other buildings so typical to this region.

Three trains and three trolleys will traverse the area, passing scenes of tree cutting, ice cutting and fishing, ice skating and other winter activities. Trains steam through tunnels, up mountain grades past snow covered forests and over bridges spanning rivers and frozen lakes. Visitors can see replicas of Hershey's train station and platform, the department store, bank, fire house, YMCA, mansion, chocolate factory and surrounding buildings as well as farms and a one-room school. All will be dusted with snow and decked out for Christmas.

During this period of Hershey's history, the trolleys and trains played a vital role of transporting workers and production materials to the Hershey plant. The trolleys also provided Milton Hershey's employees with an inexpensive and convenient way to travel through the area. The trolley line, which opened on October 15, 1904, extended from Palmyra to Hummelstown, and the fare from either end into Hersey was five cents.

Milton Hershey's trolley never paid dividends in cash, but "the Old Man's Christmas tree train" gave his employees the freedom he wanted them to have. It is said that he would ride the trolley himself — sometimes even as early as 5 a.m. — to be sure that it was being patronized.

The project of building the trolley line began on January 30, 1903, when a charter was granted to the Hummelstown & Campbelltown street Railroad (which later became the Hershey Traction Company of Dauphin and Lebanon Counties). There was very little opposition to the project, and in less than two years, the first run was made.

Train lovers of all ages will enjoy this exhibit, which is planned as an annual Christmas event. In the following years, the layout will be changed to reflect different areas and aspects of Hershey.

The exhibit can be viewed daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Extended holiday hours correspond with Hersheypark Christmas Candylane. Call (717) 534-3439 for information. Admission is $4.25 adults, $.50 discount for senior citizens, $2 youth ages 3-15, under 2 free. Group rates are available.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 20

On Thursday, December 7, Lancaster Farm Women 20 met at the home of Dorothy Eckman with Helen Tout as co-hostess. Following the refreshments Helen read the Scripture taken from Matthew, first chapter. Dorothy read the poem "Christmas Time" and the Lord's Prayer was prayed in unison. All repeated the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. The president, Nancy Axe, presided at the business session. In answer to the Roll Call each brought a gift for the shut-ins in the society.

Dorothy Eckman was installed as Corresponding Secretary. Dorothy Crawford reported 8 cards were sent during the month. The State Convention will be in January and Vivian Trout, Nancy Axe, and Marie Foose will be attending. For the program there was a food auction and Jeff Shirk was the auctioneer. The meeting closed by singing "Brighten the Corner" to meet in January with Nancy Axe in Strasburg.

Consuming Thoughts

by

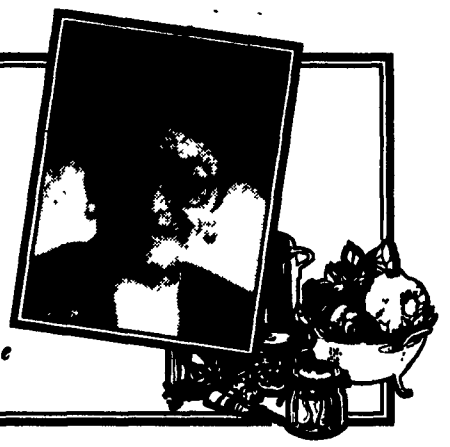
Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.



Recently a friend commented, "Eating's no fun anymore!" as we shared a coffee break contemplating her selection of the steaming brew, "Regular or Decaf? Water-processed or not?

Deciding on the "right" kind of coffee becomes a big deal, let alone whether to eat a piece of greasy pizza. My friend also commented, "I love pizza but I haven't had any in months because eating it is just not worth the guilt!"

Right or wrong, good or bad, guilt or defiance—these are the words Americans are increasingly associating with food. And understandable. Rarely does a week go by that we don't read or hear another story warning us of the health risks associated with eating certain foods, or trouting the longevity-producing virtues of others. Margarine or no? Oat bran or not? Should children drink cow's milk? How about a daily dose of walnuts?

One part of the population has become so frustrated with all this advice that they've given up and eat anything they like. On the other end of the spectrum are those who analyze every single food choice according to whether it's good or bad for them, regardless of whether they even enjoy its taste.

According to a survey commissioned by the American Dietetic Association and the International Food Information Council, many Americans no longer find eating pleasurable because:

- 65 percent said they worry about fat and cholesterol
- 50 percent said they gain weight when they eat what they like
- 45 percent said the foods they like aren't good for them
- 36 percent feel guilty about eating the foods they like

Yet for many of those surveyed, healthy eating seemed to rely not on a well balanced and diverse diet but rather a quick fix such as increasing consumption of the trendy health-food-of-the-day or taking vitamin supplements. Only 8 percent reported they were eating more vegetables and only 6 percent said they were consuming more fruits or fruit juices.

Surprisingly another national nutrition survey found that 70 percent of Americans believe that a healthful diet needs to include only one or two daily servings of fruits and vegetables. Only 23 percent of those surveyed said they met the USDA Food Guide Pyramid's recommendation of at least five servings per day.

On the other hand, a significant number of ardently conscientious folk are forgoing foods they really like altogether, including red meat and dairy products, thinking these are categorically bad for them.

So why not return to a common sense approach to eating. There simply are no foods that are "bad" or "good." Any food is appropriate in the context of the total diet.

Healthful eating can be simple and enjoyable if people apply three basic principles—balance, variety, and moderation.

This gives people permission to eat their favorite foods whether they're high in fat, salt, or sugar. The key is to eat only a moderate amount of such foods and only eat them once in a while.

So there's no need to stop eating your favorite foods such as roast beef and gravy. Just eat it less often, eat a smaller portion when you do, and be restrained with the gravy boat. Then just sit back and allow yourself to enjoy it.

Holiday Entertaining Made Easy

Although there's never enough time and there's always too much to do, a recent nationwide survey shows that most Americans still find time to entertain during the holidays.

Most report having guests between two to five times post-Thanksgiving through New Year's. Other survey findings indicate a trend toward more casual entertaining. Friends, who drop by for coffee and dessert or fireside chats with snacks.

How about roasting chestnuts by the fire for an old-fashioned custom. Mrs. Wayne Reed gives detailed instructions for making roasted chestnuts.

Dips served with crackers and vegetables remain a favorite throughout the holiday season. Have a bowlful of munchies such as cracker jacks, party mix or peanut snack ready to serve for both unexpected and invited guests. These make great holiday gifts when packaged in a decorative jar or tin.

ROASTED CHESTNUTS

Cut a cross or an X-shape cut in the flat side of each chestnut, being careful not to damage the nutmeat. (The slit is to keep them from bursting during roasting and to make them easier to peel).

Place the chestnuts in a shallow pan and cover the pan tightly with foil.

Roast in a 425 to 450 degree oven about 30 minutes. Shake pan occasionally during cooking.

Peel chestnuts while they are still warm, taking them from the pan one at a time, and remove their papery inner shell.

To roast chestnuts over an open fire: Cut an x in each chestnut as described above. Wrap the nuts in a sheet of heavy-duty foil that has had a few holes punched in it. Place them about 5 inches from the fire or use a fireplace corn popper or a chestnut roasting basket. Cooking time: 15 to 20 minutes.

Note: I have read that chestnuts in the shell will keep in the refrigerator for about 6 months, stored in a perforated plastic bag.

MUSHROOM-LEEK PINWHEELS

¼ cup unsalted butter
1½ pounds mushrooms, finely chopped
½ cup chopped leeks
1 tablespoon finely chopped garlic
¼ cup ready-to-serve chicken broth
12 ounces cream cheese, cut into pieces
⅓ cup chopped fresh parsley
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon freshly ground pepper
1 (17¼ -ounce) package frozen puff pastry (containing 2 sheets pastry) defrosted
6 strips bacon, cooked crisp and crumbled

In a large skillet over medium-high heat, melt butter. Add mushrooms and saute 3 to 4 minutes, stirring frequently. Add leeks and garlic and continue sauteing 2 to 3 minutes. Add broth and cook over high heat until all liquid has evaporated, about 5 to 6 minutes longer. Reduce heat to low. Stir in cream cheese; cook, stirring constantly, until cheese is melted. Add parsley, salt, and pepper. Remove mixture from heat; transfer to mixing bowl and refrigerate until well chilled.

To prepare pinwheels, roll out puff pastry, one sheet at a time, on lightly floured work surface to 12x14-inch rectangle. Spread with half the filling, leaving a ½ -inch border of pastry on one long side. Spread filling to edges of remaining three sides). Sprinkle half the crumbled bacon over the filling. Starting with the long side without the border, roll pastry into tight coil. Moisten border lightly with water and press to seal. Repeat process with second sheet of pastry and remaining filling. Wrap rolls in plastic wrap; freeze until firm, about 45 minutes to 1 hour. Remove rolls from freezer. Preheat oven to 425 degrees.

With sharp knife, cut rolls into ¼ -inch thick slices. Arrange on unbuttered baking sheets. Bake 12 to 14 minutes or until golden brown. Serve warm. Yield: about 80.

Note: Logs may be frozen tightly wrapped up to 2 weeks. Allow logs to stand at room temperature about 30 minutes for easier slicing.

Guests will be impressed with these buttery-crisp Mushroom-Leek Pinwheels, which may be made in advance and frozen two weeks before baking.

SLOW-BALL DIP

1 large round loaf French, Italian or other unsliced crusty bread
2 8-ounce packages cream cheese, softened
3 cans (6½ -ounces each) chopped clams, drained (reserve ¼ cup liquid)
2 tablespoons grated onion
2 teaspoons each Worcestershire sauce and lemon juice
1 teaspoon hot-pepper sauce, or to taste
½ teaspoon salt
Parsley sprigs for garnish (optional)
Raw vegetables for dipping

With sharp knife, cut top from bread; set aside. Hollow loaf, leaving a 1½ -2-inch thick shell; cut removed bread in cubes (see note); set both aside. In large bowl, beat cream cheese until smooth; stir in clams, the reserved clam liquid, onion, Worcestershire sauce, lemon juice, pepper sauce, and salt until well blended. On baking sheet, make a cross with two sheets of foil, each long enough to cover loaf. Center bread shell on foil. Pour clam mixture into shell; cover with bread top. Wrap loaf with the foil. Bake in preheated 250 degree oven 3 hours for flavors to blend and clam mixture to get piping hot. Remove top; sprinkle dip with parsley. Serve loaf on large platter surrounded by the bread cubes and raw vegetables for dippers. When empty, the bread shell can be torn apart and eaten. Makes 12 servings.

Note: Toast bread cubes in the oven during last 5 minutes of baking.

S'MORES

For one S'more
1 whole graham cracker (4 section cracker)
½ chocolate bar
2 large marshmallows
Microwave:

Break cracker in half, place on microwaveable plate

Place chocolate bar on half of cracker.

Microwave until chocolate starts to melt. Remove cut marshmallows in half, place over chocolate bar, place back in microwave for 7 seconds. Remove and place second half of graham cracker over marshmallow and eat.

FLAVORED POPCORN

Parmesan: Melt ¼ cup butter in a saucepan; add ¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese and ½ teaspoon salt. Pour over 1½ to 2 quarts hot, freshly popped popcorn. Toss.

Cheddar: Melt ¼ cup butter in a saucepan; add ½ cup shredded Cheddar cheese and ½ teaspoon salt. Pour over 1½ -2 quarts freshly popped popcorn. Toss.

Garlic: Melt ¼ cup butter in a saucepan; add ½ teaspoon garlic salt, and ½ teaspoon salt. Pour over 1¼ quarts hot, freshly popped popcorn. Toss.

The holidays are a time for families to join together and share their laughter and memories of the past year.

"What better way to greet your family than with a delicious milk punch?" asks Marie Lieb, Cambria County dairy princess.

Marie helps her parents, Mary Beth and Ralph Lieb, and four brothers on their Barr Ridge Farms in Spangler. Together they milk 60 of 130 Holsteins and raise hay, corn, and soybeans on their 300 acre farm.

A senior at Bishop Carroll High School, Marie is a member of the marching and concert bands, drama club, and pro-life club.

She is president of the Cambria County 4-H Dairy Club, and a member of Stitch and Snicker 4-H Sewing Club and Cambria County Teen Club.

"By serving milk punch throughout the holidays, you can be assured that you are serving Pennsylvania's official beverage, milk. Milk contains all the important ingredients to keep the family happy and healthy. Try the following recipe when greeting your loved ones," Marie writes.

HOLIDAY MILK PUNCH

3 cups cold milk
1 pint vanilla ice cream
1 cup pineapple juice
¼ cup strawberry syrup

Combine all ingredients in mixer bowl or blender and beat until smooth. Makes 8 servings.

Milk Promoters Carry Olympic Torch

SYRACUSE, N.Y.—Though two seasons and several states separate New York from the next Olympic games, the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. (ADADC) carried the Olympic torch and positive milk messages across New York State in the "Run for '96" this fall.

Cows, milkmen, and dairy princesses made appearances in the six largest cities of the 2,200-mile run across New York State to emphasize the importance of milk and dairy products in the diet. As a sponsor of the Torch Run, ADADC participated in Rochester, Buffalo, Syracuse, Albany, Binghamton and New York City.

Product promotion was the goal of ADADC's participation in the New York Run for '96. Complimentary ice cold white and chocolate milk was given to all runners, children and other Olympic supporters, reminding them of the importance of including milk and dairy products in a well balanced diet. The milk was donated by Upstate Milk Cooperative of Rochester and Crowley Foods of Binghamton.

New York State Dairy Princess Jonelle Smith, dressed as a milkman, carried the official Olympic torch in Buffalo, N.Y. as part of a 2,200-mile run across New York State to promote milk and dairy product consumption to runners, children, and other Olympic supporters.

Product promotion was the goal of ADADC's participation in the New York Run for '96. These children are anxiously awaiting the complimentary milk donated by Upstate Milk Cooperative of Rochester and Crowley Foods of Binghamton.

In each major city, a ceremony was held to recognize the Olympic effort including speeches from local dignitaries and former Olympians. New York State Dairy Princess Jonelle Smith and ADADC Chief Executive Officer Rick Naczi were able to promote milk's logical connection to active healthy lifestyles of Olympic athletes during the ceremonies.

Dairy Princesses received additional attention by delivering the torch both to and from the ceremonies, when the media was covering the events most closely. As a result, coverage was generated on the NBC affiliate television station in Syracuse and on the front page of the Oneida Dairy Dispatch, taking the dairy message to thousands of viewers and readers.

MOLASSES SPICE CRISP

2½ cups flour
2 teaspoons baking soda
2 teaspoons cinnamon
2 teaspoons ginger
2 teaspoons cloves
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup sugar
1 egg, unbeaten
4 tablespoons molasses
¾ cup butter

Measure flour, baking soda, and spices. Sift together three times. Cream sugars and butter until light. Add egg, beat thoroughly, add molasses and flour gradually. Mix well after each addition. Chill dough and then form into balls the size of a hickory nut, dip into granulated sugar, placed on a greased cookie sheet. Bake in 350 degree oven until done. Do not store until cool.

These cookies are great keepers if you can keep the hands out of the cookie jar. Makes great food gifts also. They're a favorite with my family.

ARM-CHAIR QUARTER BACK CRACKER JACKS

8 quarts popped popcorn
2 cups light brown sugar
½ cup clear Karo syrup
1 cup Spanish peanuts
2 sticks butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon baking soda

Heat oven to 200 degrees. Place popped popcorn in shallow 9x13-inch pan sprayed with non-stick cooking spray.

Melt butter, add brown sugar, and Karo syrup, bring to boil and cook 5 minutes. Remove from heat, add vanilla and baking soda, stirring well.

Pour over popped corn and peanuts, stirring as you pour. Place in 200 degree oven for one hour, stirring every 15 minutes. Cool and eat.

ZIPPY PEANUT SNACK

½ cup butter
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon chili powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika
2 cups bite-size shredded wheat squares
2 cups bite-size shredded rice squares
2 cups Spanish peanuts
2 cups pretzel sticks

Preheat oven to 300 degrees. Melt butter; add seasonings. Combine remaining ingredients in large bowl; pour on seasoned butter. Toss to coat evenly. Spread on shallow baking pan. Bake 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cool. Store in airtight container at room temperature up to 2 weeks.

Ann. Dairy Assoc.

CHEX BRAND PARTY MIX

¼ cup butter, melted
1¼ teaspoons seasoned salt
4½ teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
8 cups of your favorite Chex brand cereals (corn, rice, or wheat)
1 cup mixed nuts or peanuts
1 cup pretzels

In a small bowl, add seasoned salt and Worcestershire sauce to melted butter; mix well. Pour cereals, nuts, and pretzels into a 2-gallon resealable plastic bag.

Pour butter mixture over cereal mixture inside bag. Seal top of bag securely. Shake bag until all pieces are evenly coated.

Pour contents of bag into large microwave-safe bowl. Microwave on high 5 to 6 minutes, stirring every 2 minutes. Spread on absorbent paper to cool. Store in airtight container. Makes 9 cups.

Or make in conventional oven by baking at 250 degrees for one hour, stirring every 15 minutes. Cool and store as directed above.

SWISS-BACON SPREAD

3 cups shredded Swiss cheese, at room temperature
⅔ cup dairy sour cream
3-ounces cream cheese, softened
6 slices bacon, cooked and crumbled
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon Dijon-style prepared mustard
¼ teaspoon pepper

Beat Swiss cheese, sour cream, and cream cheese in large mixing bowl until well blended. Stir in remaining ingredients. Store, covered, in refrigerator until ready to package as gifts or for yourself. Will keep up to 3 weeks. Let mixture stand at room temperature about 30 minutes before serving with assorted crackers.

EASY CARAMEL APPLE DIP

8-ounces cream cheese, softened
¾ cup brown sugar, packed
8 ounces sour cream
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 cup cold milk
3.4-ounces instant vanilla pudding

In mixing bowl, beat cream cheese and brown sugar until smooth. Add sour cream, vanilla, lemon juice, and pudding. Beat well after each addition. Cover and chill for one hour. Makes 3½ cups. May be made with lowfat dairy products.

QUESTION — Gladys Lillya, Salem, N.J., would like a recipe for Amish Old-Fashioned Puffy Sugar Cakes, which are sold at Good & Plenty Restaurant, Lancaster.

QUESTION — Joyce Shoemaker, Mt. Joy, would like a recipe for lemon dill bread.

QUESTION — Debra Shull, Landisburg, would like a recipe for making sharp cheese using goat's milk.

QUESTION — A McAlisterville reader would like a recipe for a friendship cake with streusel topping.

QUESTION — F. Eleanor Rebuck is on a fat- and salt-free diet. She would like to know the ingredients used in soft ice cream or frozen custard.

QUESTION — J.M. Koser, Narvon, would like a recipe for Brown Bobby Cookies, which were popular about 50 years ago. The cookies were triangular with a triangle hole in the center. They were made in a special griddle like a waffle iron and frosted. Flavors included chocolate, vanilla, and spice. She would like both the recipe and information on the griddle.

QUESTION — A reader would like a recipe for corn pie that tastes like that served at Cloister Restaurant in Ephrata.

QUESTION — B.W. Pue, Rocky Ridge, Md., would like directions for making realistic gingerbread people that are used in crafts. Some are puffy and others are thick and flat. How is the dough made and colored and the features painted?

QUESTION — Dick Taylor, Allentown, N.J., would like a recipe for hot pepper sauce using lime juice and carrots as opposed to the traditional method of using vinegar and tomatoes. He writes that lime juice enhances the pepper flavor more than vinegar.

QUESTION — Dee Crowder, Gettysburg, is looking for a recipe similar to Rotel or Chi-Chi's Tomato and Green Chilies.

ANSWER — Louise Graybeal, Renick, W.V., wanted to know where she can purchase flaked hominy. Thanks to Elizabeth Seibert, Fredericksburg, who wrote that she read that flaked hominy is no longer made according to a spokesperson from Quaker Oats Company. Elizabeth said hominy in cracker corn size is available at the bulk food stand at Root's Market held in Manheim on Tuesday and from Horning's Bulk Food Store near Myerstown on Roma Road.

ANSWER — Kathryn Heberling, Falls Creek, wanted to know where to purchase teaberry flavoring to use in hard tack candy and in ice cream. Sarah Clark, Breezewood, uses teaberry lozenges. Here is her ice cream recipe.

Teaberry Ice Cream

1 pound teaberry lozenges (soak overnight in 1-quart milk)
6 tablespoons cornstarch
2 cups sugar
1 quart milk
4 egg yolks
4-5 quarts milk

Cook together cornstarch, egg yolks, and sugar in 1 quart milk. Add 4-5 quarts milk, enough for an 8-quart freezer. Follow directions for your ice cream freezer.

Publisher Seeks Farm Poetry, Essays, Drawings

HALIFAX (Dauphin Co.) — Farm News Service, an agricultural editorial service and publisher, is seeking poems, short essays and line drawings for a new book to be published in 1996.

"We're looking for written copy and drawings that capture the essence of today's life on and about the farm," says Melissa P. Nelson, Farms News Service director.

"Farm families have a close relationship to the land, their communities and their families and friends. This is the spirit we are looking for in publishing an anthology of farm-related works," Nelson adds.

"We are encouraging writers and artists of all ages to submit works for review and possible publication," says Nelson.

The following guidelines for submission of works have been established:

Submissions must be directly related to farm life and activities and be suitable for family review. Farm News Service reserves the right to reject any submission which does not fit into the specified guidelines.

Poetry and essays should be presented as one submission per sheet of paper. Essays can be up to 500 words. Each writer may submit up to three entries. The name, address and phone number of the author should appear on each submission and each submission must be clearly typed or printed off with a legible printer. No handwritten material will be considered.

Line drawings should be subitted on unfolded white plain paper with the author's name, address and phone number on the back of the artwork. Each artist can submit up to three drawings.

All entries should include a self-addressed stamped envelope with postage sufficient for return of the materials. Farm News Service will not be responsible for entries that arrive without return postage.

The work will be reviewed by agricultural writers, journalists, and artists knowledgeable in the field. Entrants whose works are selected for inclusion in the book will be notified previous to pubication and will receive a free copy of the book following printing. Additionally, three outstanding works will receive special recognition in the bo ok.

"If you've been keeping a diary of farm life, jotting down lines for a poem or sketching cows or cornstalks, this is your opportunity to share your creativity with others in and outside of the farming community," says Nelson.

Entries can be sent to Farm News Service, P.O. Box G, Halifax, PA 17032. Entries are due no later than Feb. 15, 1996.

Those interested in purchasing the book may send a note to the same address and further information will be forwarded to you.

The Unhappy Christmas

A True Story

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

"I can't wait until Christmas," Jenny said for the hundredth time.

She dipped her finger into the cookie dough to sneak a taste, but her mother warned, "If you eat anymore cookie dough, we won't have any cookies to eat on Christmas."

Jenny said with a sigh, "Wait, wait, wait. We have to wait for everything."

She looked at the presents wrapped in bright red and green under the tree. She so badly wanted to see what was inside the boxes.

"I hope I get Samantha. It's the most beautiful doll I've ever seen," Jenny said.

"You shouldn't count on it," her mother said. "You know the American Girls dolls cost lots of money — something we don't have."

"I know," Jenny pouted, "but it's the only thing I really want."

Jenny squeeze her eyes shut until she could envision beautiful Samantha with her long lush hair and sparkling eyes.

Jenny could almost feel Samantha in her arms. If she didn't get Samantha, she didn't know how she could ever be happy on Christmas Day.

All evening, Jenny thought about Samantha even though her older brother Derek called her a baby as she paged through the doll catalog.

The next morning, Derek came into Jenny's bedroom and whispered, "Quick. Get out of bed. I'll show you what you are getting for Christmas."

Jenny sat up immediately. "How do you know what I'm getting," she demanded.

"Come on," Derek ordered. "Mom and Dad are in the barn. I know where they hid the presents."

"They're under the tree," Jenny protested.

Derek glared at Jenny. "Don't be silly. Those presents aren't the big ones they got for us. They hid the other presents because they wanted to surprise us."

Jenny followed her brother to her parents' bedroom. Derek already had the closet door opened and pulled out some boxes hidden underneath a stack of blankets.

There was Samantha, smiling at her beneath the cellophane covered box.

Jenny caught her breath in amazement and reached out to touch the lovely doll. Then her hand slowly dropped to her side. "I can't get her out of the box until Christmas."

"Don't be silly," her brother sneered. "I know how to open the boxes and close them up again so that no one will ever know they were opened."

"But. . . but. . . it wouldn't be right," Jenny said.

"Don't worry. Mom and dad will be in the barn for hours. They'll never know," Derek said as he pried open a box that held the motorized car he wanted.

Jenny shook her head. "But Mom always said, 'No peeking before Christmas.'"

But Derek was already inserting batteries into his car. Jenny watched in amazement as the car scooted across the room. Then she looked back at the packaged doll.

She was so beautiful — more lovely than she had ever dreamed from looking at the catalog.

Jenny hesitated.

"Open the box. You can do it," Derek said without looking up from operating his car.

Jenny looked at the doll but she couldn't help feeling a bit guilty. She knew her parents would never approve of what Derek and she were doing.

"I'm going to wait until Christmas," she said.

"Don't you say anything, Tattletale," her brother warned. "You looked so you'll get into trouble too."

Jenny walked back to her bedroom. "At least I know that I'm getting Samantha for Christmas," she whispered to herself.

The warm fuzzy comfort she expected from knowing didn't come over her.

By the time Mom and Dad returned from the barn, Derek had safely packed the boxes away. Just like Derek had promised, Mom and Dad never suspected.

There were only a few days left before Christmas. Jenny helped her mother clean the house and set the table. She looked forward to Grandma coming. She thought about Samantha, but she never said a word about her to anyone.

On Christmas morning, Jenny and Derek hurried down to unwrap their presents. Under the Christmas tree, Jenny saw the oblong present that held Samantha.

"You may open this present first," her mother said as she handed the box to Jenny.

Slowly Jenny removed the wrapping. She wanted to act surprise, but it was hard to act surprised when she had already seen the beautiful doll.

"I can't believe it," her mother said. "I thought she'd tear open the box."

"Oh, thank you. Just what I wanted," Jenny said as she took Samantha out of the box.

"I thought she'd act a lot more excited than that," Mother said to Grandma.

Jenny couldn't help but notice the sadness in her mother's voice.

"I am really excited," Jenny insisted. She was happy to get Samantha but why did she feel so sad at the same time? she wondered.

She was so busy thinking about her mother's disappointment that she hadn't notice Derek unwrap his present until her father said, "I can't believe this. The car is broken."

Mother said, "But I know that the car was fine when we bought it."

"Yes," Daddy said, "I had checked it out. I know that it worked."

Jenny looked at Derek.

"Well, we'll have to take it back to the store and exchange it because it doesn't work," Derek said.

Jenny remembered that the car had worked when Derek had first opened the box. She wondered what had happened.

"Derek," Daddy's voice was stern. "You played with this car before, didn't you?"

"How could I?" Derek asked innocently.

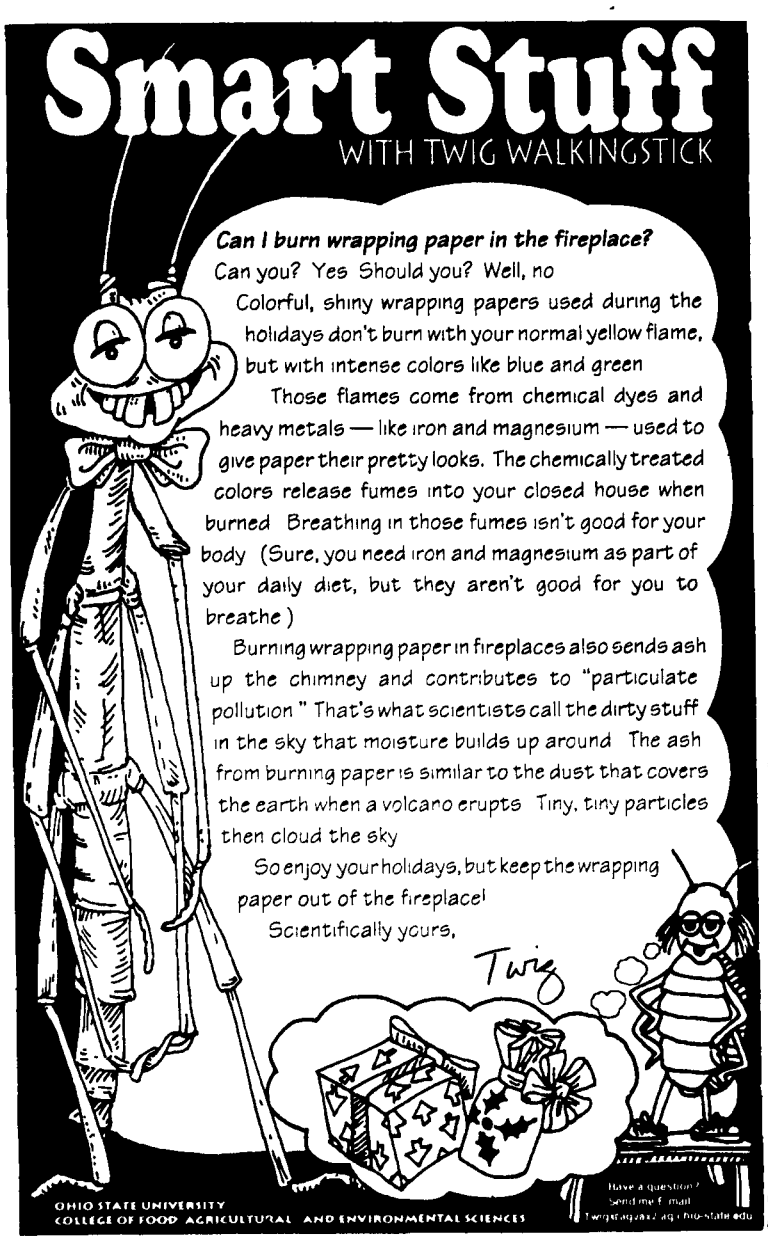
Daddy looked at Jenny. She burst into tears.

Slowly the whole sordid story came out.

"Well," Daddy said. "There's nothing to do to change it now. But I feel so disappointed that you would disobey and search for the toys. It isn't any fun to give gifts that you already played with."

Jenny hung her head. It was a sad Christmas. It could have been such a happy one.

"I will never peek at my presents again," she promished. And she never did.



Smart Stuff
WITH TWIG WALKINGSTICK
Can I burn wrapping paper in the fireplace?
Can you? Yes Should you? Well, no
Colorful, shiny wrapping papers used during the holidays don't burn with your normal yellow flame, but with intense colors like blue and green
Those flames come from chemical dyes and heavy metals — like iron and magnesium — used to give paper their pretty looks. The chemically treated colors release fumes into your closed house when burned Breathing in those fumes isn't good for your body (Sure, you need iron and magnesium as part of your daily diet, but they aren't good for you to breathe)
Burning wrapping paper in fireplaces also sends ash up the chimney and contributes to "particulate pollution " That's what scientists call the dirty stuff in the sky that moisture builds up around The ash from burning paper is similar to the dust that covers the earth when a volcano erupts Tiny, tiny particles then cloud the sky
So enjoy your holidays, but keep the wrapping paper out of the fireplace!
Scientifically yours,
Twig

Create Living Gifts This Holiday

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Plants and flower arrangements are always popular holiday gifts. Instead of purchasing them this year, create your own arrangements. Ohio State University horticulturist Jeanne Youger-Comaty gives the following hints for three popular and easy ideas.

• Topiaries. Topiaries are the latest rage in home decorating. You can create a variety of shapes by training any type of climbing vine around a wire form.

For a simple table-top Christmas tree, start with a well-rooted six-inch pot of ivy. Runners should be 15 inches to 25 inches long. Sink a 20-inch metal tree frame (that you buy or make yourself) into the soil as deep as possible. The frame will have metal rings evenly spaced up the outside. The first ring should touch the soil.

Take one stem at a time and weave it slowly around the frame in a spiral pattern. Tuck ivy around the frame to hook vine into place. After four or five days, clip off stems that don't follow the final cone shape. Repot the plant into a decorative container. Continue training the ivy up and around the frame until the tree is completely covered. Depending on the size of frame, and size and type of ivy used, it will take one to three months for the tree to be completely covered.

Decorate your gift to match the season. For example, hang tiny ornaments or lights on the tree for Christmas or dried flowers for a centerpiece in the spring. Remember to water your gift adequately, prune regularly to maintain shape (snip new growth before shoots exceed 3 inches), and place them in bright, indirect sunlight.

• Paper-whites. Paper-whites might be the easiest bulbs to force into bloom. A cluster of the fragrant, white or yellow flowers makes a great centerpiece.

You can buy pre-cooled paper-white narcissus bulbs individually or already potted. Plant individual bulbs in a container holding water and either clean pebbles, gravel or marbles. The material should be pea size to a half-inch diameter. Use containers that are low, wide, at least three inches deep and without drainage holes.

Fill the containers two-thirds full with pebbles and push the bulbs about one-third into the gravel. Bulbs should not touch. Pour water carefully inside the container so that it reaches just below the base of the bulbs. If water touches the bulbs they will rot. Add water as needed.

Place the container in bright light and allow several weeks to flower. After the flowers fade, the foliage will grow for about a month, but the bulbs are not reusable.

• Terrariums. These glass-encased gardens are great for small areas such as offices.

Containers can range from fancy glass bowls to recycled clear plastic liter bottles and salad trays. Use your imagination (or clean out your basement) to find the ideal container. If a container lacks a cover, use a piece of glass or plastic wrap.

Leaves or snippets of houseplants that grow well in terrariums include African violets, begonias, coleus, English ivy, jade plant and pothos. Other terrarium plants are dwarf maidenhair fern, parlor palm, creeping fig, baby's tears, prayer plant and dwarf gloxinia.

Clean and dry the container. Place a thin layer of small stones or pebbles across the bottom to help drain water. Cover the stones with well-drained potting soil. Slightly wet the soil. Both layers should occupy less than a fifth of the container.

Place non-plant accent items such as seashells in the terrarium first. Make holes in the soil with an unwound wire hanger to plant the largest cuttings. Finish with the shorter plants. Never place a plant so it touches the edges; it will collect moisture and decay.

Lightly mist the plants and cover the terrarium. If water beads on the sides, moisture is about right. If the interior fogs, remove the cover for a day to allow the plant to dry. Water the terrarium when the soil feels dry. Mist just enough to barely moisten the soil.

Place in bright light, but not direct sunlight, in an area that remains about 70 degrees Fahrenheit.

Make Holiday Gatherings Simpler, Healthier

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — If the holidays are meant to be a time of joy and celebration, then why does the mere thought of family gatherings and homemade cookies make some tired and depressed? Why do the holidays cause resentment and anger, instead of friendship and goodwill, frustration and guilt, instead of enjoyment and thankfulness?

Often it is because of unrealistic expectations! We want to make the occasion special and we may have special people visiting. If the result is less than perfect, we typically are heartsick; sometimes to the point that we make our guests feel it's all their fault.

As you plan your holiday gatherings this year, put your expectations in perspective. Make sure the social and entertaining menu you plan is not so complex that you don't have time to enjoy yourself, your family and your guests.

Take time to decide on your social and entertaining goals and develop a plan to achieve these goals. Make sure you include the following three resolutions offered by the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Office:

1. I am not going to overwork myself.

Be kind to yourself! An exhausted host or hostess isn't congenial company. When planning your menu, consider simple foods you know how to prepare. Consider what can be prepared ahead and frozen or held in another manner. Think about having a potluck. Also, if holiday guests stay over, don't be timid about serving leftovers or ordering out for pizza. A kitchen can seem like a dungeon if you're held captive cooking there day after day.

2. I am not going to overspend.

As you rummage through holiday recipes, keep your food budget in mind. How can you enjoy a dinner knowing a large portion of the month's food budget is sitting on the table? If served attractively, recipes made with common household staples and an occasional special ingredient can be just as elegant as those that call for many expensive ingredients.

3. I am going to serve healthful food.

A conflict often occurs when we entertain. We invite our friends into our homes as a way to express our friendship. However, if we serve them rich calorie-laden foods detrimental to their health, is that friendship? Wouldn't a clearer statement of love and friendship be to serve them good foods that also are good for them?

Seamstresses Win New Mexico Trip To National Competition

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

SOMERSET (Somerset Co.) — The Pennsylvania State "Make It Yourself With Wool" competition will see senior winner Jodell Rhoads of Berlin, and junior winner, Christina Zylka, Mount Pleasant, taking on national competition on January 15-20 in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

The contest, held Saturday, Dec. 2, at the Somerset Ramada Inn, beside Exit 10 of the Pennsylvania Turnpike, had some 23 participants from around the state.

Rhoads, 21, and a 1992 second runner-up at nationals, is happy about going to the southwest for her third trip to national competition, but it means taking time off from her job as an accountant at Jenny Products, Inc., Somerset.

Besides that, her parents, Harry and Virginia Rhoads, need to find a replacement to do the barn chores because their Robert Morris College graduate daughter, who's got a heart for dairying, won't be around to do the milking for five or six days.

"I've never had a desire to live anywhere else," says Rhoads, a 10-year 4-H'er who's completed 11 sewing projects.

Her winning outfit was a graceful wool jersey dress and plaid jacket designed for versatility. The color combination included black, fuchsia, jade, and purple.

Zylka, 15, a six-year member of the Westmoreland County 4-H, was ecstatic when her cream wool crepe, cuffed slacks and cream and rose knitted sweater, landed her the winning combination in the junior division.

"I'm really excited," she said. "It was a real honor to win."

Earlier this year, the outfit won Best of Show in 4-H as well as Best of Show in open class at the Westmoreland County Fair.

The daughter of Edwin and Susan Zylka has diverse interests ranging from being an avid swimmer and archer to the much more sedate knitting — she's a member of the Golden Dome Knitting Guild of Greensburg.

In the Connellsville East Junior High School, she's in ninth grade and says she's very involved with her church — St. John's the Baptist — in Scottdale.

Winning the adult division was Lori Knepp, Everett, Bedford County, with a wonderfully soft, brown, camel hair coat that perfectly suited her tall, graceful form. The winning garment, for which Knepp received a Baby Lock serger will be photographed for a national photo contest.

Pre-teen winner, Heather Charleton, 12, from Darlington in Beaver County, received a Baby Lock sewing machine. Charleton took on a challenge with her red and blue, lined plaid jumper. It has a hidden zipper, decorative covered buttons and pockets.

Judges were Janet Mawhinney, Peggy Black, Fran Frazier, Leanna Martin, Marsha Wysocki, and Gay Brownlee.

State directors Barbara A. Shaffer and Marie-France Londa coordinated the event, which was sponsored by the Pennsylvania Sheep and Wool Growers Association; Pennsylvania Sheep and Lamb Marketing Program; American Sheep Industry Women and American Sheep Industry Association.

Runners-up in the state "Make It Yourself With Wool" Contest are Amy Wagner, Christine Trumbetta, Joan Klein, and Julie Sechler.

What's Flying, What's Blooming? Hazel Shares Her Backyard Beauty

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

PERRY HALL, Md. — For readers who clip recipes from Lancaster Farming, the name Hazel Spamer is a familiar one.

But Hazel does much more than submit recipes of what she calls "plain, simple stuff."

At 71 years of age, she has been named a field editor for Birds and Blooms, a national magazine that celebrates bird feeding and backyard living.

Hazel serves as one of the magazine's local lookouts, a volunteer field staff that keeps readers abreast on what's blooming, what's flying, and what's happening outdoors in their respective communities.

"When I was a teenager, my sister, brother, mother and I often roamed the woodlands that border Little Gunpowder River, now gone back to nature as a part of the Gunpowder State Park," Hazel said of the reason for her great affinity with nature.

"As a married lady and the mother of two children, I carried on the wonderful experience of roaming our woods, which borders the Big Gunpowder Falls about 12 miles from my father's farm."

The Spamers live in the farmhouse where Will was born. The farmhouse lintel inscription reads "1827." Elmer Spamer, who purchased the farm in 1881, added a left wing. His brother Jasper, added the right wing.

When the Spamers first married, Will was a truck farmer.

"Later, he got into corn, wheat, and hay and did custom harvesting, traveling all up and down Baltimore County," Hazel said.

In 1950, Will learned to fly and persuaded his father to allow him to bring the plane home and fly from the farm. Will and many other pilots enjoyed the private landing strip. Sometimes parachute jumpers practiced at their farm.

"Will enjoyed flying after the farmwork was finished and spent all his spare time in rebuilding and in building several single engine planes," Hazel said.

Traditionally, the Spamer farm was passed down through the family. Will always farmed with his father who owned the farm with the understanding that the farm was to be passed on to him. When his father died, some of Will's siblings wanted their share of the inheritance money and the Spamers were forced to sell most of the 200 acres for development. With his share of the inheritance, Will purchased the house and 15 acres.

The Spamer home is in a wooden area filled with wildlife.

Hazel is no longer able to roam the fields that she once loved because a calcium depletion condition resulted in osteoarthritis in her knees. But that doesn't keep her from birdwatching and container gardening.

Flowering trees, bushes, and colorful flowers can be admired from her windows and in backyard leisure. Her prolific daffodil beds have been expanded many times.

"Daffodil bulbs may be had for the digging," Hazel said.

"I don't know that I can say that I have a favorite flower. I love them all, but the tiny wishbone torenia and pansies are lovely."

When the children outgrew the swing set, Will fastened four birdhouses across it. Now squirrels and birds chase each other up and down the framework. It's this view that offers much insight into the appearance of rare birds.

As a lookout for "Birds & Blooms," Hazel Spamer will keep readers abreast on what's blooming and what's flying in her community.

"But I'd have to say that my favorite bird is the robin — with his busy scratching and going on," Hazel said.

From her observations, Hazel will report anything of value to other people.

Terns in the area are building nests on the flat roofs of large buildings because the tern's natural habitat is endangered. She plans to report on the terns for the magazine.

Will has a large garden, which he needs to enclose with a 6-foot high fence to keep out deer and foxes.

The garden produce supplies four families. Hazel continues to preserve much of the produce. During a severe illness, Hazel said, "I got up off my sick bed to can three baskets of tomatoes because I could not bear to see beautiful tomatoes go to waste."

She still has three tomatoes from her garden sitting on her windowsill.

Hazel said that she learned to cook from her mother. She looks forward to making mincemeat and fruitcake this season.

"Because Will does not like to mix his food — he wants his broccoli and cheese served separately, not together — I make just plain, simple food," she said.

"I love to make a turkey. I just canned 12 quarts of broth and meat to have for future meals from two turkey carcasses left over from Thanksgiving."

Hazel doesn't allow her two walking canes to prevent her from leading a normal life. She often babysits and said, "My two canes are much enjoyed by my 2-year-old great grandson."

The Spamers have three grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

Hazel enjoys making ceramics and uses her son's kiln and many molds. She also enjoys plastic canvas stitchery. She writes some poetry and is dabbling in creative writing. Naturally, her poetry is about nature.

Hazel and Will Spamer celebrate 52 years of marriage. Both share a love for wildlife, although Will is perfectly content to stay at home while Hazel likes to keep active in the community.

Development in the area brought an onslaught of problems for the Spamers. Motorcycle and snowmobile riders cut fences in order to have a throughway. Even though the horses escaped, the culprits couldn't seem to comprehend why they shouldn't have free run of the land.

"People roaming through on motorcycles think they have all the right in the world. We asked them, 'How about we come and play in your yard?' Of course, they said, 'Oh no. You can't do that.'

"Except for my daughter's horses, we finally just gave up boarding horses," Hazel said of the frustration of dealing with broken fences.

In her lifetime, Hazel has worked as a plant nursery seasonal worker, a rural mail carrier, and as an aide for aged persons.

Hazel is active with the local chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons, where she will take over responsibility for the newsletter in January.

She is a former secretary-treasurer for Baltimore County Farm Bureau.

She is incoming secretary for the Baltimore County Family Community Education (formerly Extension Homemakers) and works with the Christian Women's Fellowship and senior's group at the Fork Christian Church, where she has been a member for 50 years.

The challenge to keep active in the community and do for others motivates Hazel. One of her delights is growing amaryllis to give for gifts.

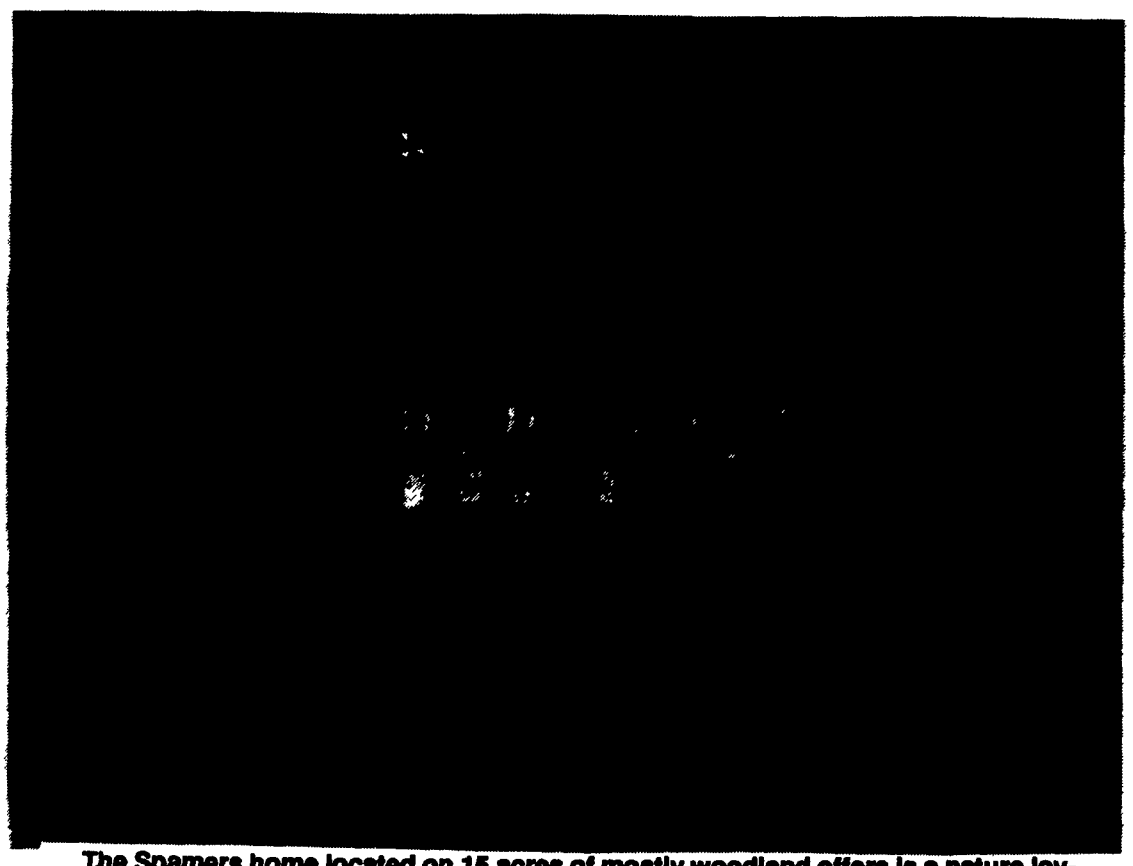
"I love to watch them grow and figure other people do too."

To sum up her life, Hazel said, "I lean on the Lord for all my direction."

Jeff Nowak of Birds and Blooms, said that Hazel was selected from a pool of almost 300 applicants nationwide because of her knowledge of backyard birding and gardening.

The magazine is geared to "regular folks" who love to spend time in their backyard and turn it into their personal paradise. It's about "beauty in your own backyard" and reflects readers' interests with relaxed, conversational writing and top-quality photographs of birds, blooms, and other backyard scenes.

For more information about Birds and Blooms, which is part of Reiman Publications, write to its headquarters at 5925 Country Lane, Greendale, WI 53129.



The Spamers home located on 15 acres of mostly woodland offers is a nature lover's paradise. Elmer Spamer purchased the home and 200 acres in 1881. Elmer added the left part of the house and his son Jasper added the right side to accomodate several single sisters.

Bylers Receive Mifflin County Award

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

MILROY (Mifflin Co.) — The Ray Byler family of Penn Canal Farms received the Farm City Business Award at the Mifflin County Farm-City banquet held at the Milroy Fire Hall recently.

along with his wife Arlene, son Steve, and daughter-in-law Juanita, said that to be successful, you must must surround yourself with good people. He acknowledged his nephew Ben Zook with whom he started farming in 1976.

Byler began whitewashing dairy barns in 1959. He and Zook began farming in Centre County in 1976. At that time, Byler started Union Mills, a fertilizer and spray operation in Belleville. Byler sold Union Mills in 1985 and formed Penn Canal Farms, a wholesale fertilizer and grain import business. He sold the grain operation in 1995 but continues to farm 1,200 acres of corn, soybeans, wheat, and green beans in Mifflin and Huntingdon Counties with his son Steve and nephew Ben Zook.

The City Family Business Award went to the Hartley family, [illegible] Potato Chips. Celebrating 60 years in business, Hartley's Potato Chips was started in 1935 by Carl Hartley's grandparents. Hartley operates the business along with his son Dan and daughter Kellie Johnson.

The business employs 19 local people and five independent contractors who distribute Hartley's Potato Chips to Harrisburg, Sunbury, Williamsport, Bedford, and Selinsgrove. The business uses 65,000 pounds of potatoes each week.

Frank Bonson received the Farm Service Agency Award for 30 years of service in ASCS, now called Farm Service Agency (FSA). Carl Shaffer, chairman of FSA, presented the award to the dairyman, recognizing his dedication for 30 years as country and community committee man.

Featured speaker was Keith Eckel, president of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau and a partnership farmer with more than 1,400 acres, 300 of which are green wrap tomatoes.

"It is appropriate that Farm-City week occurs in November, the week before Thanksgiving," said Eckel. "For 374 years, our country has been coming together to appreciate each other's work."

Eckel told about the first Thanksgiving that was held in 1621. About 102 Pilgrims landed but only half survived. At the end of the first year, they celebrated and gae thanks. In 1621, everyone was a farmer. Now only 1.4 percent of the population is engaged in production Agriculture. Of that, 1.4 percent, 27 percent produce three-quarters of the food and fiber four our country. In 1933, one-third of the population were farmers.

Eckel said that in 40 years, our world population will have doubled. This presents agriculture with a tremendous challenge to increase productivity while remaining environmental friendly because there are less acres cultivated today than in 1900.

Eckel encouraged everyone to walk in the other's shoes. He said Farm-City Week is geared towards gaining a better understanding between rural and urban occupations.

"Our message to our urban neighbors is that we do need your help. We need public policy driven by scientific fact, not emotion."

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Thanks to Anna Martin, Denver, for sending a recipe for a sugarless dessert requested by Iris Weaver. Thanks to Elizabeth Seibert, Fredericksburg, for a recipe for sugarless apple pie.

Pineapple Supreme

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
1 tablespoon pure lemon juice
9-ounce can crushed pineapple, undrained
2 3-ounce packages cream cheese

Sprinkle gelatin over water in a small saucepan. Dissolve over medium heat, stirring constantly. Stir in lemon juice. In a blender, liquify pineapple with half the cream cheese. When completely blended, add the remaining cream cheese and liquid fy. Combine with gelatin. Pour into individual dessert dishes.

Sugarless Apple Pie

6 medium sliced Delicious apples
1 6-ounce can frozen apple juice

Combine apples and juice and cook for 5 minutes. Dissolve:

1½ tablespoon cornstarch
⅓ cup water

Stir into apple mixture. Bring to a boil and boil for a few minutes until soft and thick. Stir in 1 teaspoon cinnamon.

Fill pie shell with apple mixture. Add a top crust. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Baste with melted butter after baking.

ANSWER — Sarah Clark, Breezewood, wanted a recipe for beehive cake. Thanks to Elizabeth Seibert, Fredericksburg, who sent a recipe for the cake that is also known as bee sting cake.

Bee Sting Cake

Batter:
2 eggs
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup milk

Topping:
10 tablespoons brown sugar
¼ cup melted butter
¼ cup heavy cream
1 cup shredded coconut
1 teaspoon vanilla

Grease an 8x8-inch pan. Mix together eggs, sugar, vanilla, flour, and baking powder. Bring milk and butter to a boil and mix with batter mixture. Pour into prepared pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Mix topping and spread over cake while still warm. Broil until bubbly and brown. Serves 10.

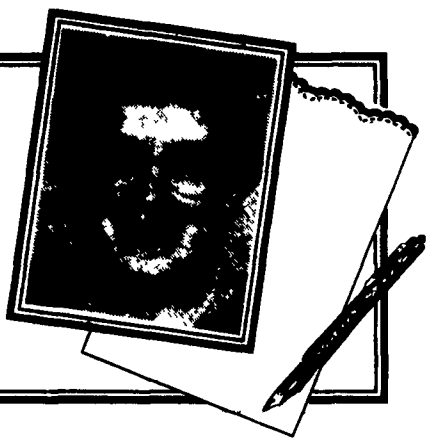
Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser



We have many walkers along our dead-end road as there is a building development near us. At one time people were so busy earning a living that they did not have time for a leisurely walk everyday.

I've always enjoyed walking and in my lifetime I've walked many places. Some have been the green, lush pastures of Ireland, the beaches of Hawaii, the tundra in Alaska, and around the Eiffel Tower in Paris, France.

However, one walk that will forever stick in my mind is a walk that I took when I was only 14 years old. You see, I had forgotten to pick up a house key off a table in one farmhouse to open a door in another farmhouse. And so my father sent me down a pitch black one-mile road to get that key. It was a lonely, scary trip on a very dark night. When I got home, I found that the family had opened an outside cellar door and had gotten in the house without the key.

In the spring I and my six sisters looked forward to a walk down our cinder road to a meadow filled with spring flowers. Our path took us along a steep bank beside the Conestoga River. It's a wonder that we never fell in as we climbed over many fallen trees. Then in the summer I would partially retrace our steps when I gathered wild, black raspberries to make jelly. The problem there was that we were not allowed to use the jelly and when my parents moved 25 years later the corner cupboard was full of unused jams and jellies.

During the Depression, some plumbers walked three miles every morning and evening carrying their tools to install a bathroom in our home. You see, they were only too glad for a job.

Now our neighbors walk for exercise for themselves and also for their dogs.

ANSWER — Mrs. Harold Kuehler, Coatesville, wanted to know how to keep the dog's water pail from freezing when they go away overnight. Thanks to I.A. Kirk Sr., Silver Springs, Md., who writes that bird feeding stores carry an electric heater to put into bird baths. Kirk has tried the heater and it works great.

ANSWER — Jean Nestler, Halifax, wanted to know how to make scented pine cones to burn safely in the fireplace. Thanks to Sarah Clark, Breezewood, who sent these directions previously printed in our paper.

Colorful Burning Pinecones

1½ gallons hot water
3 plastic or ceramic containers, one for each color
½ pound copper sulfate (for green flame)
½ pound boric acid (for crimson flame)
½ pound calcium chloride (for yellow or yellow-orange flame)
Pinecones

Pour ½ gallon hot water into each container. Add one chemical to each container of hot water.

Stir until chemicals are dissolved.

Add pinecones and soak overnight.

Allow pinecones to dry thoroughly in warm dry air for two days.

Add cones to fire two or three at a time. The colorful flames will last only a short time.

Warning: Keep this solution out of the reach of small children and pets. The chemicals may be toxic.

ANSWER — For the reader who asked how many different kinds of peanut butter glasses with flowers and names are available, Hanna Bradley, Bridgeton, N.J., writes that she has one with cars on it.

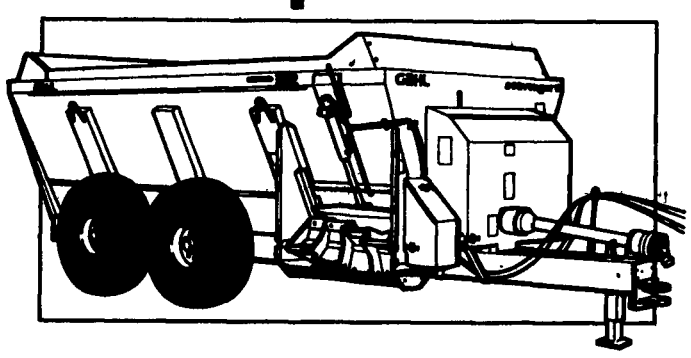
GEHL®

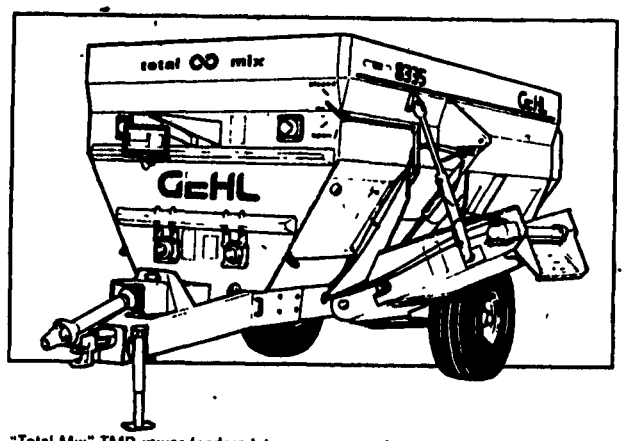
North America's #1 V-Tank Spreader



The Gehl Scavenger® II is the "original" V-Tank spreader and still the best. It delivers outstanding performance in all types of manure, from liquid to semi-solid to pen-packed manure.

- Patented square-tube auger - Hydraulically powers up and down to break up solid material.
- Varifio discharge - Spreads smoothly and evenly for complete application control.
- Five models - From 192 to 596 bushel heaped capacities to match your operation.
- 10-Year warranty - Against rust-through on the tank for peace of mind.
- Options include - Truck-mounted units and hydraulic lids.

TMR "Total Mix" Mixer Feeders



"Total Mix" TMR mixer feeders let you mix more long-stemmed hay into your ration - up to 30% by weight depending on hay type and moisture content

- "Hay-slicer auger" - Incorporates knife assemblies into the two bottom augers.
- Better mixing action - Four-auger design creates a double figure-8 mixing pattern for fast and complete mixing of all feed ingredients.
- Energy efficient - Planetary drive system requires less horsepower.
- Built to last - Patented star couplers absorb shock loads by allowing the bottom augers to flex, providing long service life.
- Five sizes - 150 to 455 cubic feet capacities.

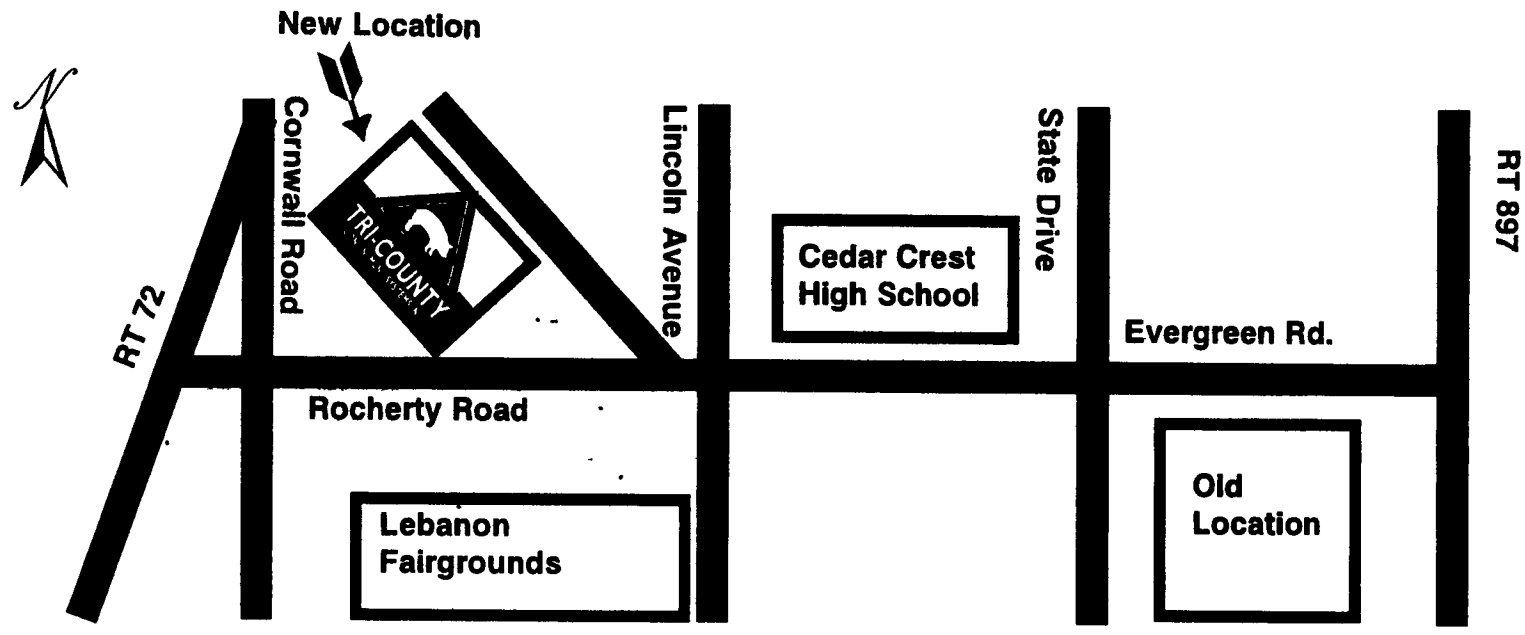
THE BEST TIRES IN THE WORLD HAVE GOODYEAR WRITTEN ALL OVER THEM

We're going a short distance to make a big move!

Visit us at our brand new headquarters!



Since 1978 we have served customers in the swine production industry from our facility at 608 East Evergreen Road in Lebanon. Thanks to you we have grown steadily, increasing the products and services we offer. Today, Tri-County Confinement Systems operates throughout the United States, Canada, and Mexico. This expansion resulted in the need for larger quarters to accommodate our employees and a increased inventory. Our new headquarters at 28 Evergreen Road in Lebanon will enable us to operate with improved efficiency to serve you better. As a complete turnkey builder we design and oversee the construction of swine confinement systems of all sizes. In addition, our catalog and customer service departments provide our own product lines and many national brand hog supplies for your convenience. Our service representatives bring it all together with the advice you need to build and operate an efficient and profitable swine operation. The next time you're in the Lebanon area, stop in and see how we've changed to serve you better!

Farmland Preservation Applications Due

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — Applications for Dauphin County's Agricultural Conservation Easement Purchase Program are being accepted for 1996. Applications are due by Jan. 16. A $15 fee must accompany all applications.

The Easement Purchase Program preserves farmland through the purchase of perpetual conservation easements which prohibit development. Pending state approval, 362.97 acres have been approved by the Dauphin County Ag Land Board for easement purchases in 1995.

More information about the program and applications are available through the Dauphin County Conservation District office at the Agriculture and Natural Resources Center, 1451 Peters Mountain Road, Dauphin, PA 17018, or contact Bob Christoff at (717) 921-8100.

PRIORITY: UNITED STATES AVIAN HEALTH AND INDUSTRY ISSUES — 1994-1995

Patty Dunn, DVM
Animal Diagnostic Lab
Dept. of Vet. Science

The United States Animal Health Association (USAHA) Committee on Transmissible Diseases of Poultry and Other Avian Species met on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1, 1995 in Reno, Nev. The committee is made up of leading poultry veterinarians, regulatory officials from USDA and FDA, and other avian health professionals in both private and public sectors.

Part of the meeting agenda was a discussion of the current priority health, disease, and related marketing concerns of the U.S. broiler, table egg, turkey, and ratite industries. Selected industry representatives led this segment of discussion which can be summarized as follows.

Broiler Industry

Dr. Tom Holder, veterinarian for Allen's Hatchery of Salisbury, Md., presented a list of current disease concerns drawn up by the Association of Broiler Company Veterinarians.

The topics were prioritized:

1. Marek's Disease, especially as it relates to broiler condemnation rates.
2. Avian Influenza (A.I.), possible control and containment measures in light of the recent Mexican A.I. outbreak.
3. Infectious Bronchitis (IB), diagnosis and control, specifically the need to establish a national reference laboratory for serotyping IB virus isolates to help with vaccine decisions.
4. Infectious Laryngotracheitis (I.L.T.), which continues to be an economically important disease in many broiler areas, not only because of decreased performance, but also because of foreign export restrictions.
5. Hazard Analysis Critical Control Points (HACCP)-based inspection, specifically the development and implementation of a processing plant inspection system that is science-based and workable.

Table Egg Industry

Dr. Gary Waters, veterinarian at DeKalb Poultry Research, Inc. in Illinois, began by noting that avian disease research is generally "disaster driven."

Dr. Waters presented several issues of current interest in no particular priority order.

• Perceived problems within the realms of regulatory agencies and interest groups such as the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), Food and Drug Administration (FDA), and animal welfare/animal rights groups generally receive more attention than disease problems.

• Avian influenza — The recent authorization of A.I. vaccine manufacture and storage has satisfied the industry's desire to have vaccine as a potential control method for use in the face of an A.I. outbreak, should it occur in the U.S.

Marek's Disease (MD)

Virulent pathotypes of MD virus continue to emerge. Many are using Rispen-strain vaccines already, and no "stronger" vaccines are in the arsenal to use in the future.

• Salmonella Enteritidis (SE) — Biosecurity and legal liability aspects are the major concerns. SE has not been a bird pathogen of any significance. The industry is interested in the potential use of vaccines containing other species of Salmonella that may have some cross-protective effects against SE. There is also interest in the use of probiotics and other competitive exclusion products to decrease the chance of intestinal colonization and systemic invasion by SE.

• Mycoplasmosis — Mycoplasma Gallisepticum (MG) and Mycoplasma Synoviae (MS) are common in multi-age complexes. The willingness of the egg industry to "live with" the effects of these conditions conflicts with the broiler and turkey MG and MS "eradication" programs, as infected laying hens serve as reservoir populations of these potential pathogens.

• Layer Hepatitis — is a disease problem of some concern in many areas as is variant fowl pox and variant infectious bronchitis.

Turkey Industry

Dr. Yan Ghazikhanian, a veterinarian for Nicholas Turkeys, Sonoma, Calif., supplied a handout summarizing the current U.S. turkey disease status for 1994-1995.

The information was gathered from several members of the United States Turkey Breeders and Integrators and is not listed in any particular order of priority.

• Turkey industry general status: No widespread, devastating infectious disease epidemics occurred during the period. However, the southeast region, North Carolina in particular, continues to have a major problem with "Spiking Mortality Syndrome" (SMS) of turkeys in which early (7-28 days of age), enteritis, feed refusal and excessive mortality are followed by stunting and increased condemnations in affected flocks. The cause(s) have yet to be defined, and the industry is looking for assistance in determining causes and possible control measures.

• The sudden and excessive heat and humidity during the 1995 summer season caused significant mortality in older market birds in many areas. An estimated one million birds were lost to the heat.

• Studies to evaluate the use of live MG vaccines in commercial turkeys as a possible control method in MG outbreak flocks are needed.

• The industry would like to see increased capabilities of local laboratories to pathotype field Newcastle disease virus.

• Recent new drug approvals (Sarafloxin for e. coli infections and Monensin/Bacitracin combination for coccidiosis control and growth promotion/enteritis prevention) should have a positive effect on turkey flock health nationally.

• "In general, the overall prevalence of various health disorders and diseases were minor."

Dr. Ghazikhanian listed the concerns specific to the three major turkey regions of the U.S.: East, Midwest, and West/Southwest. The list for the Eastern region (North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan) is as follows:

• Bordetellosis followed by e. coli infections in young poults.

• Secondary e. coli infections in growing turkeys because of primary respiratory diseases (Newcastle Disease, bordetellosis) as well as various environment and management stressors such as sudden heat stress, moving from brooding to growing units, etc.

• Spiking Mortality Syndrome of turkeys as listed above.

• Mycoplasma Gallisepticum outbreak in breeders, originally missed by serology tests, caused progeny outbreaks in 1995.

• Pasteruella Multocida (Cholera) outbreaks in breeders and commercial birds.

• "Leg problems," mainly in the summer, are present, but not a major industry problem.

• A few infections with Ornithobacterium Rhinotracheale were diagnosed in breeders and commercial turkeys.

Ratite Industry

Ms. K. Hicks-Aldredge, a ratite industry representative from Sweetwater, Texas, reported that most of the research desired by the industry is focused on developing

CVC Adds Consultant

SHIPPENSBURG (Cumberland Co.) — Cumberland Valley Cooperative has announced the addition of Michael L. Cook of Mercersburg to its staff.

Cook is joining Cumberland Valley Co-op as a farm consultant and will be working in the Franklin County area. He has been in the agriculture field for several years and brings a broad base of experience with him to Cumberland Valley Co-op.

Cook started his agriculture experience by working on a dairy farm as well as the last three years in a swine production facility. He also has a beef feedlot where he raises cattle.

IndyCar Driver To Promote Equipment

WEST BEND, Wis. — It isn't often that star athletes ask companies for the opportunity to become a spokesperson. It's usually the other way around.

But that's exactly how IndyCar star Scott Pruett has become the national spokesman for Gehl Company, a manufacturer of construction and agricultural equipment.

Gehl Company started using IndyCar racing to promote their products seven years ago when they became the "Official Construction Equipment Company" for Elkhart Lake's Road America and The Toyota Grand Prix of Long Beach, Calf. It was a similar situation then when the two tracks contacted Gehl offering to trade official status, advertising opportunities and tickets and hospitality for use of Gehl Dynalift rough-terrain forklifts and skid loaders.

According to Jim Barnes, national sales manager for Gehl's Construction Division, "Scott called us last spring after he had been testing his IndyCar at Road America. He's building a new house in California and doing a lot of the excavating and landscaping work himself. He had seen some of our equipment at work there and decided that he'd really like to have one of our skid loaders to help him with some of the work in building his new house in California. We chatted and the result is that Scott Pruett has a new Gehl skid loader and Gehl Company has a new spokesman."

Winning IndyCar driver Scott Pruett poses in front of a new Gehl skid loader in front of the home he is building outside of San Francisco, Calif. Pruett will be the new spokesman for Gehl equipment in 1996.

Pruett, who drives for the Patrick Racing Team, finished seventh in year end points and won the first IndyCar race of his career at the Michigan 500 this year.

Drill Shows Many Improvements

MOLINE, Ill. — John Deere engineers have taken the notion "bigger and better" and applied it to seeding equipment.

The result is the new 1520 Integral Drill that holds up to 67 percent more seed than previous models, while offering improved seed-placement accuracy and consistency.

Replacing the 515 and 520 Series, the 1520 Integral Drill is available in both 15- and 20-foot seeding widths. The grain boxes hold 42 and 40 bushels, respectively, which means fewer stops to refill and more time for seeding.

The double-disk furrow openers feature a quarter-inch offset for better penetration in hard soils and moderate residue. A choice of 6, 7½, and 10-inch opener spacing is available.

With a turn of the knob on the optional active hydraulic down-pressure system, the operator can set down-pressure across the drill for consistent opener penetration in varying field conditions and residue levels.

A depth-gauging press wheel on each opener ensures accurate seed depth and proper seed-to-soil contact for uniform emergence.

The John Deere 1520 Integral Drill is available in 15- and 20-foot seeding widths. It features large grain boxes for fewer stops to refill, active down-pressure hydraulics for consistent opener penetration in changing field conditions, and depth-gauging press wheels to further ensure consistent seeding depth.

Case Introduces Soybean Drill

RACINE, Wis. — A larger version of the popular 5400 mounted Soybean Special, the new Case IH 5500 Soybean Special, is a 30-foot, trailing, two-section, front-fold grain drill.

Like the 5400, the 5500 provides many of the advantages of a planter for a price that's competitive with grain drills and more efficient.

According to Kurt Schenck, Case Corporation product manager-implements, the 5500 prepares the ground for seed much the same way Case IH Early Riser® planters do, but uses a grain-drill feed cup metering system.

"The 5500 accommodates the narrower row spacing customers have been asking for," said Schenck. The unit has 24 openers, staggered for 15-inch row spacing, with one 20-inch center skip between drills. It's also available with 7.5-inch spacing.

The new Case IH 5500 Soybean Special is a 30-foot, trailing, two-section, front-fold grain drill. The 5500 prepares the ground for seed much the same way Case IH Early Riser® planters do, but uses a grain-drill feed cup metering system.

The working width without markers is 30 feet 5 inches. The 5500 Soybean Special folds to a transport width of 17 feet 1 inch, conveniently done from the tractor.

Schenck noted that a key consideration in the development of the Soybean Special drills has been the need for equipment that can handle high-residue conditions. The staggered arrangement of the row units provides more clearance for surface residue to pass through the unit.

Improved Corn Lineup Highlights Seed Releases

LINCOLN, Neb. — An improved lineup of early and mid-season corn hybrids highlights the 1996 new NC+ Hybrids product releases.

NC+ will add 10 new corn hybrids for 1996. Half of the new corn releases are under 100 days in maturity.

New corn releases include:

• NC+ 1005: An 86-day hybrid with outstanding yield potential and excellent drydown. Reaches black layer early and has excellent standability. It is adapted to northern and western areas of the Corn Belt with good potential to move south.

• NC+ 1222: A 91-day hybrid with good yield potential for its maturity. Produces high test-weight grain and has very good early growth. Its primary area of adaptation is the Northern and Western Corn Belt.

• NC+ 1366: A 93-day hybrid that produces high quality grain with excellent test weight and good food corn potential. High yields for maturity and rapid drydown. It is adapted for Colorado, Wyoming, western Nebraska, South Dakota and Minnesota.

• NC+ 1585: A 94-day hybrid that dominates yields in its maturity. Excellent drydown and a highly flexible ear for superb performance when planted at medium densities. It has very widespread adaptations from east to west across the Corn Belt.

• NC+ 2075: A 99-day hybrid with very good yield potential and consistent and reliable performance. Good standability, semi-flex ear and very good test weight. Its primary area of adaptation is the Northern and Western Corn Belt.

• NC+ 3711: A 106-day hybrid with high test-weight grain and excellent yields across the Northern and Western Corn Belt. Food-grade quality grain on a white cob and very good standability.

• NC+ 4044: A 107-day hybrid with excellent yields and superb drydown. Responds well to high populations and has improved standability over NC+ 4275. It is adapted to all areas of the Central Corn Belt with good potential to move south.

• NC+ 4919: A 110-day hybrid with superb yield potential and very good fall integrity. Excellent eye appeal with girthy ear and lower ear placement. It has a wide area of adaptation with good southern mobility.

• NC+ 5252: A 111-day hybrid with very good early vigor and good stay green and drydown. Produces tall plant with medium-high ears and very good test weight. Adapted to California and the Eastern Corn Belt.

• NC+ 5445: A 113-day hybrid with excellent yield potential and good tolerance to most foliar disease. Good potential to move south of its main area of adaptation, which includes the entire Central Corn Belt.

New soybean releases include:

• NC+ 2A15: Early Group II. Good brown stem rot resistance and excellent tolerance to iron chlorosis. Outstanding yield performer with excellent adaptations to narrow rows.

• NC+ 2A22: Early Group II. An excellent performer in variable soils. Very good iron chlorosis tolerance and ideal for use in row seeding.

• NC+ 2A85: Late Group II. A top yield performer with exceptional yield for its maturity. Very good standability and excellent drouth tolerance.

• NC+ 3A27STS: Early Group III. Tolerant to SU herbicides with very good emergence. Adapts to any row width and has good phytophthora tolerance.

• NC+ 3A30: Early Group III. Good standability and early emergence. BSR and SCN resistance and good sclerotinia tolerance.

• NC+ 5A44: Mid Group V. Good emergence, good standability and SCN resistance. Moderately resistant to stem canker and frog eye leaf spot.

Encapsulated Formulation To Be Widely Available

WILMINGTON, Del. — TopNotch preemerge corn herbicide, a microencapsulated formulation of acetochlor plus a crop safener, will be widely available to most Northeast growers in 1996.

According to Dr. William Curran, extension weed scientist at Penn State University, TopNotch performed better than several non-encapsulated herbicide treatments in 1995 no-till corn trials. TopNotch also showed as much as 40 percent greater activity on triazine-resistant lambsquarters compared to some other preemerge grass herbicides.

TopNotch was registered for use by the EPA in 1995 in all northeastern states except New York and Massachusetts. It contains the same active ingredient and crop safener found in Surpass EC and Surpass 100.

According to Mark Whalen, product sales lead for Zeneca's Northeast district, TopNotch was designed to provide the most consistent control of annual grasses in no-till corn, including foxtails, fall panicum, barnyardgrass and crabgrass. It also performs exceptionally well in reduced tillage and conventional tillage, as well as on highly organic soils.

Tillage Tool Available With 15-Inch Shank Spacing

BRILLION, Wis. — The versatile Brillion Landcommander™ tillage tool is available with 15-inch shank spacing, in addition to the 24- and 30-inch spacings already available.

"The new 15-inch spacing option makes the Landcommander even more versatile," said Michael Irish, Brillion's general sales manager. "It gives farmers another option, by providing total ground breakout, even in heavy soils."

The Landcommander is the most versatile conservation tillage system available, Irish said, and can be used in the fall or spring. When followed with a Brillion field cultivator and pulverizer, this combination will help producers meet their conservation tillage needs.

Front disc gangs cut through heavy residue while working the ground to a depth of 6 inches. The working depth is easily adjustable, and so is the disc cutting angle, to help make residue management more effective.

Auto-reset shanks follow the front disc gangs and work the ground eight to 20 inches deep, breaking up hard pan and improving water holding capacity and root growth. The shanks feature a unique, parabolic design that pulls easier and stays in the ground better, providing maximum soil lift and shatter.

Tune In To New Holland Radios

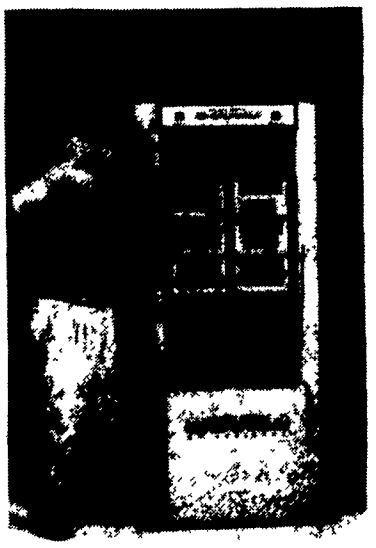
NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — If you're in the market for a new radio for your tractor or combine, New Holland has a complete line of heavy duty radios specifically designed for agricultural equipment.

According to Jared Wills, New Holland product and pricing analyst, New Holland and Audiovox have teamed up to offer farmers a variety of radios, cassette players, CD players, and speakers.

But New Holland doesn't just carry a complete line of agricultural and industrial radios. Your local dealership also has radios for cars, trucks, and lawn and garden tractors. That's why it's important to make sure the radio you purchase is the right radio for the right application.

Wills explains that unlike standard car radios, the Heavy Duty radios are specifically designed to withstand the daily punishment of exposure to dirt, heat, and vibration.

New Holland Heavy Duty radios feature a backup lighting system; a 50 percent larger display panel designed to be viewed from below or above; hi-sensitivity tuners, which help ensure reception even in rural areas; automatic functions for loudness; internal surge protection; external heat sink, which draws heat away from the radio's critical components; and vibration-free design.



New Holland offers a complete line of Audiovox radios specifically designed to withstand the daily punishment of exposure to dirt, heat, and vibration.

"The backup lighting and regulated light bulb circuit features protect the radio from static discharge — the number one cause of failure for non-heavy duty radios," Wills said. "And all Heavy Duty radios are designed to reduce exposure to dust and dirt, a common cause of car radio failure."

The user-friendly design of New Holland's flat-face radio models allows for easier operation by providing large controls and high visibility display. Designed for off-road use, these Weather Band radios receive all seven National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) weather-band broadcasting frequencies so you don't get caught in the rain.

Other features include 20 station memory, electronic tuning with seek mode, 4-way balance/fader, automatic local-distant, loudness and stereo blend circuitry and a variety of cassette player options.

Farm Bureau Starts Membership Drive

GETTYSBURG (Adams County) — The Adams County Farm Bureau membership kickoff meeting will be held on Wednesday, Dec. 27, beginning at 7 p.m. at Hoss's Steak House.

Russell Redding will be the guest speaker. All workers are requested to contact Joel Waybright for reservations.

Recently appointed membership chairperson Joel Waybright said, "The importance of staying organized as a farm bureau and being active in local legislation are two of the main functions of being members in the Adams County Farm Bureau. It is critical to maintain contact with our legislators since less than 1.6 percent of the population is within the farming industry. We need to remain a strong voice to be heard."

President of ACFB, Ed Wilkinson, voiced his concern at a recent board meeting. "Membership is the lifeblood of the organization. The membership of the group is responsible for the development of local policies which are presented as resolutions to the state association to be utilized for the lobbying effort on the state and national levels for the farming community's benefit," he said.

The Adams County Farm Bureau is a general farm organization with a membership listing of 900 farm family members. It is affiliated with the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau. The county unit is active in community affairs and works for favorable legislation for the rural community. It also offers business services to its member families.

The local bureau launched the membership drive in September with a mail campaign to canvass the existing members. Following the mail-in dues, the committee commenced a farmer-to-farmer procurement program.

The thrust this year will be for the team captains and workers to contact every farm family in the county for membership in the association in order to reach this year's goal of 903 members. To date, the organization has totalled 725 paid members.

• In ostrich, research projects on carcass composition, ideal slaughter weights and slaughter conditions, and decreasing fat deposition are being conducted. Much of this research is being done at Texas A & M University.

• A few disease research projects are being conducted as follows: pullorum/typhoid infection/transmission in ratites (University of Georgia); diarrhea (Auburn University); aspergillosis, typically a problem in colder, wetter climates (no specific research site mentioned).

Hicks-Aldredge noted that slaughter ostrich prices are $500-$800 per bird. The ostriches are typically slaughtered at 9 months of age at approximately 220 pounds.

Fuel Tax Agreement Impacts Farm Trucks

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — On Jan. 1, Pennsylvania and nearly all other states will start to administer the program developed under the International Fuel Tax Agreement (IFTA).

IFTA is an agreement among states and several Canadian provinces to standardize the rules for imposing state motor carrier road taxes (fuel use taxes) and other requirements on commercial trucks operating interstate.

The purpose of IFTA is to make the requirements for application of fuel tax decals, filing of quarterly tax returns, and taxation of trucks simpler and more uniform. Each IFTA state will only improve motor carrier road tax requirements on the following vehicles:

* Trucks with a registered gross weight more than 26,000 pounds.
* Trucks with three or more axles, regardless of weight.
* Combinations with a registered or actual weight more than 26,000 pounds.

Pennsylvania trucks and combinations less than these thresholds will not be subject to motor carrier road tax requirements in any of the IFTA states.

A Pennsylvania truck owner whose truck is subject to IFTA will no longer have to acquire separate fuel tax decals from each IFTA state in which the truck operates. The owner will only need a single Pennsylvania IFTA fuel tax decal set. Display of the Pennsylvania IFTA decal set will allow the truck to be operated in all of the IFTA states.

Also, the Pennsylvania truck owner will no longer need to file separate fuel tax returns to each IFTA state in which the truck is operated. IFTA will allow the owner to file a single quarterly return with Pennsylvania and make a single payment of tax to the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue for all IFTA states in which the truck was operated for the quarter reported.

IFTA should benefit many truck owners in understanding which trucks are subject to the motor carriers road tax and in avoiding extensive paperwork in acquiring fuel tax decals and filing tax returns. IFTA should also make it easier for Pennsylvania truck owners to apply fuel taxes paid on Pennsylvania fuel used out-of-state to reduce motor carrier road taxes due in other states.

However, IFTA will have negative consequences for some farmers operating Pennsylvania farm trucks and combinations in another state. If a Pennsylvania farm truck or combination meets IFTA's gross weight or total axle threshold and is operated in another IFTA state, the owner will be required to obtain a Pennsylvania IFTA decal for the vehicle, regardless of whether or not the IFTA state provided a motor carrier road tax exemption to farm trucks.

IFTA may also force an owner of a Pennsylvania registered farm truck or combination subject to IFTA requirements to go through an awkward process of quarterly payment and refund of the six-cent-per-gallon Pennsylvania motor carrier road tax surcharge from which Pennsylvania farm vehicles are currently exempt. Pennsylvania Farm Bureau is seeking to correct this in legislation implementing IFTA in Pennsylvania.

Pennsylvania truck and combination owners subject to IFTA who operate in another IFTA state will be required to apply annually for a set of IFTA decals. For 1996, owners will have until Feb. 29 to obtain IFTA decals. For 1997 and years following, owners will be required to obtain and display IFTA decals by Jan. 1 of the effective year.

As a result of IFTA, the Department of Revenue will be auditing Pennsylvania truck owners' records to assure payment of all taxes due to Pennsylvania and all IFTA states. It will be even more important for Pennsylvania farm truck owners operating interstate to keep thorough and accurate records of mileage driven in each state and fuel purchases in each state for each truck subject to tax to verify the information contained in quarterly returns. The Department of Revenue has an optional form available to assist truck owners in keeping necessary truck records. IFTA requires records to be kept for four years.

Not every state will be a member of IFTA on Jan. 1. New Jersey, Delaware, Kentucky, and Rhode Island are expected to join IFTA on July 1, 1996. Maine, Vermont, and New Hampshire are in another fuel tax agreement, and it is unclear at this point whether these states will become a part of IFTA. A Pennsylvania truck owner wishing to operate in any state that is not an IFTA state on Jan. 1

Wood Products Important

WOOSTER, Ohio — The average person in the United States consumes enough wood and paper products to equal a tree containing a log 22 inches in diameter and 24 feet long. That's about 18 cubic feet of lumber, plywood and fiberboard, as well as 749 pounds of paper.

"Wood and paper products are a big part of our everyday lives," said Bob Romig, wood products specialist for Ohio State University Extension. "The familiar products are the wood for our homes, cabinets and furniture, paper and coffee filters. But more of a tree than just the wood is used."

Tree bark is used in the manufacturing of shoe polish and garden mulch. Cellulose, found in cell walls or fibers of plant tissue, is used to produce rayon clothing, toothpaste, football helmets and hardhats, sandwich bags and piping for irrigation systems. Wood sugars recovered during the pulping process — called torula yeast — are used in baby foods, vegetarian foods, baked goods, and beverages.

Americans use about 90 million tons of paper and paperboard every year, according to the American Forest and Paper Association. Nearly 60 percent of the newspapers distributed in the United States were recovered for recycling in 1994. Sixty-two percent of the nation's used corrugated containers and 37 percent of all office papers were recovered.

Recycling is a good practice, Romig said, but it doesn't save trees.

"Forest products industries promote recycling because it provides an essential source of raw materials and saves landfill space," he said. "About 40 percent of all paper used in the United States is recovered. That provides about one-third of the paper industry's total raw materials supply. The rest still has to come from trees."

But trees are a renewable resource, unlike aluminum and plastic. More trees can always be grown, as long as there is land. When trees are cut, more trees grow naturally or from planted seedlings. Ohio forests are growing more than twice the volume of timber that is being removed — more than 1 billion board feet of wood a year, Romig says. A board foot measures 1 foot long by 1 foot wide and 1 inch deep.

"What's unique about wood is not only its value as an engineering material, but the benefits it provides while it's growing," Romig said. "Trees produce oxygen and act like pumps to cycle water up from the soil and back into the air. Forests provide habitat for wildlife and recreation opportunities."

In 1952, there was an estimated 11.2 billion board feet of wood in all Ohio's sawtimber trees (sawtimber refers to trees that yield logs suitable for production of lumber — they are usually a minimum of 10 inches to 12 inches in diameter). By 1991, there was 30.3 billion board feet. This increase occurred while about 400 million board feet per year was harvested from Ohio's forests, Romig said.

The forest products industry in the United States produces wood and paper products valued at more than $200 billion a year. As many as 1.4 million people are involved in growing, managing and harvesting trees, and producing wood and paper products. In Ohio, 1,500 wood, wood products and paper products firms employ 70,000 people, Romig said. The annual payroll is more than $1.6 billion, and the value of products produced is more than $9 billion.

Despite demands for wood and paper products, the United States has nearly two-thirds of the forest cover that existed in the 1600s, and more than existed in 1900, Romig said. Ohio's forest acreage continues to grow — an additional 740,000 acres have been added since 1979.

Fuel Tax Agreement

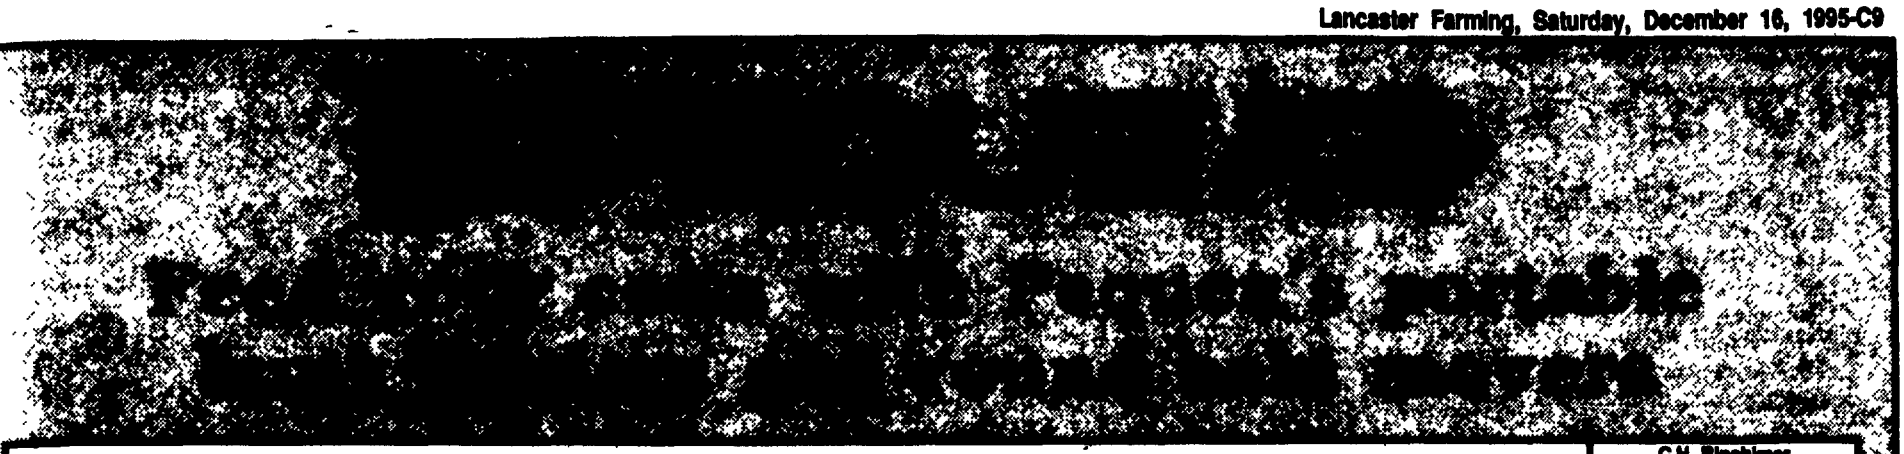
will have to separately meet that state's requirements for fuel tax decals, quarterly filing of tax returns, and fuel use taxes.

Owners of Pennsylvania farm trucks and combinations operated exclusively within Pennsylvania will continue to be exempt from Pennsylvania motor carrier road tax requirements. These vehicles will also continue to be exempt from requirements for fuel tax decals and filing quarterly returns.

For Pennsylvania commercial trucks and combinations operated exclusively within Pennsylvania, the threshold for motor carrier road tax requirements is expected to be changed from the current threshold of more than 17,000 pounds to a threshold that is the same as IFTA. Owners of trucks meeting the new threshold will continue to be required to annually acquire non-IFTA Pennsylvania fuel tax decals and file quarterly tax returns. They will not be required to be subject to IFTA and IFTA procedures, although they do have the option of doing so.

For more information on IFTA and IFTA requirements, call the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue Bureau of Motor Fuel Taxes at (800) 482-IFTA or (717) 787-5355.



Models 510S, 515E, 520, 520H, 525 & 530T Bunk Feeders

Here's a better way to feed your herd! With the Pequea portable bunk feeder, you'll save time – save money. Load it up with silage, haylage, round or square bales or any mixture of grain and forage. Tow it into the field, and feed up to 52 head of cattle at once.

With Pequea's efficient slant-bar system cows can't push each other away from feeding spaces, so you have less feed loss from spills. Convenient low tank height accomodates any size cow.

You can save wear and tear on your pasture and they eliminate heavily trampled spots. Just move it to a new location each day.

The New 520H cattle head gate bunk feeder (below) is the modern answer for holding cattle during breeding, veterinarian, or testing purposes.

High-capacity features in a practical size!

Manufactured for the smaller-scale farmer or horse barmer, the Pequea Model 85 & 110 manure spreaders are built to make a dirty job easier. Constructed of 10 gauge Cor-Ten steel to resist corrosion, the Model 85 & 110 feature Quik-Tach T-bar web chains for ease of maintenance. High-strength steel frame is designed for big loads and fast field travel. Tough, alloy-steel beater and paddles rip through manure for fine, even spread patterns. Ground-drive action minimizes HP requirements. A hydraulic end-gate is available as optional equipment. Both Model 85 bushel & 110 bushel capacity deliver big spreader features in an economical, maintenance-free size.

Beef Club Holds Buyers Award Banquet

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — The Franklin County 4-H Baby Beef Club held its buyers award banquet recently at Kauffman's Community Center.

There were approximately 100 guests. The banquet consisted of 4-H members, parents, and buyers who purchased the steers at the sale in September.

Several guests were honored for their time and shared in this year's club being a success. Among those honored guests were Bob Thomas and his wife, representing WKSL radio station of Greencastle. They gave the club free advertisement on the radio for one week prior to the sale. They were recognized and complimented for an excellent job of advertisement by Club Leader Duane Hawbaker.

Also among the guests was Lori Tracey, 4-H secretary from the extension office. She was complimented for the great job she did during the year. Her duties involve printing and organizing more than 500 booklets and programs for different shows and banquet.

Kathy Deffenderfer, from Burhman's Awards, also was recognized and complimented for an excellent job. She designs and puts together more than 40-50 trophies and plaques that the club gives out over the year. Deffenderfer enjoys her work and says it's worth it all if she can make a young child smile. She also made and donated a colorful sign for the club to use at their concession stand at the Franklin County Fair.

Club officers were introduced as follows: president, Seth Walk; vice president, Jimmy Clappsaddle; secretary, Cheryl Hawbaker; treasurer, Crystal Meyers; social committee chair person, Jodi Meyers; and fair committee chair person, Brad Rife.

Cattlemen's Association Holds Annual Meeting

PEACH BOTTOM (Lancaster Co.) — The Southeast Regional Cattlemen's Association held its annual meeting and dinner recently at the Shady Maple Restaurant in East Earl.

Dennis Byrne, chairman of the board, welcomed everyone and conducted a short business meeting.

Glenn Moyer presented an overview of the past year's programs and accomplishments: membership has grown from 30 last year to well over 60 current members, a beef quality assurance program was presented, program at New Bolton on nutrition, and a farm walk at Wakefield Angus.

Also the association shared in the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association (PCA) field day held in Lancaster County and open house at the University of Pennsylvania's New Bolton Center.

Elections were held for the board of directors. Re-elected were Dennis Byrne, Bobbi McMullen, Mark Ressler, and Dan Siegfried. New members include Larry Nead of Oxford and Casey McAllister, representing the junior members.

Goals for the coming year were discussed. Suggestions included another Beef Quality Assurance Program, participation in the farm city tour, bus trip to Moyer packing, additional farm walks, booths at fairs, and adopt-a-school program.

A program was presented by Dave Ivan of the Pennsylvania Beef Council on getting the positive beef message to schools. He described what materials are available for use by educators and beef producers for all ages from pre-school to college level.

The next program scheduled is Thursday, Jan. 25 at 7 p.m. Dr. Robert Poppenga of New Bolton Center will speak on the Pennsylvania Animal Diagnostic lab, toxic plants, and fungus in feeds.

Anyone wanting more information on the Southeast Regional Cattlemen's Association or their programs, contact secretary Bobbi McMullen, 2384 Robert Fulton Hwy., Peach Bottom, Pa. 17563, (717) 548-3282.

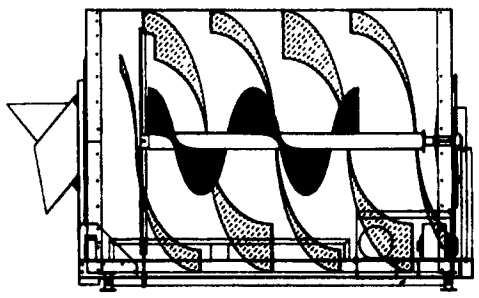
Patz



T.M.R. Mixer

Unique central spiral circulator
No bearings inside the mixer drum

Fewer working parts make the Patz Tumble Mixer reliable (only 3 grease fittings).

As the drum rotates, the central spiral circulator moves feed to the back of the mixer. At the same time, the fliting bolted to the drum in a spiral design move the feed to the front as it mixes with a tumbling action.

- Four sizes
- High-strength, corrosion-resistant steel mixer drum
- Electronic scale
- Low-rate financing available.

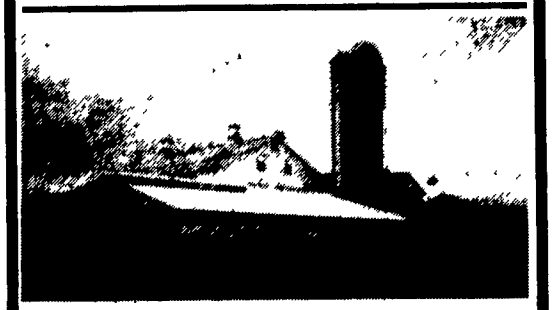
LAPP'S BARN EQUIPMENT
CURTAIN SYSTEMS



Lapp's Curtain System
Lapp's insulated curtains can help you make your farm more efficient. You can save up to 30% on your fuel/energy costs while maintaining a comfortable climate enables livestock to feed into live weight more efficiently, the curtain makes your barn warmer in winter and cooler in summer.

Our curtains are available in both 4 and 6 ply, both of which are faced with a impervious white vinyl layer which faces the elements With all these benefits, the average payback is two years!

A lower cost alternative to the insulated curtains, are Lapp's single layer curtains. You still get all the benefits of using a high quality curtain to keep the elements outside and being able to lower the curtain to naturally ventilate in your barn.

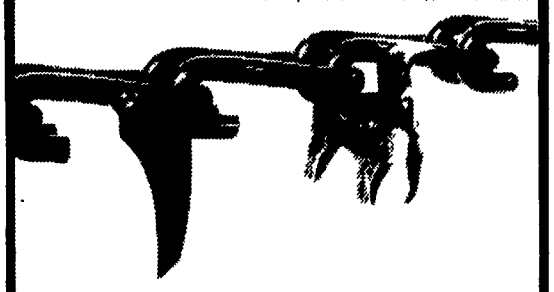
Frozen silage? No problem!



For frozen silage and hard-packed haylage, the Patz cutter-and-claw gathering chain outperforms augers This time-proven chain with its chain-saw cutting action cuts out frozen silage aggressively. Shouldn't your next unloader have a gathering chain?

Consider these Model RD-820 Unloader features:

RING-DRIVE: With the roller-chain ring drive, only one motor powers the machine
AUTOMATIC LOWERING OPTION: A winch lowers the RD-820 automatically after each complete revolution.
POWER CUTTER: Spring tension keeps high-speed, self-sharpening blades tight to the silo wall to shave it clean.
TORQUE LIMITER: Ratchet-pin design protects the ring and drive system while working through conditions.
Affordable financing directly from Patz.

THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING YOUR FEED STORAGE!!

"This is the kind of silo you need to protect your valuable feed."

The major costs on dairy and livestock farms are related to FEED: production...harvesting...storage...purchases...delivery to animals. Significant savings in time and money are possible when you store and deliver your feed from a poured concrete silo.

"As margins narrow, dairymen need to invest in efficiency: This can have as great an influence on Profit as milk price changes."

Protect your valuable feeds from rain, sleet, snow, mud, ice, wind and the sun's heat. Reduce the stress. INCREASE THE EFFICIENCY OF YOUR FEEDS, LABOR, AND LIVESTOCK!

At Sollenberger Silos Corp. we know a lot about feed storage and handling; we've been in the business since 1908. If your plans call for new feed storage, give us a call...We'd like to contribute to your success!!

NO USED SILOS!
NO REBUILT SILOS!
NO PRE-OWNED SILOS!
ALL NEW FOR YOU.

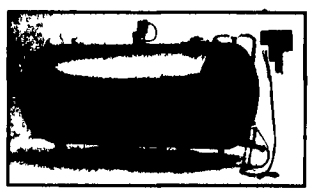
MUELLER
DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT

Scroll-Compressor Technology
New in 1994



You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment cost is not the only cost in cooling milk

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31,000	$28,000
Cost of electricity @ .08 kW for 12,000 lbs milk day for 10 years	$17,550	$22,850
Total operating cost for ten years	$48,550	$50,850
Savings	$ 2,300

Contact your Mueller distributor for further comparisons.

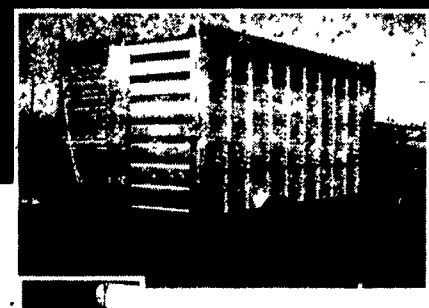
Agriculture Moves on EBY Bodies



M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- LIVESTOCK BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of heights and widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24'; landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer custom options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business- building bodies to haul it is ours.

Let EBY custom build one for you.

Invites You To Their Annual

DISCOUNT CASH & CARRY DAYS

MONDAY, DEC. 18, 1995 through SATURDAY, JAN. 6, 1996

Seasons Greetings,

As we approach the end of another busy year, it is time to reflect a bit on 1995. We hope your harvests have been bountiful and good health and prosperity have been yours. We are extremely grateful for the privelege of serving you throughout the past year and wish to continue to do an even better job in the future.

We will be conducting our annual Customer Appreciation Days, Dec. 18-Jan. 6. During this time prices on certain whole goods items will be significantly reduced. Some new and demonstrated items are also included in the clearance. (Check with us for remaining inventory status). Parts specials will also be in effect. All parts orders over $150 qualify the purchaser for a free gift. Refreshments will be served.

Looking ahead, we anticipate another year of progress in '96. We pledge ourselves to professional representation of our fine product lines and good stewardship of the customer confidence which you entrusted to us.

Thanks again, and may peace and plenty be your portion during this Christmas season and in the year to come.

Sincerely,
The Staff of Binkley & Hurst Bros., Inc.

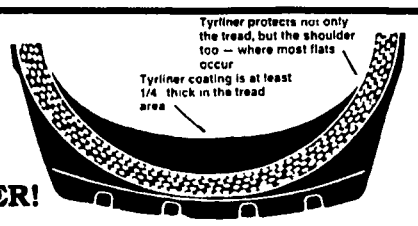
GALAXY SKID-STEER TIRES WITH NEW "TYRLINER" RESIST PUNCTURES UP TO ¼ " IN DIAMETER!



Tyrliner protects not only the tread, but the shoulder too — where most flats occur
Tyrliner coating is at least 1/4 thick in the tread area

It protects both the tread and the sidewall!

- "Tyrliner" reduces your risk of flats - no matter how tough the terrain! Keeps downtime to a minimum.
- Forms air-tight barrier and heals punctures instantly... while you keep working!
- Turns any air tire into a self-healing tire!
- Warranted for the entire life of the casing, all-season Tyrliner is not affected by extreme heat or cold!

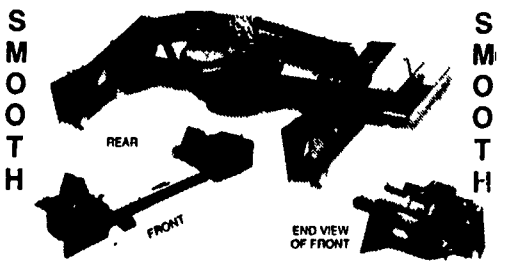
KELDERMAN AIR RIDE



Adding a Kelderman Air Ride Conversion system to your present suspension will result in a two stage suspension system. This is not to be confused with adding an Air bag mounted above the axle. Allows adding extra spring leafs to increase load rating and still maintain Air-Ride comfort.

The bolt on basic package utilizes an air stem mounted in a convenient location to add or remove air from the system.

Optional 12 volt compressor allows changing air pressure setting on the go.

Currently available for front and rear suspension in Dodge Series 250 & 350 trucks. Available soon for Dodge Dakota models.

Also available for some Ford, Chevy and GMC truck models. Special orders available for most motor homes. This option will smooth out the ride on those rough-road fishing/camping trips.

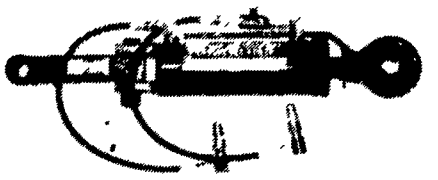
BEARLINK Replacement Top Link Improves The Performance Of Your Three Point Tractor!

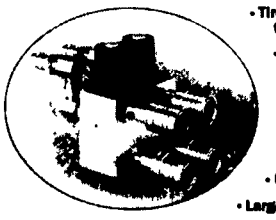
The BEARLINK's seven inch adjustment stroke moves with hydraulic power, automatically locking in place wherever you want it...saving you trips back behind the tractor...making hooking implements or taking them off faster and safer...BEARLINK owners tell of shortening the hydraulic link while turning around at the ends of fields saving damage to equipment and making in-field angle adjustments without stopping...



It's Your Turn TO Profit!
List $669.00

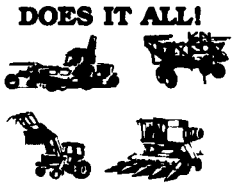
SALE PRICE $589.18

Others report hookups and unhooks without the usual hassles of freeing up the threads and all the usual manual labor associated with their mechanical top link. Every dollar you save in labor costs, time, and damage to equipment or crops... goes directly to your bottom line.



- Tired of climbing down from your tractor just to switch hoses?
- Save time, money and steps!
- Now you control two circuits with the flip of a switch!
- Stay safe - Keep high-pressure hydraulics out of your cab.
- Universal - Fits all tractors
- Large Capacity - 15 gpm

REMOTE MASTER DOES IT ALL!



The REMOTE MASTER lets you use one outlet to control two sets of hoses by moving a three-position toggle switch from circuit A to circuit B, then operating your existing tractor lever for directional control

For A Magnum Tractor See Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc. Your Dealer With Service To Back Every Sale!

BEFORE YOU BUY YOUR NEXT NEW TRACTOR, ASK AN OWNER.

There are more than 50,000 Case IH MAGNUM™ tractors working fields and farms around the world And with over 65 million hours of rugged fieldwork behind them, they've proven what a difference durability, reliability and performance can make

You'll feel that difference in the 7200 Series MAGNUM tractors, ranging from 130 to 215 PTO hp At the heart of every MAGNUM is its 8 3 L diesel engine — the definition of pure agricultural power Not to mention the standard 18-speed full-powershift transmission that gives you complete control of 18 forward and four reverse speeds, as well as an optional creeper transmission that adds six forward and two reverse speeds

Yet with all that performance, there is no shortage of comfort The MAGNUM tractor cab means highly efficient luxury From the ergonomically designed seat to the smart layout of the controls you're surrounded with features that make it easy to put in a full day's work

If you're looking for a proven tractor with all the assets you need to maximize productivity, be sure to test drive a MAGNUM tractor But don't just take our word for it

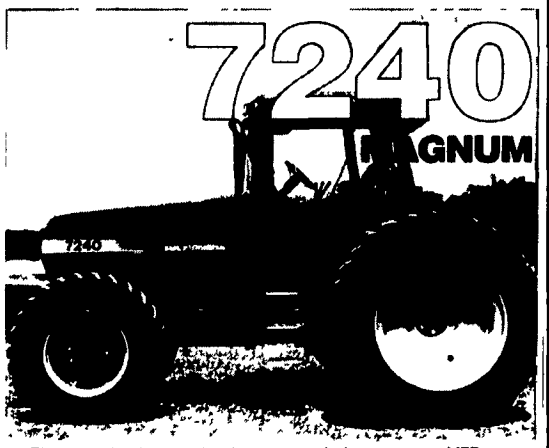
Product Highlights

The MAGNUM™ 7200 Series sets a new industry standard in farm power technology customer convenience quality and value This is the most innovative customer oriented and productive series of tractors since the MAGNUM was originally introduced in 1987 The 7240 MAGNUM offers many important features such as

- 195 PTO horsepower (145 kW) generated by a Case IH turbocharged 505 cubic inch (8 3 L) engine for excellent torque and lugging ability at 2 200 rpm
- Ventilated and sculptured side panels for distinct family styling The panels also provide 40% increased air flow for additional cooling capacity and improved turning radius
- Silent Guardian II cab with outstanding visibility standard or deluxe seat option improved equipment monitor mounting and air conditioning with environmentally safe HFC 134A refrigerant
- Intelligence Center II provides complete information to the operator regarding tractor operation with an automatic shutdown feature to protect your investment and continuously available engine hour meter display
- Precise in cab remote valve flow control adjustment with 180 rotation



- Electronic hitch control with "Hitch Command" that allows the operator to fine tune hitch operation to the application and raise or lower the hitch with a flip of the switch
- 18 speed forward four speed reverse full powershift transmission is standard Operator can shift on the go under full power from first through 18th gears Shuttle shifting from forward to reverse can also be made under load without clutching or reduced shift lever effort when the clutch is depressed This reduces forward/reverse cycle time
- The optional MFD axle can be engaged on the go and includes automatic MFD disengagement feature in brake assisted turns to provide easier turning on the ends of the field
- Optional six speed powershift creeper transmission is ideal for PTO operations where slow ground speeds are needed
- A four-inch bar axle
- Optional dual fender-mounted hitch controls for easier hook-up and adjustment.

The Case International 8312 disc mower conditioner just keeps on cutting – no matter what it encounters Tangled undergrowth rodent mounds ant hills or heavy hay are no match for the heat-treated high-speed rotary discs at the heart of the 8312

A center pivot tongue lets you cut a full 12 foot swath in either direction and maneuver around obstacles Lay down a quick drying swath or fluffy windrow and depending on your crop conditioning rolls can be quickly adjusted for optimum drying

If continuous cutting with a center pivot machine is important to you stop in and see the Case International 8312

Case IH Drills For Seeding In Stock

Plain Type With Soybean And Grass Seed Attachment, And Press Wheels Equipped With Fertilizer Attachment, Press Wheels, Grass Seeder, And Soybean Attachment

There's nothing more important to a crop than early even emergence. To get it, you need accurate, even seeding.

The 5300 has earned a reputation for its seeding precision, a function of its exclusive feed cup design and dependable disk openers. And, to improve placement of seed, the opener drawbars are heavier than on previous models. Press wheels and opener bearings are heavier for long life operation.

Along with accuracy, the 5300 gives you fast, high capacity seeding, so you spend less time refilling hoppers.

We have One New 5300 Drill 16x7 With Fertilizer Attachment, Press Wheels, Double Disk Openers, And Seed View Cups, for Extra Savings Purchase Before Year End

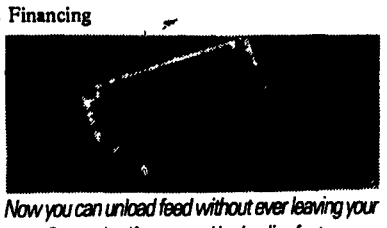
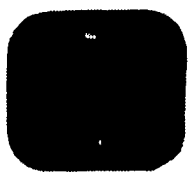
Optional hinged 3 ft. (0.91 m) and 6 ft. (1.83 m) unloading auger extensions provide up to an additional 22 ft. (6.6 m) of reach, so you can better access hog feeders, feed bins, chicken houses or other high and hard-to-reach locations.



Now you can unload feed without ever leaving your seat. Optional self-contained hydraulics feature an in-cab controller that powers the unloading auger lift and swing. A 316 degree swing radius (324 degrees on the 1260) for right or left discharge provides hassle-free unloading in tight quarters



The unloading auger clutch and tank discharge can be electronically actuated and controlled from an optional control box located near the electronic scale.

The hinged unloading auger extensions swing back and latch to the discharge tube for narrow transport.

JUMBO BALES

One Ton Size

It compresses hay equivalent to about 40 conventional bales into a single high density package. The high-end capacity and performance of the 8580 means you can push these big bales through the machine all day — every day. That's a lot of hay.

And it's quality'hay too. The center line design handles the crop gently to preserve nutritious leaves. The bales are uniformly shaped for efficient handling and shipping.

The 8580 also has a full list of standard features. Low profile pickup, pre packer chamber, massive gearbox, heavy duty components throughout, electronic monitoring, double tie knotters and low maintenance. And it's simple to operate.

The Case International 8580 is a JUMBO value too.

8520 & 8530 With Thrower

This Baler Can Save Thousands Of Dollars With Increased Milk Production In Greatly Reduced Leaf Loss Obtained With Our Direct Feed Crop Flow System (Unbiased Testing Has Proven The Facts)

Your Best Buy in Balers is from Binkley & Hurst Bros., Inc.

The Baler That Works!

WHY STRAIGHT IS BETTER THAN SIDEWAYS...

Reason #1 Transport width ranges from 7'11" to only 8'88" on our 8550 Model. Conventional balers are generally 1-foot wider in transport.

Reason #2 No need to widen our baler out once you're in the field or narrowing when leaving the field. The conventional baler must be narrowed and widened. Reduced time and effort means money.

Reason #3 Never a need to pick up bales when opening a field and dropping them on the ground—you can even leave the bale thrower on and drop the back chute. Since the baler and tractor straddles the windrow, the bales dropped on the ground from previous rounds never interferes with the operation.

Reason #4 Gauge wheels are mounted on both sides for better performance. Not so with conventional balers.

Reason #5 Our pickup is half the height of conventional balers. This means less leaves are lost because less travel distance up and over the pickup is required. An optional hydraulic pickup lift is even available.

Reason #6 Conventional balers are high maintenance cross feeders or sweep arms to move hay to the chamber. Our baler feeds hay from the pickup straight into the chamber by the use of a simple stuffer mechanism. Leaves don't fall to the bottom of the chamber and later fall out the back. Due to our design, leaves are placed evenly throughout the bale — the leaves are not given time to settle to the bottom.

Reason #7 Due to our design, our plunger stroke distance is 25-30% less than conventional balers. Example: John Deere 327, 337, 347 and 467 Models = 30" stroke; Case IH 8520 = 21.6" stroke and a high of 23" on our 8550. The result: Less wear, less side to side stress force and less repairs!

Reason #8 The clearance of our needles from the ground far exceeds conventional balers due to the high position of our chamber. This translates to less breakage and bending of the needles due to hitting high places in the field, etc.

Reason #9 We have equal baler weight distribution on both carrying wheels for easier handling and less side pull on hills.

Reason #10 The distance from the end of our bale chamber to the thrower belts is enough so that the thrower doesn't fight the bale; i.e., the bale is not still wedged in the chamber when the thrower first contacts the bale.

Reason #11 Our bale edges are sharp and corners are square on all types of hay - excellent when stackers are used or hay is hauled by truck.

Reason #12 Proven and reliable Deering type knotters on all center line balers.

The planter you can grow with...

The new KINZE Series II Planters introduce an exciting, innovative modular design concept that offers you total flexibility in planting options... plus the most efficient precision placement planting technology.

Think of the possibilities!
With KINZE's Single Frame Planter you can plant 30" corn... and minutes later, convert to 15", even 10" row spacing for beans or for small grains. Or, set it up with liquid or dry fertilizer options instead of push units and save the extra trips and expense of other fertilizer application systems. Or, you can add the front-mounted Double Frame® attachment and do it all—standard rows, fertilizer and split rows. All with the same planter, same drive components, same drive system. Without sacrificing one ounce of that quality KINZE construction.

KINZE ROW UNITS THE KEY TO EARLY SEED GERMINATION

You start with a simple, dependable row unit design with easy adustments that give you exact depth control, and the most ideal seed-to-soil contact possible. At KINZE we call it "Precision Placement." Simply put, it's the toughest most dependable system in the field today.

How does it work? At the exact point of seed placement, 15" double disc openers and dual gauge wheels combine to mold a clean, consistent V-formed seed trench at a pre-set depth. Trailing V-closing wheels then securely press the seed trench walls on each side of the seed for positive seed-to-soil contact, virtually eliminating air pockets and leaving a loose "hill" of soil on top of the seed. It's the ideal environment for the emerging seeding.

Each row unit is independently adjustable for depth and down pressure Spring-loaded parallel arms give you all the flexibility you need. Down pressure? Your choice Standard, quick-adjustable dual springs for conventional planting, or quad springs (shown right) for conservation tillage. Each with four positions so you can set the unit's down force for your conditions

Junior Angus Breeders Parade 95 Entries At NAILE

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Judge Matt Claeys, Raleigh, N.C., selected champions from the 95 heifers exhibited at the 1995 North American International Livestock Exposition Junior Angus Heifer Show.

Top honors went to Jenna Gilbert, Greenville, Ohio, on Champion Hill Aerial 918. Her grand champion is a May 1994 daughter of Century Touchstone 131. She was first named the intermediate champion.

Sonya Smith, Lebanon, Tenn., walked away with the reserve grand champion heifer award. HSAF Miss Pride 113B was the name of her winning entry that was also the reserve intermediate champion. HSAF Prompter ET sired the May 1994 heifer.

Senior champion heifer honors went to Kristopher Lynn, Springfield, Ky., on DKL Garnet Gal 3165, while reserve senior champion was awarded to Champion Hill Jestres Athena, shown by Robert Woodward, Gallipolis, Ohio.

In the junior division, Christy Bell, Monroe, Ga., exhibited the champion. Her entry was Harmony Hill Jestress 435. Patton Lady Agnes 1054 CAF took the reserve junior champion heifer award for Beth Patton, Crawfordsville, Ind.

Kristopher Lynn led Sedgwicks Pride 9974 to the senior heifer calf champion title. Reserve honors in the senior heifer calf division went to Hutch Porter, Jefferson, Ga., on Meldons Bess 8574.

The junior heifer calf champion was NPF Blackbird Forever 5P04. She was exhibited by Cindi Parr, Mason City, Ill. Suzanne Uhey, Perrysville, Ind., won the reserve junior heifer calf champion award with Highland Katy 5.

Grand champion female honors were awarded to Jenna Gilbert, Greenville, Ohio, at the 1995 North American International Livestock Exposition Junior Angus Heifer Show in Louisville, Ky. Champion Hill Aerial 918 is the name of the May 1994 daughter of Century Touchstone 131. She was first named the intermediate champion.

National Survey: No-Till Tops 40 Million Planted Acres

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. — U.S. farmers relied on an environmentally beneficial crop growing system more than ever this year, according to a national survey released by the Conservation Technology Information Center (CTIC).

The annual survey shows farmers used the system, called no-till, on a record 40.9 million acres of cropland in 1995. No-till saves labor, fuel, and equipment costs for farmers while providing soil, water quality, and wildlife benefits.

Total cropland acres planted this year were down 5.4 million nationwide, prompting a decline in every crop growing system except no-till. Farmers planting soybeans led the no-till increase by using the system to plant and manage an additional 2.2 million soybean acres this year, compared to 1994.

"The fact that no-till is the one system that increased in use this year is significant," said John Hebblethwaite, executive director, CTIC. "An overall total of 1.9 million additional cropland acres were planted using no-till, making it obvious farmers are gaining confidence in the economic and environmental advantages of this system."

The three conservation tillage systems are no-till, ridge-till and mulch-till. Following harvest, conservation tillage farmers avoid disturbing (plowing or tilling) the soil in their fields any more than necessary. Instead, they leave the plant materials from the recently harvested crop in the field. The old stem, stalks, and leaves, called crop residues, are left on the soil surface to provide a protective blanket. The goal with conservation tillage systems is to keep 30 percent or more of the soil surface covered with crop residues, even after a new crop is planted.

Farmers planted an additional 2.2 million acres of no-till soybeans this year, compared to 1994. No-till soybean acres now account for 30 percent of all soybean acres planted in the U.S. Farmers, apparently hoping to take advantage of higher cotton prices, planted an additional 2.3 million acres of cotton this year, compared to last. No-till cotton increased by almost 116,000 acres or 20 percent this year. Farmers planted 6.1 million fewer acres of corn in 1995, compared to last year. No-till corn planting declined by 1.2 million acres but remains at 18 percent of total corn acres planted in the U.S. (same as last year). Total cropland acres planted in 1995: 278.6 million, compared to 283.9 million in 1994, for a decline of 5.4 million planted cropland acres in 1995.

- No-till added an additional 1.9 million planted acres for a total of 40.9 million acres.
- Mulch-till declined by 2.2 million acres for a total of 54.5 million acres.
- Ridge-till declined by almost 165,000 acres for a total of 3.4 million acres.
- Reduced-till declined by 3 million acres for a total of 70.1 million acres.
- Conventional-till declined by 1.9 million acres for a total of 109.6 million acres.

Over the last five years, no-till has continued to post solid gains, led by substantial increases in no-till soybeans. The no-till gains have come despite the Great Flood of '93 and a very wet planting season in many parts of the country this year, which delayed or prevented corn planting. Ridge-till traded several consecutive years of slight increases for a slight decline this year, which apparently represents a shift to the no-till category. Mulch-till's numbers have stayed rather flat to down for the last five years but it remains the largest category among conservation tillage systems. Reduced-till was the category which lost the most acreage this year and could account for some of the shifts to higher crop residue categories. Conventional-till systems, which tend to involve the most intensive tilling or plowing of the soil surface, posted a sizable loss in acres planted this year.

The top five no-till states, based on planted acres, are Illinois (5.9 million acres), Indiana (4.4 million), Iowa (4.3 million acres), Ohio (3.9 million acres), and Missouri (2.8 million acres).

The top five no-till states, based on percentage of total cropland acres planted to no-till, are Kentucky (47 percent), Maryland (43 percent), Tennessee (42 percent), Delaware (39 percent), and Ohio (38 percent).

The top five mulch-till states, based on planted acres, are Iowa (6.7 million acres), North Dakota (4.7 million acres), Texas (4.6 million acres), Nebraska (4.5 million acres), and Kansas (4.4 million acres).

The top five ridge-till states, based on planted acres, are Nebraska (1.5 million acres), Minnesota (361,000 acres), Kansas (330,000 acres), Iowa (225,000 acres), and South Dakota (119,000 acres).

Illinois leads no-till season (single crop) soybean states (3.2 million acres planted), followed by Indiana (2.4 million acres), Iowa (2.3 million acres), Ohio (2.1 million acres), and Missouri (1.3 million acres). In 1995, Indiana became the first major soybean producing state to plant more than 50 percent (51 percent) of all its soybeans no-till. States which registered a 29 percent or greater increase in no-till soybean acres this year include South Dakota, Kansas, North Dakota, Oklahoma and Nebraska. Illinois, Ohio, Iowa, Missouri and Nebraska showed the greatest growth in no-till season soybean acres, each adding 200,000 or more acres in 1995.

Iowa is the leading no-till corn state (1.9 million acres planted), followed by Illinois (1.8 million acres), Nebraska (1.6 million acres), Indiana (1.4 million acres), and Ohio (1 million acres). No-till corn acres declined in Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, Ohio, and Indiana this year while increasing in Kansas, Nebraska, North Carolina, Kentucky and Alabama.

No-till small grains, led by wheat, posted an 800,000-acre increase this year. North Dakota, Kansas, Montana, Ohio, and Illinois each gained more than 50,000 acres of no-till wheat and small grains in 1995.

North Carolina and Georgia helped lead the way in the southern and mid-south states where no-till cotton increased by almost 116,000 acres this year. North Carolina and Georgia each grew an additional 44,000 acres of no-till cotton in 1995 and Louisiana added more than 15,000 no-till cotton acres. Virginia, Florida, South Carolina, Arkansas and Oklahoma also contributed to the upswing. Tennessee, Mississippi and Alabama posted slight declines but Tennessee remains the leader in no-till cotton with more than 200,000 acres planted in 1995.

These highlights are from the National Crop Residue Management Survey which is compiled and published annually by the Conservation Technology Information Center (CTIC) in cooperation with the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS). CTIC is a nonprofit information/data transfer center that promotes environmentally and economically beneficial natural resource systems.

The Conservation Technology Information Center (CTIC) is offering its new '95-'96 catalog free. The eight-page catalog is ideal for anyone interested in crop residue management, watershed management, water quality, wetlands, nutrient management, and pest management. American Cyanamid, Deere Share Safety Technology

WAYNE, N.J.—Two of the nation's leading agricultural companies, American Cyanamid Company and Deere & Company, announced that the patented valve technology utilized in the innovative Lock 'n Load closed handling system is now more widely available to the agrichemical industry.

The two companies jointly developed the Lock 'n Load closed handling system and this unique valve interface which allows virtually exposure-free filling of insecticide hopper boxes.

Howard L. Minigh, president of Cyanamid's Agricultural Products Division, said, "When we launched the Lock 'n Load closed handling system, we were hopeful that it would become the industry standard—and we are very close to achieving our goal. The availability of this proprietary valve technology will allow agrichemical companies to offer a standard interface for planters whether they choose to use the established Lock 'n Load closed handling system or alternative containers or delivery systems. We are pleased to take this additional step towards industry standardization and encourage all companies to approach Cyanamid or Deere & Company for licensing details."

Industry-wide adoption of this valving system, as a part of the Lock 'n Load closed handling system or as a part of delivery systems that are under development by other manufacturers, will insure that all granular insecticides can be delivered through one standard interface. Insecticide product manufacturers benefit through access to a commercially available valve with proven marketplace performance. Standardization of this state-of-the-art valve will allow farmers the flexibility to alternate between insecticide brands without changing planter lid receiving valves.

Va. Fair Honors Angus Champions

RICHMOND, Va. — Breeders paraded 55 heifers, 24 bulls, and three cow-calf pairs for judge Jack Ward, Roanoke, Ind., here at the 1995 Virginia State Fair Angus Show.

Top honors in the bull show went to Hill Crest Viper 033, an April 1993 son of V D A R New Trend 802. Annfield Corporation, Boyce, Va.; Susan Rucker, Delaplane, Va.; and Houston Moore Jr., Lewisburg, W. Va., own the winning entry that was first named senior champion.

Taking home the reserve grand champion bull title was Justin Updike, Washington, on his senior bull calf champion entry named Skyway Hills 6807 1126. He is a September 1994 son of D H D Traveler 6807.

Ward selected Ankony Pride V714 as his grand champion female. The February 1994 daughter of N Bar Emulation EXT was exhibited by Clear View Farm, Louisa. She first topped the junior division.

The reserve grand champion female was I N A Pride 810V, a September 1994 daughter of Rito 9FB3 of 5H11 Fullback. John Nicolai Jr., Gordonsville, owns the entry that first won the senior heifer calf division.

KNIGHT

3000 Series Reel Auggie Mixer®

3000 SERIES REEL AUGGIES FEATURE THE FOLLOWING ADVANTAGES:

- Blends by gently lifting, fluffing, and tumbling the entire load, reducing mix time, power requirement, machine wear, and dead spots
- Aggressive upper and lower auger with hardened, replaceable knives, for thorough end-to-end movement
- Shear angle for both the upper and lower auger
- Simple slide tray or three auger discharge available
- Oil bath drive with external grease banks
- Constant Velocity PTO with integral slip clutch
- Hay-Max Kit option for better break-up of most hay and bulk materials
- Tow, truck mounted, and stationary units from 147 to 488 cubic feet

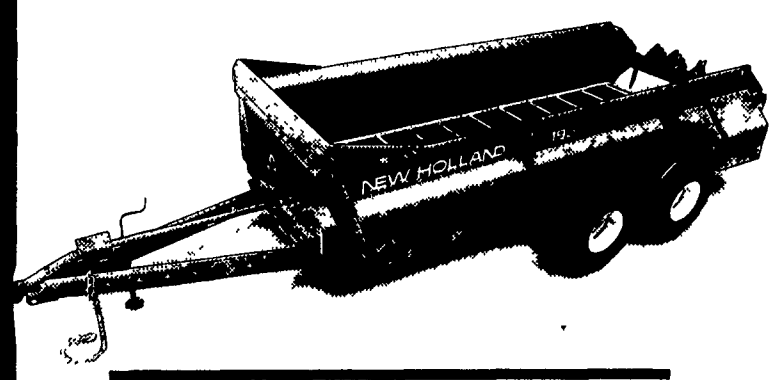
CAPACITY KING



THE BIGGEST

The New Holland Model 195 box spreader is up to your biggest spreading job.

- Capacity. The "195" takes on 410 bushels (440 cu. ft.) without flinching.
- Strong construction. Corrosion-resistant steels last and last. And an HDPE floor means smooth unloading, even in cold weather.
- Bonded Protection warranty. If the polyethylene floor fails or the sides rust, we'll replace them free for 12 years.
- Fast clean out...even with this big-capacity strong box.
- Large tandem oscillating wheels. Allow faster ground speeds in rough terrain, with less ground compaction.

Check out our biggest New Holland spreader ...from the biggest name in spreaders.

If we could build a better Robin, we would!

AND WE DID!

Try the new Robin
(Formerly Wisc.-Robin)!

Same quality features they always had but now with Overhead Valves and all the latest technology. All this plus a much lower price (Due to more direct marketing) makes it today's best engine buy.

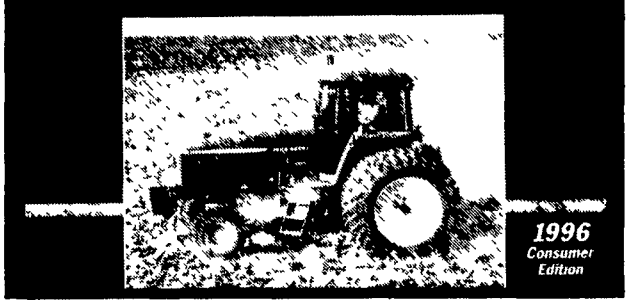
Intertec
Used Tractor Price Guide



For over 45 years, Intertec has made a business of knowing the used equipment market. That's why we're able to offer you comprehensive tractor pricing, specification and loan value information. Introducing the 1996 Used Tractor Price Guide. Covering over 25 manufacturer's models from 1970-1995, this handy reference provides you with detailed information on engine size, transmission speeds, PTO hp, drawbar hp, shipping weight, approximate retail price when new, estimated trade-in values (high and low) and more. You'll also find special sections covering tractor serial numbers and their locations. Covering many tractors from 1924 through 1992. So if you're buying or selling a tractor...or just interested in model specifications, turn to the 1996 Used Tractor Price Guide for complete reference information. 1996 editions/5.5x8" softbound/Enlarged Edition 320 paper pages $9.95.

Finally, a practical way to apply organic mulch to row crops

Organic mulch is the natural way to suppress weeds, help retain soil moisture, and improve soil conditions. Trouble is, hand mulching takes too much time and effort. Now the Millcreek Row Mulcher makes it easy and affordable to mulch berries, grapes, fruit trees, and other row crops. One operator can mulch an acre in just a couple hours depending on conditions.

Spread A Variety of Materials, Including Lime

You can spread all types of stemless flowable mulches, such as wood chips, sawdust, chopped bark, even compost, with plenty of clearance to avoid plant damage. Plus, the Millcreek Row Mulcher is ideal for banding lime and other materials requiring lighter applications. The optional metering gate gives you complete control of the coverage so you can tailor applications to best suit your cultivation practices. With the labor-saving versatility you get with the Millcreek Row Mulcher, you may even find new techniques to grow better crops.

For Small Growers
This may be the affordable machine you've been looking for to mulch berries, grapes, and other row crops. Think of the labor you'll save.

For Commercial Growers
Choose from 3.1, 4.5, and 6.8 cubic yard capacities. Or call to discuss your special requirements.

One "Farm-Tough" Machine
With our own farming background, we take great satisfaction in building affordable machines for growers like you who need reliable, trouble-free equipment to help increase production and keep costs down. That's just what the Millcreek Row Mulcher will do for you. Call today.

At Last...

...a Boom Sprayer for multi-crop produce farmer that is affordable and will do the job from sweet corn to melon crops.

With features like...

- 24 ft one-side boom that allows for 50ft. coverage between drive rows.
- Easy boom height adjustment from 2ft. to 7 1/2 ft. for sweet corn.
- Hydraulic leveling on the go allows uniform boom height from the crop.
- 280 PSI, 15 GPM diaphragm pump with power shaft for quick hookup.
- Adjustable wheel spacing and tongue height.
- Rubber mounted boom to absorb shock

With the high cost of chemicals, the right Sprayer is needed

The high quality of corn forage produced by the JAGUAR is derived from the CLAAS corn cracker. Two saw toothed rollers run at different speeds with 20% difference open up virtually every kernel and this means good quality silage which is easily digested. This makes for highest energy transfer for higher milk and meat yields.

The rollers are subject to wear and tear, so the CLAAS corn cracker features removeable outer sleeves. The shafts, drive pulley and bearings are all reused, thus reducing maintenance costs. Foreign bodies pass through thanks to a spring loaded mechanism. The 7.7" diameter of the corn cracker rollers is exceptionally large. The speed differential intensifies the grinding effect for effective opening of the kernels.

The degree of corn cracker intensity is adjustable to take account of differing dry matter content. This is done mechanically. An optional electrical adjustment is available.

Since the corn cracker stays on the machine, the changeover from corn to grass can always with a minimum of preparation. This is a help when grass and corn are being harvested at the same time. The area around the corn cracker ahead of the cooling system is very large, enabling ease of access to parts you wouldn't otherwise be able to reach. For instance the accelerator or ejection chute.
